From the day three years ago when placed its interests in the keeping of Illiam Howard Taft to this hour laor has critically scanned his every t, and with discriminating mind it is dging him as one who, without clamor demonstration, has kept the faith n Sept. 9, 1908, Theodore Roosevelt. en president of the United States, rote a letter to Conrad Kohrs on the sues of the campaign and, addressing mself to the laboring men, said:

"If there is one body of men more an another whose support I feel I ve a right to challenge on behalf of cretary Taft it is the body of wageorkers of the country. A stancher end, a fairer and truer representive they cannot find within the borrs of the United States. He will do erything in his power for them expt to do that which is wrong. He ill do wrong for no man and therere can be trusted by all men."

Mr. Taft Labor's Friend.

The workingmen of the country dged Mr. Taft in 1908 by a record of enty-seven years as a statesman, adnistrator of national affairs and presntial adviser, and they helped to e him the magnificent majority hich put him in the White House. aring the three years he has been esident his excellent record has been intained so splendidly that the inring men have been confirmed in the lief that they never had a better end in the White House.

The establishment of the postal savrs banks, which was recommended President Taft, was one of the ings that organized labor favored e $16,000,000 now on deposit in these positories represents the savings of wage earners.

Taft's Personal Interest.

President Taft approved a law on ly 30, 1908, to compensate workmen injuries received while in the emy of the United States. After the age of this act a number of workn in the employ of the federal govment were killed, and their fams, not being familiar with the prodons of the law, failed to file affida s within the specified time. The sec ary of commerce and labor had no wer to set aside the provision of the and was therefore obliged to disprove the claims.

he matter was taken up by the presnt, and he satisfied himself that juswas not being done to the families the men who had been killed. He it a special message to congress recmending that a general act be passallowing all such claimants compenion if their claims were otherwise ritorious. This was an instance that red the president to be broadmindand anxious to aid the workingmen iny way that he could.

n employers' liability act approved e 11, 1906, was on January 8, 1908, d to be unconstitutional. Another this sort was passed on April 22, 8, which as yet has not been tested the courts. Through the efforts of president a commission was apnted to make an investigation of subject of "employers' liability workmen's compensation."

Thirty Years' Service. 71th regard to the bigh cost of liv-

man---W. D. B. Ainey

The primary elections will be held on Saturday of this week and all Republicans should remember that one of the offices for which a candidate is to be named is that of Congressman. There is not the slightest doubt that the Hon. W. D. B. Ainey of Montrose, who is now filling out the unexpired term of the late Hon. George W. Kipp, will be named in this district. As the district is strongly Republican he will, of course, be elected in November 1. trict. As the district is strongly Republican he will, of course, be elected in November. Mr. Ainey has been in congress four months, and in that time has shown himself a thoroughly efficient and capable official. He is industrious and constantly alive to the interests of his constituents, and at all times has given evidence that he is entirely qualified by nature and training to capably meet and discharge the duties pertaining to the exalted office of United States Congressman. He has already frequently in his short term of office shown himself a friend of the soldier and has done some excellent work in their behalf, and it may be confidently predicted that in the future among Mr. Ainey's warmest friends and adherents will be found a large majority of the soldier element. Our new congressman has proven to be a good one, and in his own party there is no dissenting voice to the proposition that he be renamed and re-elected, and the Fourteenth district in November next will give him a rousing majority and the same may be safely predicted of the primary election on April 13.

This unparalleled record of thirty years' service to the cause of all the people is deserving of consideration. No charge of broken faith or of broken promises can be made, no hint of departure from the plain path of duty can be laid at the door of William Howard Taft, who without ostentatious display has wisely and fearlessly administered the trust imposed upon him in 1908, when he was elected to his high office by the votes of labor

John Wanamaker Gives Good Rea

The great merchant, John Wanamaker, is a candidate for delegate to the Republican National Convention and favors Taft. He says he is for Taft because he "believes in his capacity, his character and his leadership, and it will be conceded these are pretty good reasons.

Mr. Wanamaker speaks for a class numbering, he says, 2,000,000, who are engaged in business life. Unare engaged in business life. doubtedly the natural desire of that class is for a President whose tendency and influence are to give tranquility to business, and who does not threaten the welfare of the people by strange doctrine or appeal to passion or prejudice to promote his pur-pose. He advocates the re-election of President Taft because he believes that it will best promote the welfare of every section of the country and the railroad trainmen. Mr. Cease all its people and particularly will devoted the best years of his usemen and their employes who when the country is free from disturbance and dissension that hurt and hinder prosperity are "contented and happy, busy at work, well fed, well clothed and makers of good homes." Mr. Wanamaker believes that Taft's reelection will promote these conditions and, therefore, he seeks to bring it about.

Mr. Wanamaker sailed for Europe the other day and the day after salling sent back by the pilot boat a letter addressed "To my fellow citifellow merchants, and other working men, with whom I have been associated for fifty years." The letter touched briefly on the fact that he was a candidate for the national delegacy and contained the following tribute to President Taft:

"I believe in his character, his capacity, his leadership. I believe that the experience that he has had is a guarantee of better things. I

He has not followed the will-o'-thewisp nor has he chased rainbows. Steadfastly, with dignity and effec-tiveness and tireless energy, he has done his work.

"Prove all things, hold fast to that which is good," is the counsel of a Wise Man that has certified in twenty centuries since it was spoken.

At one time before C. F. Wright was appointed State Treasurer, there was a balance of about $500,000 past due and uncollected from counties and townships. At the end of his first year in office the balance due and unpaid was only about $11,000.

When the ballots are counted after the primaries to be held on Saturday of this week it will be found that Hon. W. D. B. Alney of Susquehanna county, has been renominated for Congress from the Fourteenth Pennsylvania Congressional District, and after the ballots have been counted next November it will be found that the same gentleman has been elected by a large majority. There isn't the slightest doubt of this.
