Orchard Demonstrations Being Well Attended.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 28.—The present spring campaign of spraying demonstrations in the model orchards under the direction of Prof. H. A. Surface, economic zoologist of the State Department of Agriculture, has created a widespread interest in the protection of fruit on the trees from the ravages of pests such as the codling moth, curcullo and destruc-tive fungous diseases. The attend-ance at the public meetings has been unusually large, in spite of adverse weather conditions in many places. Thousands of fruit growers have witnessed the operation of spraying trees by the state agents and are treating their orchards in accordance with the improved methods shown.

"A DESCRIPTION OF LIFE." By Mary B. Burnett.

There is nothing in Life but the smiles of the past, and their glances has charmed us with awe; there is nothing in Life but the shadows of strife, as they fade with the summers that's gone.

There is nothing in Life but a glimmer of light as it peeps from the curtain of night; there is nothing in life but the joys of today, to fill us with bliss unexcelled.

There is nothing in life but the sorrows of morrow, to with dart of despair; there is nothing in Life but a fond hallo, as it stays with a lingering good-bye.

There is nothing in Life but the ragrance of flowers that soon lose their sweet perfume; there is nothing in Life but a few short years, and like those we'll pass from this

The history of the great strife has not been written and cannot be written until after the death of all those who lived during the time.

When in after years the story of this mighty conflict shall be written, when time shall have mellowed the cellings of those who may be called upon to hand down to future ages, a record of the great strife, yes, when time like an angel of peace shall have stolen from the heart the enemity engendered by the strife, then your names shall shine among the list of those whose heroism and sac-rifice have shed luster upon the age n which you have lived and fought.
