That there was a moral, if not a legal, obligation resting upon her husband to be generous without qualification in the provisions of his will relating to her is altogether a matter of opinion. The subject is one upon which people will never agree, and discussion of it must run a natural course until a more ab-

Saturday's session opened with music, after which Rev. Samuel Tolley offered prayer. Dr. LaRue then gave a talk on "The Relation Be-tween Language and Grammar" or Language Course." Many valuable points were brought out, among them the following: Grammar should be postponed until late in the course: Language should be taught from the beginning in an informal way and the conversational method "Basic Principles Underlying the Language Course." Many valuable way and the conversational method was highly recommended. Among ed an ample ante-nuptial settlement the first steps in teaching language the imitative method should be employed, then the more formal work may be attempted, thoroughly criticized by the teacher, after which the pupil may be taught to criticize and correct his own work. This talk was followed by a short discussion.

The next period was taken by Miss Elizabeth A. Baird, her subject be-ing "How I Teach Geography." First she would teach the world 38 whole, bringing out the interdependence of nations, the influence of one nation on another, causes and effects the geographical world.
