THOUGHT FOR A DAY.

"A sound body is good; a sound mind is better, but a strong and clean character is better than either."-Theodore Roosevelt.

Democratic national conventions were held in Baltimore in 1860 and in 1872, and the candidates chosen by both were defeated by the Republicans. Watch for a repetition of political history.-Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph

It is no wonder then that the laboring classes are waking up to the cituation and opposing most vigorously the Democratic plan. Democratic ascendency and control mean the death blow to our progress and prosperity, to our high standard of living, to full employment and good wages, to all the necessities and comforts and conveniences now enjoyed by our

Reports from all over the country bring increasing confidence in the President and his work, He is doing nothing to advance his nomination for a second term. He is doing his best to make a success of his first term. He is quite content to let the people and the office seek him while all the others are seeking the office. There is no doubt of his renomination and reelection while the conditions on the Democratic side are daily growing more chaotic and even ludicrous.

A TARIFF OBJECT LESSON.

The price of coffee has increased more than 100 per cent, since 1908. In December, 1968, No. 7 Rio coffee sold at 61/2 cents per pound in New York. On January 1, 1911, the same grade of coffee sold for 131/2 cents per pound in New York. There is no coffee raised in the United States-775 per cent, of the total world's supply coming from Brazil-and coffee is admitted free of duty into the United States. There being no traiff on coffee this raise of over 100 per cent, in coffee, thus increasing the cost of living for each family, cannot be charged to the "infamous" Payne-Aldrich tariff bill. Therefore, will our free trade friends-who propose a reduction of the tariff as a cure for all increased cost of living ills-please explain to us the whys and wherefores of this enormous increase in the price of coffee .- Enid (Oklahoma) Events.

WHAT EVERYBODY SHOULD KNOW.

WHAT EVERYBODY SHOULD be and nourishing nacle of perfection.

First, that fresh air is as necessary to health as pure and nourishing nacle of perfection.

The reorganized Highway Departfood. Second, that people should not sleep in over-crowded rooms, or with the windows closed. Third, that hmes and work-shops must be clean and thoroughly ventilated. Fourth, that persons with colds or coughs of long standing, or persons who are losing in weight or physical strength, should consult a physician or go to a dispensary. Don't wait until it is too late. Fifth, that the habit of careless spitting promotes the spread of the disease. Sixth, that a consumptive person spits out millions of these germs in a single day, and when the sputum dries, these germs are blown about, to affect others. Sick persons should burn their spit. Seventh, though no one should ever sleep with a consumptive, the careful consumptive is not dangerous to those with whom he lives and works. Eighth, that the large majority of people have latent tuberculosis, but they resist falling prey to it by preserving their general health and strength. Ninth, that some per- and municipal dweller alike. sons are more immune than others, as also some nationalities and some races are more immune than others.

We desire to call attention to the fact that recently in Massachusetts a four-weeks-old calf was sold for $6,000. This valuable creature is to be shipped west to the state of LaFollette in a special car and the owner is delighted on securing such a bargain.

There is nothing humorous in this incident. It is simply a prosy statement of commercial conditions of the stock market, but it gives rise to various considerations. One may buy in Honesdale or in any county seat in the United States a four-weeks-old calf for a few dollars.

If some calves are better than others, why don't the farmers put their efforts to raising the better kind? In these days milk production is getting to be a better source of income than extensive farming, but only when mileh cows of a good quality are used. It is true that every farmer has not the means to buy blooded stock, but nevertheless all can do something in the way of improvement.

Several years ago the Texas horned cattle were shipped to many of the Western markets. Now they are gone. Someone discovered that a certain brand of European cattle went all to meat and nothing to milk; hence the west is covered with this strain of cattle. Some cattle are good milk producers, some are famous for the cream, and these facts are well known but somehow, one never finds in cattle, sheep, hogs, nor fowls the qualities but somehow, one never finds in cattle, sheep, hogs, nor fowls the qualities of good breeding that logic would suggest. It seems wrong to say that it qualities of legislation along those legislation of money it is intelligence and a willing mind that is lackis a question of money. It is intelligence and a willing mind that is lacking rather than money. Secretary Wilson bemoans these facts every day, But it is certain that a month old calf that is worth $6,000 ought to set the farmers in this and every locality to thinking that the cost of living could be materially reduced if there were more blooded stock on our farms and less of the half-way methodsused in the raising of stock.

Wants Ashes Kept Off Streets.

Mr. Editor: The kicker is here again and wants kick hard enough to kick all of the ashes from the streets. We have a borough ordinance that prohibits the pronicious dumping of ashes on the streets of Honesdale. While the habit is quite general, I will only refer to sections of West and Upper East streets. The Ladies' Improvement Association have done much to beautify the streets of Honesdale and up to the citizens to keep streets clean and neat. If not, the town council should enforce the ordinance and not allow Honesdale to take a single step backward. So say we all.

There will be nominated at this convention a candidate for Auditor General, State Treasurer and four Congressmen-at-Large. The convention will also elect twelve delegates and twelve alternates at large to the National Republican convention, which will be held in Chleago, Tues-day, June 18, 1912.

Harrisburg, Jan. 25 .- The first twelve months of Governor Tener's administration form a chapter unsur-passed in the annals of Pennsylvania ooth for the enactment of progressive and constructive legislation and for the inauguration of policies that will eventually make the Keystone state pre-eminent in every branch of state government.

Simplification and codification have been the keynote of the present Executive's every move in launching new policies and in carrying to completion his inheritances. Harmoni-ous co-operation between all departments and branches of the state government has distinguished the activities of the past twelve months, and have made possible the early com-pletion of what seemed Herculean undertakings.

Standing out conspicuously as mile stones in the first lap of the present administration are such important pieces of legislation as the Highway bill, the School Code, the Mine Code, the new Insurance laws, the Consolidation of the Courts Allegheny county, the creation of an ntermediate Court in the same county and the inauguration of a modified form of commission government in the shape of a small coun-cil for Scranton and Pittsburgh.

The carrying to completion of long hoped for improvement in Peniten-tiary management is manifested by he recent purchase of a large tract in Center county to provide for the Western Penitentiary, as authorized by recent legislation. The almost forlorn hope of the Medical world— a single Medical Board—became a reality at the hands of the legislative branch of the government under the present administration. The Bureau Standard Weights and Measures, an initial step toward enforcing honest business methods, has also recently been created.

Occupying a most important place in the public affairs of to-day are the several commissions now working working under the direction of the Chief Executive; some endeavoring to codify and simplify present laws, others to devise the best way to provide leg-islation that will satisfactorily meet existing needs.

The schools of this state have long been a source of pride to Pennsylva-nians but the new school code enacted by the last legislature and placed upon the statute books by Governor Tener has given to educators the dream of a modern Utopia. The study of years, the experience of generations, the good qualities of many systems and the avenues best adapted to produce good results are inculcated in the Code that but recently became operative. To-day all schools from the palatial University to the most unpretentious little country school house are scrutinized and advised by a state board com-posed of recognized educational ex-And all this has been done to the end that Pennsylvania's school

The present administration advocates the raising of sufficient funds to insure the continued advancement of this state-wide improvement and to hasten its completion that the present generation might enjoy the best possible roads without the imposition of one addi-tional penny of tax upon real estate.

The Mine Code adopted by the last legislature has in the opinion of experts done more toward clarifying the situation in the bituminous district than any single piece of legislation ever before placed upon the statute books. In the codification and simplification of old laws the Code inculcates legislation that adequately copes with existing conditions. To this end a commission has been created whose duty it is to codily the laws relating to the analysis. thracite coal region and to prepare a Code that will embody the good tration to have regulation without xtermination. Of vital concern to the entire state is the success that has so far attended the consolidation of the Common Pleas Courts of Allegheny county, the inauguration there of an Intermediate court and the creation of a small council. By consolidationg the courts and creating the Intermediate court the western county has disposed of the congestion that heretofore clogged its legal machinery; has dis-solved the accumulation of years and F. This has not only accelerated the work of the court but has taken to final decision intricate questions that have long labored in vain for judicial determination because of the
