

HAWLEY.

[Special to The Citizen.] Hawley, Pa., Nov. 21. The Lempert boy, of Lakeville, was brought on Tuesday last before Justice of the Peace W. B. Ammerman for a hearing on a charge of false pretense. A. Goble was the complainant. It appears that more than a year ago the boy, whose home is in New York city, came to visit his grandfather who lives on a farm near Lakeville. While there this good grandson, being anxious to make everything square with his grandfather, concluded that a cow was just what he needed. The boy purchased the cow of a neighbor for $20 and by representing the case as noted above, A. Goble signed the note as security. Before night he sold the cow to another party for the sum of $32 and with the cash in his pocket turned his back on all concerned and never showed up until last week when he was arrested. On default of bail he was committed to the county jail.

Mrs. Norman Vandermart, who has been with her mother for some time at Hoboken, came home for a few days last week, but returned to the city on Saturday.

Mr. Voltz, bookkeeper for the Power company at Wilsonville, has moved his family from that place into William Guinn's newly-completed house near the High school.

Mrs. Ella Thompson will be with her daughter at Port Allegheny until the holidays.

Mrs. G. T. Rodman while on a visit to Scranton and attending a performance at the Poll theatre Tuesday afternoon, was taken with a severe attack of appendicitis and was immediately removed to a hospital where she was operated on. Her husband, Dr. Rodman, was present. Much anxiety is felt concerning her condition. The last report is very favorable for her recovery. Miss Mabel Rodman, trained nurse of New York City, will take charge of her mother this week.

Mr. Redall and Mr. Maybe, employed in the office of the Paupack Power company, at Wilsonville, for several months past, have for their homes in New York and Brooklyn this week much to the regret of their many friends which they have made since they came to this town, each possessing a well-trained voice for singing which they willingly used in the churches and social circles and by their congenial and courteous manners have won the highest esteem of the Hawley people who will gladly welcome their return.

Professor Creasy went from the institute to the home of his parents at Light Street, Pa., for a brief visit, returning on the early morning train Monday morning.

A misprint in my letter in Wednesday's issue gave incorrect figures in regard to the proceeds of the M. E. Men's supper. The net proceeds were $240.

Richard Phillips, Paupack, has purchased the Brink property on the East Side and soon will take possession.

Mrs. Mary Kehr, Church street, who has been very sick, is falling, and slight hopes are entertained for her recovery. Her daughters from the Pacific coast have come to care for her.

Rev. W. S. Peterson had charge of the services in the White Haven Presbyterian church on Sunday. He will preach his farewell sermon here next Sunday. The Rev. Mr. Peterson and wife, whose departure the Hawley residents so greatly deplore, take with them hearty good wishes for a successful work in their new field.

Mrs. John Thompson, who was taken to Middletown recently for medical aid, is reported to be falling rapidly, her death being looked for any moment.

The Methodist church choir will meet this (Tuesday) evening at the parsonage to make arrangements for an entertainment to be held before the holidays.

Ray Simons, son of George F. Simons, is now clerking for Charles Rose.

DREHER.

[Special to The Citizen.] Dreher, Pa., Nov. 20. The result of the recent election seems to be giving general satisfaction to all concerned and time will tell whether every elected officer will attend to the business of the office in person. In some cases it cannot be done otherwise, but we hope there will be no occasion for fault finding.

So much has been said and put in print of late, in regard to candidates and election, that we will all feel in need of something different to read and talk about. Comments on the weather are not in a general way, interesting to everybody, but we seldom have so much wet weather at this season of the year. Wet in excess of all needs and some of our weather prophets say we will have but little snow. Time will tell.

Fall work is pretty well cleaned up with the exception of ploughing for next season's crop and next in order is the annual pork harvest, and then Thanksgiving.

Mrs. H. H. Crosby, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Turner, of New York, returned home on Friday last.

Mrs. W. R. Hall was a recent visitor of her sister, Mrs. James Wrenn, of Hawley. The latter and her husband, we are sorry to learn, are very sick.

Melva Wrenn of Hawley is guest of her aunt, Mrs. W. H. Hall. Mr. Hall is making a business trip through the valley.

Mrs. R. Decker and daughter, Bessie, of Beachlake, were entertained the latter part of last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Spry.

Andrew Nonnenmacher, who has spent the summer at White Lake in the employ of J. P. Kenne, has returned home and today will begin work at Dorflinger & Sons glass works.

The Ladies' Aid at P. L. Bramer's on Wednesday last was largely attended. A good time was enjoyed by all.

Leon Tom's spent last week at Honesdale as the guest of his mother, Mrs. Eva Tom's.

Mabel Gray spent last week in Honesdale where she attended the Wayne County Teachers' Institute. Mabel Wagner was the guest of Kathryn Gray last week.

Fred Swartz, of Scranton, accompanied by his wife and two children, are visiting Joseph Swartz and family.

Andrew Nonnenmacher and Minnie Klencik, Swamp Brook, spent Sunday afternoon with W. H. Marshall and wife.

There will be a Thanksgiving service at 10 a. m. on November 20 in the Moravian church, Newfoundland. On the same date the Ladies' Aid society will have their annual children dinner and oyster supper to which a cordial invitation is given.

STERLING.

[Special to The Citizen.] Sterling, Pa., Nov. 21. We are having good winter weather and many dread to see winter coming.

Dr. R. A. Smith spent three days in the wilds of Pike county last week and succeeded in killing a fine large buck near Blooming Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gillner are visiting N. A. Frantz's at East Stroudsburg.

Last week Henry Musgrove moved into the Depew house near Madisonville and W. E. Hafter is moving into the house he vacated.

Basil Cross spent last week with Scranton friends.

For several weeks past John G. Cotterson has been scarcely able to be around.

The G. A. R.'s had a meeting last Saturday and elected their officers. J. P. Sanford from Salem and David Edwards of Lake Ariel were present.

On the 12th Dr. R. A. Smith gave us a recitation and reading at the close of Sunday school that was well rendered and appreciated.

On the 19th the Cradle Roll was in evidence and the little tots did well. Mrs. C. E. Webster and Mrs. P. W. Gillner took part in the exercises.

As usual the school teachers had the "time of their life" at the county institute last week.

Samuel Nevin took the teachers to Honesdale and brought them back and also took in what he could of the institute.

On the evening of the 18th Rev. W. E. Webster was abruptly called home from a prayer meeting to perform a pleasant duty at the parsonage, viz: marry Merton Edward and Miss Mabel Carlton of South Sterling. He was equal to the emergency and Ivan Gilpin immediately took them off in his fine auto.

black slouch hat and cape overcoat at about ten o'clock and say that he must be starting home, but, as a rule, midnight would still find him the central figure in a group of the late-stayers, dealing out story, reminiscence or philosophy to a circle of delighted listeners.

I cannot, in this familiar and gossipy way, talk of the living writers whom I know. The ethics of the guild would not permit me to do that. I can only say, in general terms, that those who expect to see in a company of a hundred of the leading writers of American prose and poetry, any of the long-haired, wild-eyed, broad-collared kind, with flowing necktie and affected manner, will be deeply disappointed. On the contrary nothing will be found in their appearance or manner to distinguish them from an equal number of the country, or the leading bankers or merchants, or business-men of any kind. Nor will anything be heard in their conversation that one would not expect to hear in any gathering of intelligent, educated, wide-awake men, alive to all the questions of the day, interested in whatever pertains to the welfare of their fellowmen. The same principle holds good in the case of the few women writers whom I know. For the most part both men and women are hard and persistent workers. The day of the brilliant, sky-rocket style of author has passed. Now-a-days a writer attains eminence only by long, hard, incessant literary toil. Nor, as a rule, is writing their only vocation. Many of the best known of American writers are engaged in other kinds of work. Of those whom I know and have known personally, Stedman was a banker, Jefferson an actor, F. Hopkinson Smith an engineer and artist, Henry van Dyke a preacher, Richard Watson Gilder and Hamilton Mable editors, Henry Holt a publisher, William Frederick Dix secretary of a great life insurance company, Oscar S. Strauss merchant and ambassador, and so on.

But while my early dreams of the personality of writers have never been fulfilled, I am well satisfied to have found them as they are. When I take up a book with the name on the title page of a man or woman whom I know, I am sure that whatever I read from its pages is the result of careful study, of sober thought, of practical investigation, and of hard common sense. If they can clothe their thoughts in beautiful garments, so much the better. That does not detract from the soundness of their personality. The highest type of beauty is not the evanescent, the shadowy or the fleeting. The men and women who are creating the best that is in American literature to-day, who are doing those things that are worth while, are men and women of sound judgment, of practical and sober lives, who have a profound respect for their calling, and who realize their duty to their fellowmen.

CHESTNUT BLIGHT FOUND IN WAYNE

been in the timber business all my life. I'm forty-five years old. I worked in timber through the southern part of the State and through North and South Carolina.

"The blight follows the Delaware and Susquehanna Rivers. Along the foot of the mountains you'll find a great deal of chestnut timber. No, I haven't run across a rattlesnake in Wayne county. The season is about over. You'll find rattlesnakes wherever there's rough mountain country. This fungus has never yet been found on any living thing save chestnut and chinquapin. It has no effect on the fruit. It'll kill almost any tree in two years. We cover about 15 or 20 miles a day.

"The Commission positively has the right to go on your premises and cut your timber down and if you refuse to do it, to charge you with the expense, and it can be collected the same as any other debt.

"One man in Wayne county has told me he was going to cut his timber. Any person that's disposed to cut their timber and wants to sell it, can write to the Commission and we'll do all we can to help him sell it. We keep in touch with the market. It probably will be to their advantage to do so. We expect to be in a position to help him to sell it to an advantage. The blight does not destroy the timber for commercial purposes. It isn't an insect.

"It won't enter a tree unless there's a break in the bark. Get into a campmeeting ground where there's horses being tied, and naturally they'll gnaw a tree, and carry it to the next tree.

"It washes on down the tree, as soon as it gets damp. Or a bird comes along, gets the spores in its feet, and carried them to another tree, infecting it. These spores are less than 1-1000 of an inch long, and 1-3000 of an inch in width.

"Alas and alack! No longer may darling little Johnny recite that touching poem, 'Under the spreading chestnut tree.' Henceforth he must say 'Under the deadly chestnut tree the village smithy stands—stands with axe in hand—kills the D. C. T. and saves the land.'

Scouts To Fight Blight

Knights of King Arthur Will Locate Extent of Chestnut Blight in County.

The co-operation of the Boy Scouts of Honesdale in the fight being waged against the Chestnut Tree Blight in Pennsylvania by a commission appointed by Governor John K. Tener, has been secured, and the youthful Knights of King Arthur are being instructed in the work by Scout Master E. G. Jenkins.

When seen by a Citizen man, Monday morning, Mr. Jenkins said: "The Scout Master recently received a communication from Prof. Detweiler, executive officer of the Chestnut Tree Blight Commission, asking that the Boy Scouts co-operate with the commission in their efforts to determine the extent of the blight in this country. For the past two weeks, the Commission has had three field men in the county, and they have gone into the matter in detail with the Scout Master, have furnished him specimens and the Scouts will be instructed in the locating of infected trees, and will be impressed with the necessity of total destruction of all bark and limbs of every tree infected. It is expected that the boys will locate trees that are freshly infected and will watch closely the development of fungus growth.

"The Boy Scouts do not make it a practice to beg for money. They are supposed to earn in some manner the money which they need to carry on their work. In Summer, Mr. Dietrich very kindly gave them a benefit through the moving picture show which met with a most hearty support throughout this vicinity and the boys have shown their appreciation by their increased and constant enthusiasm in the Scout movement. Mr. Dietrich has again offered the boys the chance and they have secured the Dunbars, the most famous Bell Ringers in the country, for Friday evening, November 24. The boys are now selling tickets and are meeting with the success and interest which they anticipated."

300,000 "Strong" Children

Dr. Dixon Aims To Safeguard The Health of Pennsylvania's Boys and Girls.

Harrisburg, Pa.—Three hundred thousand boys and girls in the third and fourth class districts of Pennsylvania are to be safeguarded from the undiscovered ills which menace their health and general well being. All the preliminary arrangements for the work of medical inspection have been completed by Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, Commissioner of Health, and during the coming week the actual work will begin throughout the 321 boroughs and 160 townships which are to receive the benefit of the act of assembly authorizing this protective measure.

It will take the 500 physicians who will be appointed the task, about two weeks to complete the work in the field. When this is done all the reports will be sent to the department of health where they will be studied carefully, and whenever a record is found of a child who is deficient in sight, hearing or otherwise in need of attention, the parents will be notified by the commissioner. In no instance will the doctor making the inspection communicate direct with the parents. This will be done by Dr. Dixon through the teachers, who will receive a duplicate report which they are required to keep until the end of the school year.

The first step in the examination of the pupils will be an identification record, giving the name of the teacher, location of the school, age, sex, color and nativity of the pupils, of which will be entered on a card. The examination will be made in the school room and when they so desire the parents or guardian may be present. The pupils' vision will be tested by the use of Snellen's chart and the degree of impairment if any noted. This will be followed by hearing tests, breathing tests and an examination of the cervical glands. Skin diseases, nervous disorders, quarantainable diseases, deformities, and the general nutrition of the child all are to be considered.

In addition to the examination of the pupils the medical inspector will make a thorough report of the sanitary condition of the school and its surroundings. This will be most complete as to details. The condition of the rooms and halls will be noted and the method of cleaning given. The amount of lighting space in proportion to the floor area will be computed, as well as the number of cubic feet of air space per pupil. The method of heating, whether steam, hot water or stove, and the location of the apparatus. The water supply, a most important point, is to be given attention. If from a well its location and the possibilities of contamination from surface drainage or adjacent cesspools, stables, etc., must be noted. If it is from municipal supply whether from within the building on the grounds and the possible source of contamination if any. The care of the water in the school room is also a subject for examination, and such points as whether the drinking cups are dipped into the bucket, the use of individual cups, the cleaning of the receptacle used and the frequency with which they are replenished are all noted. While all of these things may seem to many of the parents matters of trifling importance, their value in protecting the health of their children is of the greatest consequence.

Wherever medical inspection of schools has been instituted within this state or other commonwealths, its value has been so thoroughly demonstrated and the results have proved of such aid to thousands of children that it has never in a single instance been discontinued. The parents are in almost every instance quick to take the remedial measures necessary to give their children an equal chance with their fellows and little Johnny, who has always seemed a dullard, or Mary, who has lagged behind her playmates, may with the proper attention to some heretofore unsuspected defect of sight or hearing, prove themselves the brightest of a class of which they were previously dull members.

HOW TO KILL A TOWN.

A rattling good way to kill a community, commercially and industrially, is for the people to insist on every possible restriction against corporations; demand increased valuation of their property for purposes of taxation; side against the management without investigation in every little wage controversy that may arise; abuse the owner of a factory because he does not do this or has not done that; discriminate against an employer of labor in the courts, if one happens to be on a jury; tell the stranger within your gates the town is not what it used to be; always say the banks are to blame for the failure of the town to prosper, and refuse to allow your neighbor the benefit of the doubt if he happens to be charged with some irregularity. Just knock. Begin early and keep it up throughout your daily walk. Don't miss an opportunity to strike at the interests of the community, and if you are persistent and careful you will drive all the people and business away from it. It has been done and with very good success.—Exchange.

MODEL ORCHARD MEETINGS.

The Annual Series of Public Meetings in the State Model Orchards in charge of Professor Surface and his demonstrators will be inaugurated in all sections of the State on Nov. 20, and the schedule will continue throughout several weeks. These meetings are held at a time when farmers and fruit growers have practically finished harvesting the crops, and will thus be able to attend. Preparations are being made for a large attendance.

The exercises which begin at 1 o'clock p. m. will include lectures and demonstrations on spraying, pruning, and other orchard work. In every Demonstration Orchard a Model Plot of trees is being treated and managed after the most approved methods of horticulture, which is intended to serve as an example of what may be done in the way of orchard improvement in each community. The dates and places of meetings for Wayne county are as follows:

Monday, Nov. 20, W. W. Baker, Gravit, Pa.
Wednesday, Nov. 22, Hon. A. T. Searle, Siko, Pa.
Friday, Nov. 24, W. J. P. Warwick, Narrowsburg, R. D., N. Y.

National Guard Orders.

General orders have been issued from National Guard headquarters announcing that the regular army drill regulation will immediately supersede those of the State militia. The regulations are those approved by the Secretary of War on August 19 and differ from those in use in this State for years in many particulars. The drill regulations are now being issued and are accompanied by a memorandum prepared by Major Charles S. Farnsworth, U. S. A., inspector and instructor of the guard, showing the changes. The guard is now uniformed and to a large extent equipped along the same lines as the regular army and the drill is the same through this order.

War Declared

Catarrh Germs Must Be Conquered or Health Will Be Destroyed.

If you have catarrh you must vanquish an army of persistent, destructive microbes before you can get rid of it.

You might as well choose your weapons, declare war and annihilate this army of catarrh germs right now.

Stomach dosing won't kill them; neither will sprays or douches. HYOMEI, a pleasant, antiseptic, germ destroying air breathed over the entire membrane will put catarrh germs out of business in short order.

HYOMEI (pronounce it High-ome) is guaranteed by G. W. Peil to end catarrh, asthma, bronchitis, coughs, colds and croup, or money back. If you own a little HYOMEI hard rubber pocket inhaler you can get a separate bottle of HYOMEI for only 50 cents. If you haven't an inhaler buy a complete outfit that only costs $1.00.
