FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1912.

THOUGHT FOR TO-DAY.

Concentrate all your thoughts upon the work in hand. The sun's rays do not burn until brought to a focus.—Alexander C. Bell.

A Belleville, Kan., merchant has this sign on his store door: "Come in without knocking; go out the same way."

"Geography can properly be taught only from the newspapers," declared Dr. A. E. Winship, of Boston, in an address to the Utah Educational association in Salt Lake City on "Education for Prosperity." He declared newspapers are the greatest text books in the world, as no other publications could keep pace with the rapid changes of modern life.

Maj. William H. Anderson, who has just returned to the Philippines after a six months' tour in the United States, complains that in this country one hears only of the disasters in the islands like earthquakes, typhoons, pestilence and fire. He found business men skeptical as to trade possibilities. He himself is an enthusiast, but thinks a fast line of steamers from San Francisco needful for satisfactory trade relations. He owns, however, that "it might cost something in the way of subsidy." As to politics, he says: "It is deplorable that officials and other visitors from the islands traveling in the United States should predict all sorts of calamities to our local interests in the event of a change of administration at home."

TEMPERANCE PLANK IN PLATFORM.

For the first time since 1884 temperance advocates will invade the Republican and Democratic convention this year and ask that each party include a Prohibition plank in its platform. A subcommittee of the national federated committee, a body representing several Prohibition organizations, made public at Chicago Saturday the names of men prominent in the two parties who will be asked to wait on the delegates in behalf of the temperance bodies. Governor W. R. Stubbs of Kansas and J. Frank Hanley, former Governor of Indiana, are the Republicans named, and William J. Bryan and Congressman Richard Pearson Hobson, the Democrats.

In 1884 Frances E. Willard asked the committee on resolutions of the Republican convention to insert such a plank in the party platform. Her request was refused, and John P. St. John, former Governor of Kansas, withdrew from the party and became the Prohibition candidate for President.

Hail to the dispenser of good fellowship and cheer—not humor merely, but downright, wholesome friendliness and kindness for those absent as well as those present. As Henry Drummond puts it, "Without distinction, without calculation, without procrastination, love. Lavish it upon the poor, where it is very easy; especially upon the rich, who often need it most; most of all upon our equals, where it is very difficult, and for whom, perhaps, we do least of all."

A happy motto and resolve for the year is just love—love at home, love abroad; not a benign and passive love, waiting to receive and to respond, but an aggressive, assertive love, impelled by the force of its own eager initiative to bestow itself unselfishly upon those who need it. Let us gather the sweet fragrance of kindly affection and sympathy, the gentle aromas of service, the warm radiance of helpfulness and brotherly love, that our atmosphere may carry blessing to all through the busy days to come.

W. Morgan Shuster, the ex-treasurer-general of Persia, just now commands the attention of the world as the hero of the hour. He is an American financier who was recommended by the high officials of this country, and was called by the Persian government to recoup the deplorable finances of that country. He was beginning to do his work so successfully that Russia feared that Persia would not go to pieces for her enrichment and ordered him to be dismissed. It was useless to resist Russia and Mr. Shuster accepted his dismissal by Persia rather than bring on a bloody struggle. He has now reached Paris and one day this week spoke on Persia before a committee of the House of Commons. He recently concluded a review of the whole Persian situation with these words at Paris: "Persia's salvation rests with England, and England alone, for only England can check the encroachments of Russia. Only the awakened public conscience of England can give to ancient Persia a vestige of respectable self-government."

TERM OF SISSON UNDECIDED.

Harrisburg is somewhat disturbed over a peculiar question, and one without a parallel in this state, that has arisen with regard to the length of term of Auditor General Sisson.

When he was elected on November 2, 1909, the constitution read the term of the office should be three years. The constitution was amended at the same election, extending his term to four years and this was the law when he took office in May, 1910.

The question is, is the length of his term governed by the constitution, as it read when he was elected, or when he assumed office? The schedule, which was framed to adjust conflicting dates and terms, makes no mention of Auditor General. Inasmuch as it is necessary to know whether or not the Auditor General is to be elected this year or next, the courts will be called upon to decide this problem.

The evident intent of the legislature was to bring the beginning of the terms of all state officers into the uneven years, and their election in the November of the even numbered year preceding.

Therefore, the term of the Auditor General must have been overlooked, as it destroys the harmony of the arrangement. The reasonable argument is advanced that unless the courts hold that the four years' term amendment does not apply to the Auditor General, there can be no election for that office this year, nor next year either, as that is reserved for the local elections.

SHERMAN.

[Special to The Citizen.]

Sherman, Pa., Feb. 1. Having been solicited by the correspondent at Sherman for the Honesdale Citizen to write a few items, we thought it might be of interest to some of the older readers of this paper should I write a short letter. In the spring of 1869 we moved from Blakely Borough, Lackawanna county, Pa., to Salem township, Wayne county, Pa. We were there three years, subsequently lived and labored in other townships in Wayne county until April in the year 1879, when we moved from Orwell, aforesaid county, for Bradford county, Pa. After an absence of 32 years, on the twentieth of May last, we returned to dear old Wayne for a permanent location, in Scott township, in the beautiful hamlet of Sherman. To our great joy we find living here quite near together eight persons between eighty and ninety years of age, and some of them were our intimate associates seventy-five years ago. We wonder how many of the grand, noble, useful, true men with whom we have associated, and with whom we have labored still remain. Many we know have passed over, we trust, to their great reward. Will not some who read these lines call to mind Judge Hamlin, John P. Mitchell, Alva, and the other Mitchels, 'Squire James van Camp, the Walker family, the Andrews, the Bidwells, the Gillelts, the Simons, the Engles families. Oh, yes, and a host of others loom up in our memory. Better men have not lived in any age. I trust their descendants will emulate their example. I would love to speak of, yes, and greet many of the noble grands, and past-masters and skillful workmen that we have known in Honesdale, Prompton, Waymart, Orwell, Whites Valley, etc., but must not make this letter too long.

S. F. WRIGHT.
