ENGLISH AS SHE IS SPOKE.

" May we take the Court House?" asked a charming summer girl, camera-laden, and surrounded by a bevy of equally charming summer girls.

"You may," answered the reporter, "only don't take the building along."

A CERTAIN RICH MAN.

He is one of the three richest men is in America, or one of the four rich-the est; and he isn't Mr. Rockefeller, ted Mr. Carnegle or Mr. Morgan. His is first wife divorced him under the laws of the state of New York and the court forbade his marriage—at least within a certain term of years. But there are other states, and the rich man may lawfully take a second wife by getting beyond New York jurisdiction. It is precisely at this point that our divorce laws develop one of the gravest scandals in the so-cial life of this country. A divorced person, even when that person was the guilty party, may do with impunthe guity party, may do with impulsity in a neighboring state what he is forbidden to do in his own state. Then he may safely return to his home, grinning at his own effrontery in bamboozling justice.

in this situation, which is by means novel, it is gratifying to read the following editorial in the New York Evening Post:-

The coming marriage of a divorced millionaire who has been forbidden to remarry by the courts of this state will serve a useful purpose in invigorating the campaign for uniform divorce laws. In this particular instance, the divorced man is a resident of this state, in which he has large financial interests. After his remarriage he will doubtless live in this city, under the eyes of the court which forbade him to remarry within the boundaries of New York. the eye of common sense, this looks was like contempt of court. It seems as if there were something that ought to be done, even if our lax divorce laws make it possible for him to remarry legally elsewhere. It would seem to be only proper that such a defler of the courts should at least be compelled to live outside of the state of New York if he will not respect justice within it.

To dwell a moment on the social aspect of this coming marriage is tempting. The rich man is the head of a family which has long been supreme in the fashionable society of New York. His honored mother's invitations to her annual ball spoke the last word concerning the social ambitions and conflicts of her time. It will naturally be the son's aim to force recognition of his second wife by society as its unquestioned leader. statement credited to two prominent society women at Newport in-timates that, with the unlimited resources for entertainment which will be massed behind wife No. 2, she will have an easy time, probably, in asserting her social premiership. No doubt, it is hopeless to look for effective resistance from that quarter, enfeebled and corrupted by the most sordid ideals, society would dare risk nothing in opposition to $200,000. 000 .- Springfield Republican.

"This potato stalk which you sent to us is infected with the Potato Stalk Borer. This is the larva or grub of the little black snout beetle. It has been a very serious pest in potatoes in the eastern, southern and southeastern parts of this state, and appears to be spreading.

"When the stalk is once infected with the pest, it is really impossible o do anything for it, for the reason that the insect feeds inside the stalk. where spray liquid can not reach it. Therefore, preventive means consists chiefly of cultural methods, and these must be adopted. In the first place, Therefore, preventive means consists

the Stalk Borer.

"A grower can detect the presence of the Stalk Borer by splitting the vines and finding the grubs at work within. If the stalk or vine has been bored out or eaten out by insects, he may be pretty sure that this pest is the one that was responsible. It is very important that all vines in the same field or patch where any were so attacked, should be raked together and burned as soon as possible after detecting. This is to destroy the insects which remain within them, and is one of the best means of helping in the dry weather has been unsually severe on practically all farm crops, and also on fruits. #### FOR GRUBS BORING IN SHADE TREES.

A banker in Clearfield, Pa., finds that some pest is boring into his su-gar maple trees, and writes to State Zoologist Surface for information as to the proper treatment.

The reply of Prof. Surface was as 'The best thing to do for sugar maple trees that have been attacked by grubs boring into them, is to find the holes, if possible, and with a spring bottom oil can, inject into each the liquid known as carbon bisulfide. Then close the hole with clay or mud. Also, cut off and burn the dying branches, and invigorate the trees by scattering around them nitrate of soda, varying the amount from one ounce to one and one-half pounds for each, depending upon the size of the tree. Scatter this broadcast from the trunk to a distance farther than the branches extend. Then water the ground well, seeing to it that enough water is used to A pest of increasing importance in this state is the Potato Stalk Borer, this state is the Potato Stalk Borer, a mulch of leaves, strawy manure, a mulch of leaves, strawy manure, a cover the ground, or keep
