Brief mention of the death of Mrs. H. C. McDermott, of West Pittston, was made in the last issue of The illizen. citizen. We herewith reproduce an article taken from the Pittston Gazette, which will be of increst to many of our readers:

sorrow was manifested among West Pittston people to-day when news came of the death of Mrs. Estelle McDermott, beloved wife of Rev. Dr. Hugh C. McDermott, superby an out-of-town automobile with the meaday noon on Fifth street. The intendent of the Wilkes-Barre discount machine was operated by a young of the Wyoming Methodist Episcopal conference, who passed away early morning at the family home platform truck which has a capacity of 6000 pounds and weighs two tons. of the wagon were both broken, but couple of garage and weighs two tons. couple of years, the untimely end of her useful life came very suddenly. She had been under treatment at Clifton Springs, N. Y., for many weeks, but returned home apparently much improved in health, and during recent weeks her condition was such as to give the members of her family much encouragement. A few days ago she was again stricken and on Sunday morning she became worse, but her condition was not such as to cause great alarm. About four o'clock Tuesday morning a sudden collapse came and within a short time she breathed her last. It is believed that the immediate cause of death was heart failure. Mrs. McDermott was about 60 years of age. She was a native Sheshequin, Bradford county, 1 her maiden name having been Estelle L. Gillette. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Gillette. On April 21, 1874, she was married to Rev. or. McDermott. During the two years that her husband was pastor. Christian life.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two daughters and two sons: Mrs. Ethel Olver, who resided with her parents; Miss Ada McDermott, a teacher in the New York schools; Hugh McDermott, of Schenectady, and Bruce McDermott, of Niagara Falls.
