STAND BY THE TICKET.

There is every reason why the Republicans of Wayne county, in common with members of the party in other sections of the country, should taining an out-of-town guest stand by the ticket placed in nomination at the recent primary election, voting themselves for all of the candidates and urging their friends and neighbors to do the same.

One of the strongest reasons why they should do so is the fact that the candidates were the choice of a majority of the party in a primary election that brought out an unprecedentedly large vote and that was conducted fairly.

If the Republicans stand loyal to their candidates at the election, we have no fear of the result.

WOMEN STENOGRAPHERS NOT WANTED.

Collector Loeb gives a rational explanation of the Government policy of preferring men to women strenographers in the customs service. "The position is a step to higher ones and it is obviously impossible to make women inspectors of baggage or deputy supervisors." And while "a man's chances in Government employ are very large, there are limitations to a woman's, for there are many positions she cannot occupy."

Mr. Loeb and Mr. Cortelyou are each examples of a stenographer's chances in the Government service. Some of the great railway systems, both in the East and West, which have adopted a similar policy as respects the employment of stenographers allege the same reason of ineligibility of women for promotion to executive positions.

It was prhaps inevitable that as woman's adaptability to office work is more fully tested in competition with man's it should show limitations is more fully tested in competition with man's it should show limitations such as those revealed in railroad and Government employ. Some reaction was sure to come from the sudden vogue of woman's labor in this field, and the question of concern to business women is as to how far the field, and the question of concern to business women is as to how far the reaction will go. Where a stenographer is employed only as a stenographer and without regard to promotion, women may occupy an equal place with men. But where a stenographer is a link in a system, a potential division superintendent or Treasury official, man must continue to enjoy the advantage which freedom from physical inferiority gives.

THE "GRACE DARLING OF AMERICA."

They called Ida Lewis the "Grace Darling of America," and she had quite as just a claim to fame as the English heroine. Most of her life has been spent in the old lighthouse at Lime Rock that guards the harbor of Newport. Her father, keeper of the lighthouse, was paralyzed in the county court in Harrisburg. Miller fifties, and his 16-year-old daughter took up his duties. It was in 1858 that she began the series of daring rescues that resulted in saving so many lives. A sailboat capsized and four young men were left helpless in a lives. A sailboat capsized and four young men were left helpless in a by the name of Gilbert who had been heavy sea. In a terrible gale in 1867 she saw two men with a boatload of sheep about to sink in the harbor. She saved the men then returned and saved the sheep. She feared neither storm nor

These are only a few examples of the courage in saving human life which made her one of the best known of American women. Though she was married to William H. Wilson in 1870, she will always be known as Ida Lewis. Her honors brought few substantial rewards, and she has lived her seventy-two years in the old lighthouse whose lamp she trimmed as a child and from which she began to sally forth on her errands of mercy more than half a century ago.

THE WAYNE COUNTY JUDGESHIP [From the Easton Free Press.]

Judge A. T. Searle of Honesdale, Wayne county, who was appointed to succeed Judge Purdy as President Judge of that county, should be pleased with the flattering endorsement of his party at the primary election. Judge Searle was called upon to preside in the courts of this county during the recent illness of Judge Scott. Those who attended Judge Scott. Those who attended the sessions of this court were pleased with the manner of conducting cases. He is unusually prompt in his rulings, and showed that he had a profound knowledge of legal principles, and at the same time his suav-ity of manner and evident desire to understand all phases of the ques-tions submitted to him, demonstrated that he was possessed of the right kind of a judicial mind. He was courteous and impartial throughout and left a most pleasant impression on the lawyers and others interested in our courts.

character and attainments are needed, men who have had the experi-ence which has fitted them for the responsibilities of the judicial office. The position of Judge is not a polltical one. The Judge is there to hold the scales of justice with un-trembling hand. He is there as the organ of the law and as its spokesman. He is to measure exact jus-tice between man and man. What is tice between man and man. What is required is the judicial disposition, the umblemished character, the natural ability, and the actual experience at the bar. Judge Searle possesses all these qualities and should be supported by all good citizens of Wayne county, and if the Judge receives, as he no doubt will, the assurances of support from good citi-zens irrespective of party, the sup-port thus given and received will be a pledge that will keep him free from any party influence.

MORE SIGN BOARDS SOON. The following is exceedingly good news to travelers over Wayne county roads. Sign boards can be placed none too soon on the different country highways in dear old Wayne. State Highway Commissioner E. M. Bigelow is securing reports from the engineering and surveying corps of his department on the number of sign posts that will be required to take care of the routes of the main highways in the State. This data is being secured preparatory to award-This data is ing contracts for sign posts.

"The absence of sign boards is the most notable of defects in the The people of Wayne couny will highways of the State at present," secure a competent Judge if they continue Judge Searle on the bench. In every court men of the highest secure an estimate of how many are needed and the names and distances I will let a contract. I hope to have the first posts placed this Winter. They will be of iron and the most modern and durable type."

The score or more of engineer corps which are making surveys of the State for the Commissioner are working on the chief highways. Miss Verna Rowland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. All Rowland, went to They have already covered over 2,000
