WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 21, 1912.

A THOUGHT FOR TO-DAY.

Pleasure comes through toil and not by self-indulgence and idleness. When one gets to love work, his life is a happy one.—Ruskin.

There will be 372 delegates in the next Republican state convention according to the table compiled by Secretary W. Harry Baker of the state committee and sent to the commissioners of the various counties giving the apportionment of delegates by legislative districts.

Have you paid your corporation tax? If not you have until March 1 to do so. Every corporation that fails to file the required statement of business done during the last calendar year is liable to a specific penalty of from one thousand to five thousand dollars. Failure to file the return in case the tax is due also subjects the company to an assessment of fifty per cent. of the additional tax. Corporations whose net income does not exceed five thousand dollars are not exempted from filing the returns. Four hundred corporations were delinquent in making their returns in this district last year. Of this number all but twenty-three made acceptable offers in compromise, and those who did not settle with the Internal Revenue department will be prosecuted at the United States court March 11, which convenes in Scranton.

When a town pays one-fifth of all the taxes in Wayne county, like Honesdale is doing, it is worthy of some recognition. There is no reason why she should not enjoy some of the improvements in return. To what better advantage could a few hundred dollars be placed than by putting it into a footbridge? The temporary structure, which Nature has provided during the past few weeks, will soon have passed away and then pedestrians will be compelled to walk several blocks farther to and from work. The ice bridge will be missed in the vicinity of Court street, but those who now find it a great convenience and time-saver feel confident that with the large balance in the county's treasury and the good board of commissioners who direct its uses, that the Court street footbridge will replace the ice bridge next season. It is not as though nothing had been done toward securing the bridge, but to the contrary—everything has been accomplished that is necessary, with the exception of advertising for bids. A fine, reinforced concrete structure has been selected. It is simple in design and its absolute necessity has been heralded in these columns. We hope that at the next regular meeting of the Wayne county commissioners some action will be taken to assure the public that the bridge will be erected.

"THE POOR YE HAVE WITH YOU ALWAYS."

A story which must arouse the indignation of all civilized people or all people of human instincts whether civilized or savage, is that of Henry Thomas as told in the Scranton papers on Saturday last. The barbarity of pagan Rome towards its unfortunate and afflicted poor falls into insignificance when compared with the inhuman treatment given to this man and his family. It appears that Thomas and his family consisting of the parents and eleven children at sometime were obliged to apply to the poor board of some poor district in Pennsylvania for temporary relief, and from that time they have been driven from pillar to post; from one poor district to another until they were finally obliged to live for one whole month in a HEN HOUSE in Lemon township, Wyoming county, Pennsylvania.

Four years ago the family lived in Scranton, Lackawanna county, but finding it difficult to provide for so large a family, Thomas concluded that he might have better advantages in the country. From that time to this he has not been permitted to remain in any poor district long enough to gain a residence there, but has been driven by the poor authorities to avoid the possibility of the family becoming a town charge. The case was reported to the Scranton Poor Board on Friday of last week by Mr. Beemer, Superintendent of the Hillside Home, and immediately the family was offered relief and a home furnished them; this Mr. Thomas declined, saying that all he needed, was to be let alone by the authorities of the district, so that he could keep a job when he got one. He stated that he had lost several jobs as soon as the poor authorities of the district learned that himself and family had been at some time a town charge. He secured work at Overfield, Wyoming county, cutting ties, but worked only a few days when he was discharged, being told by the foreman, that the poor authorities did not want him in the district through fear that he may become a burden upon the poor district. He moved from there to Lemon where he got work, digging a ditch; while here he saved enough money to buy a cow, when he suddenly lost his job through the alleged activities of the Lemon Township poor authorities, who saw in the distance the possibility that Thomas and his family may possibly need relief from the district. The cow had to be sold in order to furnish food for the children. It was here that the family was driven in the HEN HOUSE, as no person in the district would dare furnish him a house, lest they be held responsible by the poor district. Finally a charitable inclined woman, Mrs. Emeline Billings, who is the mother-in-law of The Citizen's Linotype operator, F. A. Thompson, gave them a house in which to live. It seems inconceivable that such savagery should exist in Pennsylvania and among officers selected by the people to dispense the funds legally collected for the purpose of caring for those unable to care for themselves. The Lemon district (the name is suggestive) furnished the family temporary relief at one time and forwarded the bill to the Poor District of Scranton where it was paid. The bill consisted of $28.00 of relief furnished to Thomas and $23.00 attorneys fee, undoubtedly all the legal talent of the county must have been employed to advise the poor board how to economize. If the Lemon district was the only one where the poor board feels called upon to practice economy to an extreme which becomes criminal, the affair would be worthy of slight consideration.

There are other districts nearer home where relief is given to the poor only after the applicant has been humble in the dust, given to understand that he and his family brought poverty upon themselves and are a burden upon the honest taxpayers of the district, and generally no good any way, that if he had not been extravagant and imprudent he could care for himself. These guardians of the poor, in defense of their position say they are willing to help the "worthy poor" but not the "unworthy poor" who are poor by their own acts, and still no place in the gospel of Christ is any reference made to the worthy or unworthy poor; neither does it seem to be reasonable that innocent children should suffer for the necessities of life which the law entitles them to, because some officious over-seer actuated probably by his own penurious disposition feels that the child's father was imprudent. Is it possible that the taxpayers of Lemon poor district are so niggardly or penurious as to approve of the action of the Poor Board in bringing such odium upon a district before the civilized people of the State?

RECEIVE SIXTY-FIVE IN SODALITY.

Sodality of St. John's R. C. Church receive 65 Members.—Rev. J. J. Griffin, Former Honesdale Boy, Preached Impressive Sermon.

The Blessed Virgin Sodality of St. John's R. C. church held a reception on Sunday evening in the church at 7:30. The reception was in charge of Rev. Father John O'Toole, assisted by Father J. J. Griffin and Father Burke. There were sixty-five candidates for membership in the Blessed Virgin Sodality and they were received into the order. The Blessed Virgin Mary's Altar was beautifully decorated with potted plants, carnations and roses, a profusion of candles and colored lights making a very beautiful scene. The Altar was also decorated with ropes of smilax. The music consisted of special hymns for the occasion. The service was opened by Rev. Father J. J. Griffin, a former Honesdale boy, with a sermon on the Virgin Mother of God, which was perhaps the best and most impressive sermon ever delivered in St. John's church. Father Griffin is an eloquent speaker and has charge of a parish in Wilkes-Barre. The Benediction of the Holy Sacrament was given by Father Griffin, assisted by Father O'Toole and Father Burke. At the close of the service Father O'Toole spoke a few words of congratulation to the Sodality. After the services were over the congregation greeted Father Griffin, who has a host of friends and former acquaintances here, having been educated in the Honesdale High school and spent most of his life in this parish.

The Blessed Virgin Sodality has a membership of three hundred and fifty members and is composed of the young ladies of the church.

PENN MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE CO.

SURPASSES ALL PREVIOUS RECORDS—EXCELLENT REPORT GIVEN—GROWTH RAPID—ASSETS $120,000,000.

The Sixty-fourth Annual Report of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance company, just published, shows the usual steady progress and conservative advance which always characterizes this good old home institution. The company issued new paid-for insurance during the year amounting to $73,134,301.00, a greater net volume than in any other year of the company's history.

The annual report may be condensed and summarized as follows: Total assets, Dec. 31,

1911,	$126,855,296
Gain in premium income	1,106,599
Gain in interest, etc.,	5,557,328
Death claims paid	5,557,328
Endowments and annuities paid	2,139,381
Dividends to policy holders in 1911	3,500,694
Gain in dividends to policy holders	294,632
Increase in surplus	321,953
Total deferred dividend fund	8,758,126
Gain in deferred dividend fund	599,126
Total insurance in force	532,550,097

A noteworthy feature of the company's new business for the year, in addition to the increased volume, was the adaptation of life policies to commercial needs, partnership and corporation purposes, where death would entail financial loss upon survivors. More than $8,000,000 of insurance was issued by the company last year for partnerships and corporations for the protection of surviving partners and to corporations for their partial indemnification against the loss by death of officials or other highly valuable members of the organizations, such as general managers, superintendents, and generally those whose services contribute largely to the success of the companies.

The company's reserve for the protection of all risks is calculated upon the highest standards, and exceeds in this regard the maximum requirements of any state in which it operates.

During the year 1911 the factors from which surplus is derived all yielded large returns—the saving from expense margin, lower mortality than was expected and provided for, and interest earnings largely in excess of reserve requirements, enabled the trustees to make an increased dividend award.

Its members of which there are many in this community, will be beyond question derive great satisfaction from the fact that while the company is growing rapidly in every respect, with assets over one hundred and twenty-six millions and insurance of five hundred and thirty-two millions, this growth is neither through an increase in cost to its members nor a reduction in their security.

The company is earnestly desirous that every economy consistent with the proper conduct of its business shall be exercised. Its underlying purpose is that the interests of each policy holder shall be impartially and fairly considered. It means that every policy holder in the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co. is entitled to and actually gets, a square deal.

The Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co. has behind it a record of honorable dealing and steady growth for sixty-four years and this is due not only to the high character of the management, but also to those who come into direct contact with the policy holders, the agency force, Messrs. Bourke & Durham of Philadelphia, have general supervision over eastern and Central Pennsylvania.

In this section Messrs. Hittinger & Ham, White Mills, Pa., have very efficiently represented the company as district agents for many years.
