Huerholz Stays With Providence.

Manager Fred Lake, who has just been up the business of the Providence team, in the International League, makes an announcement of what he intends to hold over for 1912 campaign, and among the names is that of Fred Scherzer, or Schuerholz, the Honesdale pitcher, who finished the season at Providence in 1911.

As he is known in baseball, he began his professional career in Youngstown, Ohio, and Pennsylvania League in 1910. There was a very strong team there and he did not lead the league pitcher but he was pronounced by Mike O'Connell, the Washington scout, and Ward Earle, who does gum shoe work in the minors for Pittsburgh, the best pitcher in the league. The teams bid for him and the American League team won out.

He stayed with Washington undisciplined, although he was the youngest to be held. At finish-games he showed well, but did seem to gain his control and the poor showings when he was wed to start. Several Southern teams, the managers of which seen him work in the spring, to get him, but he would not go and was allowed to take a job at Providence for experience. Manager McAleer overlooked him to recall season and he is now the erty of the Grays. His record games won and lost do not show worth with the Rhode Island as conditions were so bad there the last season owners sold out rank Navin, H. W. Yawkey and Henry Jennings, of Detroit.

Friday last White Mills proved the hardest proposition the "Rink Five" had struck this year and ed themselves contenders to be in the race for the championship of Wayne county. The passing of "Millers" was a feature of the game, while the Rink boys did not play together and it was notable that they could have made a few more baskets if they had "passed" to each other a little.

was anybody's game up to the minute of play, the final score of Honesdale 27, White Mills 22. lineup: Rink Five—W. Polt and forwards; O'Connell, center; and Brader, guards. White—Miller and Gill, forwards; Ebers, center; Eddie Murphy and guards. Baskets thrown—6, Smith 3, Gill 1, Wenders 1, Innell 1, J. Polt 2, W. Polt 5, 1, Brader 2, and five fouls.

New Year's afternoon and evening Susquehanna Giants will open the Rink Five in games that are to be fast and exciting as Susquehanna team has had an able record for several years in ball and will give the Honesdale boys a hard tussle.

Christmas afternoon the first series of games of Polo between Honesdale Polo team and the Rink team was played at the Rink, resulted in a score of 6 goals to favor of the Honesdale team.

Damascus basket ball team led the Tyler Hill boys by a score of 18 to 10. The game was exciting. It was played last day in the gymnasium of the school.

Monday night last the third of the series in the four-courts for the championship of county was played at the between the Rink Five and Seelyville (last year's champions). Seelyville team was clearly out and easily defeated, the feat of the game being the team work and speed of the Rink Five who led their best form of the season proved that they could "pass" they set out to do it. The line—Seelyville—Markle and Polley, rds; Benny, center; Sonn and guards. Rink Five—W. Polt loss, forwards; O'Connell, center and Brader, guards. Bas-Polley 2, Markle 1, Polt 1, 4, Bader 2, O'Connell 6, Brader three fouls. Final score, 33-6. ve, R. J. Bracey.

WOMEN IN BASEBALL.

Helen Britton, St. Louis Club member, says it would keep husbands at Home Nights. Helen Hathaway Britton, of the St. Louis Cardinals, believes that every woman should be a "ball fan," she says, "is not alone her game. Women get just as much fun out of it as our husbands. Personally I think that women are just as crazy about it as men. There's no reason why they should not. Baseball is the name game and it is a mighty healing, too.

women went to the games," advises Mrs. Britton, "instead of home wondering what her neighbor is going to wear. So-and-so's theatre party, could find better contentment. In, she would find companionship. Also it would help to keep home nights, for he would have some thing live to talk with his wife. The average man is a fan, Mrs. Britton thinks. woman does not belittle her digthen she goes to a game and along with the crowd," Mrs. Britton believes.

that harm is there to sit in the stand and cheer?" she asked. She trouble with lots of women is that they spend too much time inside their homes. They want to get out in the fresh air and have their blood stirred up once in a while. The baseball would do it. "It's a lot of fun being a club owner. I get a lot of enjoyment out of it."

She does not intend to revolutionize the game, but she says she has a few ideas that she thinks would help it along. Just what her ideas are Mrs. Britton could not state off hand, but Messrs. Murphy, Ebers, Dryfuss, et al., according to her, will learn them sooner or later.

"We are going to have a team in St. Louis this year that will make the Giants go some."

On Christmas night at Starrucca the Hancock basket ball team was defeated by the Starrucca team by a score of 47 to 25.

Sum Anderson, former champion middleweight wrestler of the world, has been secured by Harvard to train its students on the mat.

"Knockout" Brown, who has in his right name of Valentine Brownhime a good many thousand dollars stored away, is one of the very few men in the ring today to know that 100 pennies make a dollar.

"Dictator" Stagg, whom most people believe to be the coach at the University of Chicago, says he's going to war on summer baseball among students. That's the only thing he sees wrong with college sport.

Shakespeare, Morton, Jenner, Nelson, Lincoln, Burns, Gutenberg, Edison, Siemens, Bessemer, Musher, Columbus, Watt, Bell, Arkwright, Franklin, Murdoch, Hargreaves, Stephenson and Symington. "But not one of these men," a reporter interposed, "made much money."

Mr. Carnegie threw up his hands. "Money!" he exclaimed. "Anybody can make money. These men have done something for the world. Do you suppose they care whether or not they were paid for it?"

"Money is a bother. The great trouble about this world, I find, is not how to get money but how to get rid of it wisely."

The reporter casually inquired as to his method of getting money and Mr. Carnegie dictated these rules: "Don't drink. "Don't smoke. It's foolish and no employer wants foolish men working for him. "Live within your income. "Don't be content with doing only your duty. Do more than your duty. It's the horse who finishes a neck ahead who wins the race. "Use your head. Don't follow the rule. Obey orders if you break your employer." Tell your employer that you know more about your department of his business than he possibly could know. He may not like it then, but he will remember and you will some day be rewarded.

"What chance has a poor employee of becoming a partner?" was asked and Mr. Carnegie replied: "Some day when the employer is ill, perhaps he may send down for some papers. Then the poor employee may be sent out with them and perhaps have a chance to meet Madame Employer and Madam's daughter. There's his chance."

Mr. Carnegie winked. "No poor man should be prejudiced against a girl just because she is rich," he said. "Poor men can make millionaires' daughters just as happy, perhaps happier, than millionaires' sons can."

"I was attending a wedding of a poor boy to a rich girl in Pittsburgh, a while ago." He paused and pointed to the reporter's pencil. "Get this in sure," he chuckled. "I want that groom to know about it and I'm afraid to tell him about it to his face."

"But I don't know of a happier couple," he said quickly. "He's a partner of his father-in-law. So you see there's a chance for the poorest clerk to win happiness and wealth all at once."
