IF WILEY SHOULD RESIGN.

[By S. S. Robinson.]

Some want "Doc" Wiley to resign.—They're bound that he shall go, They have no use for pure-food laws, It hurts their business so.

They want to dope our food and drink With cheap obnoxious stuff,—They do not care for human life, Their hearts are hard and tough.

The fine wheat flour would then be mixed With harmless looking clay,—Our stomachs into brick-yards turned.

To labor night and day; The meat we buy would be "embalmed,"

The coffee made from flour, The baking powder two-thirds starch,

With little leavening power. The soda-water will be doped

With coal tar products vile, The whisky will be compound be

Of watered fussed "lie." The candy will be sweetened dough,

The sugar mixed with sand,—The tea and spices won't escape

The dopers cunning hand. The benzoate of sodium

Will in the canned goods be, The vegetable's well as fruit,—

Preserved by acid "free." The "coppered" peas will tempting look,— They'll buy a lovely green,—

They'll be as good as tonic pills To make one's hunger keen.

We'll buy the colored oleo For butter that is real;

The lard will be an awful mess Not fit to grease a wheel.

The drugs will be no earthly good To combat with disease,

We'll have to take the "Water Cure" And drink some plain herb teas.

If Doctor Wiley should resign 'Tis plain to see our fate,

We'd die off like the poisoned flies By things we drink or eat.

So let us hope that "Doc" will stay, And keep his same old place,

He is a benefactor sure Unto the Human Race.

THEODORE DAY.

Dyberry, Aug. 1, 1911.

Death of Joseph Higgins.

Joseph Higgins, aged about 32 years, died of lung trouble at the home of his mother, Mrs. Ellen Higgins, on Ridge street, Thursday about noon. Besides his mother he leaves one sister, Miss Mary Higgins. Mr. Higgins has been home since a year ago last May. He was an exceptionally bright young man and was admitted to the bar at Eagle Pass, Texas, when but 18 years of age. His mother and sister have the entire sympathy of the community in their bereavement.

Death of Stephen Bergman.

Stephen Bergman died at his home Wednesday evening after an illness of four days of chronic gastritis. Mr. Bergman was a faithful employee of O. M. Spettigue and worked at his trade, that of tinsmith, up to within a day before an operation was performed to relieve him of his suffering. He was taken suddenly ill last Friday night and on Saturday Dr. Charles Thompson, of Scranton, assisted by Dr. W. T. McConville, of this place, operated upon Mr. Bergman. The stomach was found to have been perforated and food had oozed out and had started to ferment around the intestines. His condition was not very encouraging from the time of operation, as Mr. Bergman was not allowed to take any nourishment into his stomach, owing to several stitches having been taken to close the perforation made by the ulcer. If food had been taken the action of the stomach would have broken the stitches and the patient would have been no better. The mortality in cases of this kind is high owing to the patient being unable to take nourishment. Much also depends upon the physical condition of the patient.

Stephen Bergman was born in Honesdale September 13, 1869, where he has resided his entire life. For about twenty years he has been in the employ of O. M. Spettigue, with the exception of two different times when he formed a partnership with Charles Markey and another time with Harry Deck, both of which were of short duration.

Fraternally, Mr. Bergman was a member of two organizations, Oslek Tribe of Red Men and Fraternal Order of Eagles. He was also an active member of Alert Hook and Ladder company of Texas No. 2.

Mr. Bergman leaves a wife, two daughters, Helen and Hilda; also two brothers and three sisters, namely, Christian, George, Mrs. Joseph Westbrook, Mrs. Edward Taylor, all of Honesdale, and Miss Anna Bergman, at home.

The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon from St. John's Lutheran church; Rev. C. C. Miller will be the officiating pastor. Interment will be made in the German Lutheran cemetery.

OVER NIAGARA IN A BARREL. Bobby Leach Badly Battered But is Able to Be About. "Bobby" Leach, 49, of Niagara Falls, Ont., Tuesday afternoon went over the Horseshoe falls at Niagara Falls, N. Y., in a barrel and still lives. Though he was severely battered and bruised in the drop of 158 feet over the brink of the cataract, he sustained only superficial injuries and Tuesday night was able to be about his house. This is the second time in the history of the river that the trip in a barrel on October 24, the cataract has ever been successfully navigated. Mrs. Anna Edson by police on both sides of the river, Leach was forced to make his start from LaSalle, a village 2 1/2 miles above the cataract on the United States side of the stream. Albert Mang and William Perry, old rivermen, took him out in a launch into the Canadian channel. They stopped at Navy Island, where everything was made shipshape and Leach was placed in the barrel, a steel affair 11 feet long, the ends of laminated wood. Leach was hung in a canvas hammock.

He was badly exhausted when taken out of the barrel below the falls and it was necessary to apply oxygen to revive him. He thought that his leg was broken, but examination showed that it was merely sprained. "I minded the tumbling above the falls more than the big drop," said Leach. "It came near killing me, the way I was tossed about before I hit the brink."

HOW TO MAKE JELLY "JELL." One of the most pressing topics in house-keeping circles is how to get jelly to "jell," and what the reasons may be for its refusing to attain that delectable state. This is not a subject confined to the women of the household by any means. Mere man is perhaps not as much interested in it just now, but he will be during the winter months when the jelly put up during the summer makes its debut upon the table.

The question is so important that an enterprising newspaper, the Cleveland Press commissioned an expert on preserving, Alice Gitchell Kirk, to present to its readers the real "Reasons Why Jelly Won't Jell." While we are not competent to pass upon the soundness of her deductions we must say that her conclusions appeal to us as sound and we know of no better service we can render the people of Honesdale just at present than to make a brief digest of Miss Kirk's copyrighted article.

As to the kind of fruit to be used Miss Kirk says: All fruits for jelly should be purchased UNDER RIPE, as at this time there is a starchy substance called PECTIN which is necessary for jelly, and this quality is lessened as the fruit ripens. If the fruit should be over-ripe and the juice ferment or the jelly is cooked too long, the pectin loses its power of making jelly.

Having caught your berries you proceed as follows: Berries should be placed a few at a time in the colander and washed quickly so as not to absorb the moisture. Then put into a large bottom aluminum preserving kettle and heat until the juices are well started. Pour all into a double, three-cornered cheese cloth bag and hang up to drip. A 10-cent harness hook screwed up over the kitchen sink where the bag has room to hang and drip into a bowl is a great convenience. Do not squeeze the jelly bag if you wish the jelly bright and sparkling. You may do so and boil the juice separately.

Where no water is added to fruits bring the juice for five minutes (never hard boiling with or without the sugar). Have the sugar heating in a moderate oven.

A FAILURE.

[By Ella R. Littell.] Yes, Jim, I'm sure a failure, Lord knows I've done my best; I've worked like a slave all my life, and never had any rest.

For even in meetin' I'm plannin' how Kate and the kids can be fed. And the thought of it ha'n'ts me sometimes till I'm almost out o' my head.

I've got a good woman, Jim, of man, no better will ever live; How she has set up nights, and worked, and scrimped, and give But now her health's a fallin' an' what am I goin' to do.

With six young ones to take care of, and the baby 'aint yet two? My brother's a Baptist preacher—oh no, he 'aint much like me—I 'aint one of the pious sort—some how I couldn't be;

He's gettin' an awful salary—six hundred a year or more, While I'm a fightin' and strugglin' just to keep the wolf from the door.

Just look at old 'Squire Wheeler, now, he's the richest man in town, He's al'ays climbed right up the hill, while I've been goin' down;

I never made any money—I wasn't built that way, But everything comes to some folks; they can al'ays make things pay.

I'm gettin' about discouraged; no use to fight against Fate; And I know what will be will be, I al'ays have told Kate.

And if it's God's will that I should be poor, why poor I've got to be; It's just as plain as the nose on your face, that's the way it seems to me.

My life has been a hard one; there's no denyin' that, I'm just an all round failure, but don't please pass the hat; But still I can't help hopin', Jim, that some time I shall know, Why 'tis that every prize in life, has al'ays missed me so.
