Wayne County Preacher Claimed to Be Lost.

Word has been received from Rochester, England, that the Rev. H. T. Purkiss, of Lakeville, Wayne county, has disappeared from the place he was visiting there and the police have been asked to look for him. It is believed he is a victim of amnesia. His health failed a year ago and the members of his congregation raised a purse and sent him abroad to rest. A couple of months ago his friends had a letter saying he had been robbed of his ticket and money as he was about to make the return trip. A second purse was made up for him, although the steamship company denied that he had been robbed.—Scranton Times.

Rev. Dr. Crydenwise is Energetic in the Master's Work.

The Rev. H. M. Crydenwise, of Binghamton, father-in-law of the Rev. Walter Austin Wagner, pastor of the First Congregational church of Middletown, N. Y., is a remarkable man. This fact was thoroughly impressed upon everyone who attended any of the services at the First Congregational church on Sunday. Rev. Dr. Crydenwise is 73 years old but if those who heard him preach had shut their eyes and judged his age by the sound of his voice and the quality of his sermons, they would have thought he was a young man and a most eloquent one at that.—Mercury.

LICENSE COURT.

The application of M. F. Downs, of Buckingham township, for a hotel license, was considered on Tuesday afternoon before the court. Attorneys Searle and Salmon and McCarty for Downs, and Attorneys Sims and Stocker for the prosecution.

The hotel in question is located on the river road at a point several hundred yards back of the main road. It is one and one-half miles to Hancock, N. Y., 9 miles to Equinunk, 8 miles to Lake Como. Several remonstrances were filed against this petition and among them were two from Hancock, N. Y. These two remonstrances coming from persons living in the state of New York could not be considered, however, their evidence was allowed to go in.

Michael Brengstein, W. N. Stevens, Jacob Hunt, Ben. Robinson, Christ. Murphy testified to the good character of Mr. Downs and the necessity of a hotel at this place, saying that it was an ideal spot for summer tourists and to go to pay a toll to cross the bridge. J. A. Boyd, Jr., showed pictures to the Court which he had taken of the proposed hotel and he stated that he had been inside the house, which is almost new and well conducted. M. F. Downs stated that he expected to serve the best class of the public as he had done in the past and that he was not depending wholly on business from Hancock. He said he could accommodate 30 people, his house having 16 rooms and a large dining room which would seat nearly 20 persons. He stated to the Court that he was an experienced hotel keeper, having some eleven years' experience in this state and also in New York. He produced a book showing last year's business which showed receipts from boarders $837.75, and from travelers of $39.50, making a total of $877.25 for the year.

In the remonstrance there were seven witnesses, William Kingsbury, Hancock, N. Y., H. A. Williams, Hancock, N. Y., Boyd Belknap, Jas. Hoag, Ed. Terwilliger, Mr. Kingsbury, Autumn Leaves. These witnesses all testified to the lack of travel on the road where the hotel stands and stated that one was not necessary here for the travel was mostly by drummers, who hired rigs in Hancock to go to Lake Como and Equinunk and invariably went back to Hancock for hotel accommodations. Some of the witnesses were against hotel licenses on general principals but most of them opposed the hotel license on the ground that it was unnecessary.

One man stated that that region was on the decline and not as progressive as it was 20 years ago when the lumbering was good. He stated that even the school was going down, having only three pupils at this time. This same man said, when asked if he didn't think advertising would bring business, "No need of advertising. What's the use of wasting your money on that."

Will Raise Bridge.

One of the first jobs to be done on the Delaware division of the Erie the coming season will be the raising of the railroad bridge that spans the highway at Deposit. The bridge will be raised one foot and 10 inches, and is done for the purpose of safeguarding brakemen who are obliged to ride on top of the cars at this point.

TRAINS GO TOO FAST.

Railroad accidents have been so frequent of late that the Public Service Commission at Albany, has issued a statement giving its conclusions on the subject. The statement says: "It would be far better if we Americans would be satisfied to travel slower. It would increase safety. Investigation may indicate the necessity of compelling the reduction of very fast train speeds in cold weather."

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

The gradual development of our country into one of the world's great nations may be followed in the pictures exhibited at the High school March 28, 29 and 30. The Indian is well brought out as a human being, not a mere blood-thirsty savage. He is seen to have thoughts and feelings akin to our own, social relations and industries of peaceable, home-keeping significance.

Colonial times also are brought to mind—the formation of the Union and many other significant events in our national development. There are views of superb American scenery from the Atlantic Ocean to the Pacific. In fact a national commentary, full of beauty and meaning, is in the pictures.
