STATUE TO DEAD CONFEDERATES

Memorial For Arlington Is Fast Nearing Completion.

WORK OF SIR MOSES EZEKIEL

He Declares the Monument Will Be the Crowning Effort of His Life—Photographs Show the Model to Be a Magnificent Work of Art.

The movement to erect a monument for the Confederate dead in the Arlington National cemetery, started seven years ago by the Washington chapters of the Daughters of the Confederacy and the Sons of Veterans...

It is proposed to erect the statue at the plot in Arlington where the remains of more than 200 Confederate soldiers are buried. All the expense attached to collecting and reinterring these bodies was borne by the national government...

Leaders in the movement say that it is peculiarly fitting that the memorial should be at Arlington, the estate of the "hero of the lost cause." Arlington has long been one of the most frequently visited points of the country in the vicinity of Washington...

The sculptor of the monument is Sir Moses Ezekiel, himself a veteran of the civil war, having been twice wounded, who won great distinction in the battle of Newmarket as one of the corps of cadets at the Virginia Military Institute...

Complete in 1913.

The attention of the executive committee was attracted to the work of Sir Moses when he was in this country to attend the unveiling of his statue of Stonewall Jackson, then being erected in West Virginia. The committee requested him to appear before it and give an idea of a fitting memorial...

The price for the monument was to be $35,000, of which $5,000 was to be reserved for the erection and shipment. This price was later increased to $50,000...

The entire time of the sculptor is being devoted to the work, and he has informed the committee that unless something unforeseen happens he will be able to fulfill his contract.

Sir Moses has sent photos of the work to the committee from time to time, but he stipulated that they were not to be made public until the work has been completed. It is said, however, that the central figure of the memorial is to be the figure of a woman to represent the south...

Around the top of the circular base on which the figure stands are the seals of the Confederacy. Beneath this are some fifteen figures—men, women, children and soldiers—all allegorical and typical and each a work of art in itself.

Photos Are Most Beautiful.

At the present these are two-thirds size, and they will be enlarged to full life size. These photos tend to show that the completed monument will be one of the most beautiful in the country.

The entire work will be in bronze, and all the funds allowed the artist for his efforts will be placed in the actual material of the work. Being imbued with the spirit of the undertaking, the artist has announced that he will make every effort to make the monument the crowning achievement of his career.

The cornerstone of the memorial is to be laid during the convention of the Daughters of the Confederacy, which is to be held in Washington next November, when thousands of women who are the daughters of the men that helped the "lost cause" will be present...

The officers of the executive committee are: Hilary A. Herbert, chairman; Mrs. Marion Butler, vice chairman; Mrs. Drury Conway Ludlow, recording secretary, and Wallace Streater, treasurer. The advisory board is composed of Francis M. Cockrell, J. J. Darlington, Charles J. Faulkner, Randolph H. McKim, Thomas Nelson, Seth Shephard and Marcus J. Watson.

AWAIT T. R.'S SPEECH.

At Ohio Constitutional Convention Colonel Will Sound Keynote.

New York, Feb. 15.—The platform upon which Theodore Roosevelt will stand for re-election, if he is the presidential choice of the Republican national convention at Chicago, was outlined at a conference in which Colonel Roosevelt, Governor Hiram W. Johnson of California, ex-Senator Fihn of Pittsburgh, William H. Nelson of the Kansas City Star and E. A. Van Valkenburg of the Philadelphia North American took part.

The conferees edited the speech which Colonel Roosevelt will make before the Ohio constitutional convention on Feb. 21, and in which he will make a declaration of his progressive policies.

It is just possible that Colonel Roosevelt may fire the opening gun of the "progressives according to Roosevelt" campaign in the letter in which he will reply to the demand of the conference of progressive governors held last Saturday in Chicago for more light to guide them upon their way...

WOULD CUT EXPRESS RATES.

Adamson Bill Proposes 50 Per Cent Reduction in Profits.

Washington, Feb. 15.—A bill prescribing the rates to be charged by express companies engaged in interests of commerce will be reported to the house of representatives in the near future. The bill was introduced by Representative Adamson of Georgia, chairman of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce.

The measure was discussed at a hearing attended by Franklin K. Lane, a member of the interstate commerce commission. Mr. Lane submitted to the committee facts and figures collected by the commission incident to the conduct of its inquiry into the management and practices of the express companies.

The Adamson bill, if enacted into law, would cut the earnings of the express companies in half. The bill proposes a material reduction in rates, amounting in the aggregate to about 50 per cent. It provides that packages of certain weight, the contents of which do not exceed $50 in value, shall be carried for distances of 2,000 miles and over for $1.20; just under 2,000 miles, 75 cents; not more than 1,200 miles, 50 cents, and not more than 700 miles, 35 cents.

FAMOUS "BEANERY" CLOSED.

Its Doors Locked For First Time in Thirty-one Years.

After thirty-one years, during which time the key was never turned in the lock, night or day, Judd's "beanery" on State street, New Haven, Conn., a famous eating house frequented in its day by many notables, including former Governor Ingersoll, was closed and the door locked by the rusty old key.

Ezra Judd, the proprietor, was ordered to vacate because of changes in the building.

WOULD LABEL SINGLE MEN.

Philadelphia Prosecutor Urges Insignia to Warn Against Married Flirts.

Joseph Rogers, assistant district attorney of Philadelphia, has come out in favor of labeling single men. He believes they should be distinctly marked with some conspicuous label and suggests that a neat bachelor button would be about the proper thing.

In advocating this innovation, Mr. Rogers gives several reasons, the chief one being to protect young women from married men flirts.

"But how would you enforce the wearing of the bachelor button?" Rogers was asked.

"Oh," he replied, "I am not going to discuss that matter. That is a nut for some other person to crack. All I say is that such an innovation would be a good thing."

Rogers is married.
