Honesdale, Court House, Dec. 16. Galilee, M. E. church, Dec. 18 and 19.

Calkins, Dec. 20 and 21. Beachlake, Dec. 22 and 23.

The exercises are public and free, and everybody is invited to attend. Local committees have been appointed in each town to look after the preliminary details of the convention. W. E. Perham, Pleasant Mount, is chairman of the institutes.

Educational and dairy, stock and orchard sessions will be held at each convention when addresses will be delivered by Dr. M. E. Conrad, Westgrove, Pa.; Dr. H. M. Anderson, New Park, Pa.; Dr. J. H. Funk, Boyertown, Pa.; R. P. Kester, Gramplan, Pa. Mrs. Geo. E. Monroe will speak at the Hamlin convention which is to be held there January 18 to 20, 1912.

A question box will be a feature of the institutes. In the discussions all sectarian and partisan topics are excluded. As these meetings are for the benefit of farmers and their families and all others who may be interested, the institutes are held either in halls or churches. At least three State speakers will be in attendance at each meeting.

Music, properly conducted, has a place on every program, but is to be introduced as a recreation. $25 is appropriated to each two-days institute, to be used for local expenses such as printing programs, rent of halls, necessary expenses of local managers, etc.

Brief biographical sketches of the institute lecturers who have been assigned to Wayne county follow:

H. M. Anderson was born August 26, 1871, on the farm which he has recently purchased from his father. He graduated from the York College Institute in 1894, since which time he has devoted practically all his time to agriculture. Has been for quite a number of years growing very profitable farm crops in what has until very recent years been called the York County Barrens. He is particularly interested in growing alfalfa, potatoes and corn and is doing experimental work with these crops; has an apple orchard of which he is very proud and is a close student of modern methods of increasing soil fertility.

Dr. Milton E. Conrad was born in southern Chester county, in 1851, of an ancestry of successful agriculturists. He obtained his education in the public and high schools and Millersville State Normal school. He was for some years engaged in farming in his home locality, later taking the course in veterinary medicine at the University of Pennsylvania, graduating in 1891, in which he has for several years been lecturer of Dairy and Milk Inspection and Veterinary Obstetrics. Throughout his veterinary career he has been closely identified with dairy interests, practicing for some years in a dairy locality, and having for over ten years given his entire time as Inspector and Consulting Expert for a large number of the dairies furnishing milk to the City of Philadelphia from Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland and Delaware.

J. H. Funk, M. D., 6th generation from Bishop Henry Funk, who emigrated from Holland in 1719, was born in Lower Providence, Montgomery county, Pa., was brought up on his father's large dairy farm; attended public schools in the winter. In 1859-1860 attended Praeland Seminary (now Ursinus College); began the study of medicine in the spring of 1863 and received his diploma as Doctor of Medicine from the University of Pennsylvania in the spring of 1865; opened the first drug store in Boyertown and run it several years in connection with the practice of medicine. Served several years as the Burgess of Boyertown, also as Town Councillor and eight years as School Director. Always been in love with horticulture, pursuits, he planted a large orchard in 1879. In the year 1896, he planted another apple and peach orchard and has continued planting until he has about fifty acres of the most profitable orchards in the state. Such a thing as "off-year" bearing is unknown in these orchards. Was several years Pennsylvania State Pomologist.

R. P. Kester was born in Clearfield county, Pa., Jan. 18, 1867. He now resides on the farm which his maternal great grandfather "took up" and partially cleared nearly 100 years in the old way and the fertility was depleted until it was one of the worn-out farms. During the past few years Mr. Kester and his younger brother have been farming and dairying by modern methods, until now even five blades of grass grew where one grew before. Their leading business is dairying, although fruit, poultry and trucking receive attention. He was fifteen years a teacher and always a close student.

Mrs. George E. Monroe graduated from Geneva, N. Y. State Normal School Classical Course. Taught two years in Dryden High school. Has lived in her present home, a farm of 60 acres, for the past twenty-five years. Before the College of Agriculture was founded at Cornell, she assisted Prof. W. W. Wing in carrying on poultry experiments. Since then has regularly lectured to the poultry classes, being there for "Farmers' Week" also. For three years she was on the Poultry Institute staff with Prof. James E. Rice, conductor. She has twice been in Connecticut State Meetings and for several years has been Institute Lecturer in this state. Has bred and exhibited Single Comb Black Minorcas for 21 years, exclusively, taking premiums at Boston, New York, Newark, N. J., Atlantic City, Pan-American and St. Louis Expositions. Has also raised ducks and turkeys.
