Wickersham Says Pardoned Banker Will Turn State's Evidence.

Washington, Nov. 16 .- Attorney General Wickersham is not very much disturbed by the statement issued by Sovernor James H. Hawley of Idaho criticising the president and the department of justice on account of the action of the president in granting a pardon to Clarence W. Robnett, bookreeper in the Lewiston National bank. of Lewiston, Ida. Robnett was conricted of embezzling the funds of the cank and on trial in the federal court was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment, but he has not served any of his sentence. The governor denounced the pardon as likely to bring "justice into disrepute and weaken the courts in the estimation of our people."

The attorney general explained that t was thought best to make terms with one of the participants in the crime and convict the others than to allow all to escape for want of evidence on which to convict. This is the whole story, it was explained, of the Robnett

THREATENS ACCUSER.

Italian Named by Companion as Slayer Would Be Revenged.

White Plains, N. Y., Nov. 16 .- It took only five minutes for District Attorney Winslow of Westchester county to arraign the five Italian robbers who have been indicted for the murder of Mrs. Mary Hall at Croton Lake on Nov. 9 last before Justice Tompkins, and each one pleaded not guilty. As they had no money, Justice Tompkins assigned lawyers to defend them, and then they were remanded back to jail until a date for the trial is fixed. It is understood that the five men will be tried ointly on Nov. 27. Santa Zanza, who is accused directly by his companions of having stabbed Mrs. Hall to death, as he was being led out of the courtroom said in Italian to Angelo Gusto, who confessed that Zanzo had committed the murder, "If I could get at it I would tear your Gusto gave Sheriff Harnett additional facts concerning the slaying of Mrs. Hall, He said that he gagged Mrs. Hall and that Zanza stabbed her three times with a dirk. He also told the sheriff where this knife was thrown n the woods on Turkey mountain, near Croton Lake.

There is a bit of romance behind the marriage. Dr. Kirk brought his wife to a cancer hospital here about two years ago to be treated, and Miss Jones was the nurse who cared for her. It proved to be an incurable case, and Mrs. Kirk died. The attraction which the doctor found in the nurse ripened into love, and the aged physician's persistent wooing culminated in the nuptial ceremony.

BEATTIE'S LAST HOPE GONE.

Wife Murderer Must Pay Penalty Fri-day, Nov. 24.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 16.-Governor Mann declines to interfere in the case of Henry Clay Beattle, Jr., and the young wife murderer's last hope of escaping the electric chair on Friday, Nov. 24, was thus swept away. The governor not only refused commutation of sentence, but even the thirty days' respite prayed for.

Beattle's father told the prisoner in the death cell of the penitentiary that the governor had refused all aid. Young Beattle received it in silence, the guards say, but his iron nerve gave way at last, and he was visibly affected at the loss of his last hope.

WOMEN WOULD BE SLEUTHS.

Indianapolis Mayor Swamped by Fair Applicants.

Indianapolis, Nov. 16.—Twenty-two women, the majority of them young and unmarried, but several the mothers of two or three children, applied to Mayor Shank for positions on the police force as detectives. The mayor had offered to appoint two of the police matrons to act as detectives, but they declined, and notice of this caused the rush to his office.

The idea of appointing women detectives grew out of the supposed murder of Helen Knabe and the inability of the male members of the department to find the murderer. Suggestions from a number of women that female detectives would be better equipped in such cases than males led the mayor to suggest such appointments. But the rush to his office was so great that he slipped out by a back guage that conveys what we call "pub. | door and told his secretary to send all lic spirit," nor is there a word for inquirers to the police superintendent.

Indiana Pure Food Law Violated, Pros ecutor Alleges.

Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 16 .- After ten days' investigation by the local prosecutor and agent of the Indiana pure food department it is announced that something like 400 violations of the pure food law have been committed by the Armour Packing company of Chicago, and indictments have been secured against the officers. The information on which the indictments are based were gained from local dealers when confronted with the sale of impure food or food not labeled according to law.

It is said that during the last few weeks more than 10,000 dozen of storage eggs have been shipped into the local market by outside firms and corporations and have been sold as the fresh article at enormous profits. Two local dealers have pleaded guilty to selling unlabeled storage eggs and paid

REFERENDUM AND RECALL

By F. A. MITCHEL

Copyright by American Press Asso-Agnes Winston was a very gentle person with no natural aptitude for leadership in those political movements which concern the woman of the present day. But she fell under the influence of Mrs. Montgomery Stone, who was greatly interested in the matter of obtaining votes for women, and that lady made a vigorous effort to infuse some of her own enthusiasm on the subject into Miss Winston. The process was like molding a statue of a soft material which would not harden. To describe Miss Winston in woman's parlance as a votes for woman advocate, she wouldn't "jell." However, after her first interview with the stronger woman she considered berself converted to the cause and, being engaged to be married, believed it fitting that she should announce her conversion to her lover. She sent for him and said:

"Harry, I deem it proper to announce to you that I am taking great interest in a matter of which I don't know that you approve. Since I expect to assume a position in the working out of a new iden"-"Whose iden?"

"Why, it's one of those ideas that don't belong to any particular person; it's for everybody-I mean for every woman.'

"Where did you get it?"

"I don't see that that has anything to do with the matter. It is sufficient for me to tell you that I have joined the votes for women movement."

"Oh, that's all right. I'm in favor of that too. I'll give you my vote right away. There are so many puzzling questions in our country's political status that my brain is in a whiri all the time trying to find out which way to vote upon them. I'd like mighty well to turn my duties as a citizen over to you.'

"Why, it's all very simple, isn't it?" "Simple! Not to me. There's the tariff, and the trusts, and the referendum, and the recall, and a lot of other things. It takes all my time to keep up even with what they mean."

Agnes, who had heard Mrs. Stone rattle over these things as a cat would run over piano keys, said confidently: "Oh, I know what all these things

"What's the referendum?"

"Why, when the governor of a state, for instance, doesn't exactly know what to do in a certain case he refers the matter to the people. He submits it at an election."

"What's the recall?"

"Why, when a judge doesn't decide a question right they take away his judgeship.

"Splendid! I see that you have easlly discovered the purport of these two novelties, over which I have been puzzling my poor brain ever since they were born. I can't make out whether a trust is an economic development or an assumption of monopolists treading on the people's rights. I have no idea whether we have too many voters already or too few. There are so many candidates for me to investigate before our election that I haven't the time for the work. I shall have to do our providing when married, and I think it will be better to turn my political duties over to you."

"You couldn't, stupid. It's against the law for women to go to the polls to vote. "But you can tell me how to vote.

and I'll go to the polls and vote as you Wouldn't that be the same thing?"

"I suppose so in our case, but every woman couldn't do that with her fiance or her husband." "She might with her flance."

"That's it. When she's married her husband will wish to vote as he likes." "Well, suppose that he wishes to vote one way and the wife the other. In that case what's the use of either of them voting? The one is a stand off against the other." "I never thought of that." "In other words, they 'pair' as they do in legislative bodies when two members on opposite sides wish to be absent at the coming up of an important measure." "I think we'll pair," she said softly, feeling for her lover's hand.

"And if a case of referendum comes ap in our family I'll refer it to you." "That will be very nice."
