She has a fine variety of flowers besides several different kinds of garden truck. One of Mrs. Lohman's chief delights is to get in her garden and work in and out among the different plants growing. Several bouquets of flowers have been given away to the sick and still there is a quantity left. The garden has been admired by many people and some can take lessons from Mrs. Lohman's ideal miniature flower and truck garden.

—Sam Johnson of the United States, the colored tramp who was arrested about two weeks ago and was placed on the chain gang cracking stone, has left Honesdale for parts unknown, much to the pleasure of all concerned. Johnson pretended to work on the street under Commissioner Weldner, but his natural characteristics got the better of him and he loafed a great deal of that time. Commissioner Weldner finally gave him the third degree and being unable to stand the test Johnson left town this week. While here the county was compelled to give him free board, consequently no one regrets his going.

—Excavation for the cellar of the new Protestant Episcopal church at Indian Orchard was commenced Thursday morning. The church will be located along the Hawley road and in front of the cemetery. Rev. A. L. Whittaker, rector of Grace Episcopal church, who established a mission at Indian Orchard and has conducted regular services at White Mills, together with Samuel Saunders, are deeply interested in the new church, and to whom much credit is due for the establishment of the new church. There are a number of attendants at the Episcopal services and since Rev. A. L. Whittaker has been conducting services at both Indian Orchard and White Mills the interest manifested necessitates the building of an edifice in which to worship. The parishioners are all enthusiastic workers and a strong church will undoubtedly be the result of the efforts being put forth.

THE SUMMER BOARDER

Farmers in Damascus township are improving their properties and remodeling their homes preparatory to taking summer boarders. There are a number of beautiful places in this old township that would make ideal resorts for city people and townspeople, too, for that matter.

At Beachlake the houses are all filled. Horace Budd is entertaining thirty-four guests, while the other houses have all that can be comfortably taken care of. Bowling is the chief amusement at this popular resort. Contests are on almost every day and a number of high scores have been made.

During the present week it is estimated that between 100 and 200 boarders have been in Honesdale. Many have visited the different stores and they are welcome guests to the merchants and townspeople at large. The summer guests are all highly pleased with gladness in Honesdale and it is hoped the time will not be distant before even larger members will be here.
