The funeral was to have been held on Monday, but owing to the non-arrival of a sister of the deceased the services were postponed.
—W. J. Reif opened his new shoe store this morning, the old board front having been taken away on Wednesday afternoon. The new front has caused much speculation on the part of Honesdale residents as it presents as up-to-date an appearance as any store in this part of the state. Mr. Reif carries two principal lines of shoes, the Walk-over shoe for men and Queen Quality shoe for women. Many of the merchants are having their store fronts repainted and which adds much to the general appearance. These evidences of improvement and progress are gladly welcomed by all.

—That it pays to advertise in The Citizen is demonstrated by the fact that a beautiful Cameo pin, which was recently lost by a Scranton lady who was in Honesdale on business, was found and returned to the proper owner on Thursday. Isaac Ball, janitor of the court house, found the valuable pin lying on the lawn, which he was mowing one day last week. He took the pin home, learned of its intrinsic value and began to make inquiries concerning its owner. While at a friend's house a member of Ball's family learned that a pin answering the description of the pin found was advertised in The Citizen. The friend, who is a valued subscriber of The Citizen secured the paper and read the ad in the cent-a-word column of this paper. A comparison was made which resulted in the lost being found. The pin was brought to The Citizen office Thursday morning and that afternoon The Citizen liberally rewarded Mr. Ball. This goes to prove that The Citizen is the best advertising medium in Wayne county. If you happen to find or lose any article telephone an ad to The Citizen and it will secure its owner. We have both 'phones.
—That persistent energy, ambition and determination is the almost certain basis of success is again forcibly illustrated in the rapid progress of Nicholas Hessling. Mr. Hessling's stand is located on the old D. & H. canal. In 1898, although the last to start in the undertaking business, he is now transacting as large a business as any and is increasing rapidly. This is due to the courteous treatment received by his patrons combined with modern equipment and scientific methods of carrying on his business. Mr. Hessling as an embalmer and funeral director is an expert, holding several diplomas from the Champion College of Embalming which is the largest and most modern institution of its kind in the United States. This equipment consists of the newest design of funeral car, which was received last year, and a new ambulance and floral display wagon which arrived here in July, an equipment which is unequalled. N. Hessling & Son deal in all kinds of monumental work, in which Mr. Hessling has twenty-two years' experience. N. Hessling & Son are always open and ready to assist the deserving poor.

"OH! YOU GIRL"

Smiles From Pretty Honesdale Girls Result in Highway Corps Losing Jobs.

Four Scranton young men, members of prominent city families, were discharged Saturday from the employ of the state highway department, because of complaints of residents of Honesdale that the young men were "fresh." District Engineer John I. Riegel discharged the corps, retaining in the service only the chief, Herbert Williams, who was exonerated from any participation in the escapades.
Mr. Riegel in discussing the cases said that the corps had been at work in Honesdale since early spring, but that work had become slack recently. Loafing on the part of the engineers, coupled with an evident desire to smile and talk with the girls of Honesdale, resulted in gossip throughout the county-side.
So persistent did the complaints become in Honesdale that Judge A. T. Searle, of the Wayne county court, who had been appealed to by residents of Honesdale, reported the matter to the state highway department offices in Harrisburg. Mr. Riegel was told to investigate the complaint and in company with Mr. Williams, chief of the corps, began the investigation.
The result was the discharge of four of the corps members and the warning of others. No appointments succeeding the engineers let out have been made, as yet.
"Too much flirting with the girls," said Mr. Riegel, in explaining why the engineers had been let out. "They won't come back while I am district engineer. It was too much for the Honesdale people to see employes of the state standing around on corners chinning the ladies."

BOARD OF TRADE BULLETIN

No. 6. HONESDALE, PA., AUGUST 2, 1912. Vol. 1

[Published in the interest of Honesdale and vicinity.]
The Board of Trade is anxious to know how many families in Honesdale and vicinity would possibly patronize what is known as a "wet wash" laundry. A washing is done and returned wet to the customer. Are there enough people who would support a like industry here if same were obtained?
If you have not been supplied with the neat little folder, entitled "Industrial Honesdale," apply to the secretary for some of these booklets. The Board of Trade requests every merchant and business man to enclose one of these folders in every letter sent out of Honesdale. It presents Honesdale in an intelligent manner before the public at large.
—Patronize home merchants. They help to pay our taxes, the out-of-town man does not.

There Are Two Things which the up-to-date business man MUST HAVE in the handling of his financial affairs.
1. He must have the assurance that his funds are in his own hands, and that his interests are being looked after more carefully than it is possible that they could be even under his own management.
2. In every detail he must have the possible in order to minimize the friction of his daily routine of business.
