REPUBLICAN TICKET.

For President, WILLIAM H. TAFT; Vice-President, JAMES S. SHERMAN; State Treasurer, ROBERT K. YOUNG; Auditor General, A. W. POWELL; Congressmen-at-Large, FRED E. LEWIS, JOHN M. MORIN, ARTHUR R. RUPLEY, ANDERSON H. WALTERS; District Congressman, W. D. B. AINEY; Representative, H. C. JACKSON.

THOUGHT FOR TO-DAY.

Getting money is not all a man's business; to cultivate kindness is a valuable part of the business of life.—Dr. Johnson.

THE REASON.

There is good reason why many men should bitterly oppose the Progressive party.—Theodore Roosevelt. Indeed there is, Colonel! Very good reason. There is the best of reason why all sober-minded citizens should oppose it, and the reason is—you.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

HAY FEVER.

The rag weed (ambrosia artemisiifolia) is now in blossom and the pollen, which is alleged to create hay fever, is in the air, though it is claimed in certain quarters that atmospheric conditions and constitutional weakness are the cause of hay fever. At any rate, people have the distressing and annoying nasal and throat trouble and depressing effects in certain localities or sections of the country and get relief only by going to the hills or mountains until Autumn frost comes and clears up the atmosphere.

Hay fever has never been known to listen to reason or to take advice. Sneezing has been tried, and has failed. One of the striking features of the misfortunes known as hay fever is the persistent nature of the remedy promoters. As each remedy makes the attack from three to seven times worse the remedy becomes part of the general plan of demonstrating just what agonies the patient can endure. As must have been inferred by the layman, the better the general health of the victim, the more poignant his sufferings under an attack of hay fever. The more he can stand the more he can take on. A patient fully equipped with nervous energy and constitutional endurance, after a Summer spent in preparation, can, if he aggravates the conditions with sufficient remedies, wallow in misery of the most exquisite nature, and each season establish a new record for human endurance and a new justification of the divine plan. Some, weak mortals, take to flight, and become exiles rather than face the martyrdom. But enough will always remain to show the utter impotence of the doctors, and the consummate cunning of nature.—Scranton Times.

THE ANIMUS OF MAGAZINES.

Many persons who have a sincere desire to be fair to President Taft have made up their minds that he must be an undesirable sort of Chief Magistrate because the magazines of the country—even those which are supposed to be entirely non-political—are prejudiced against him.

For this "there is a reason," as they say of the breakfast food. Mr. Taft's administration has insisted that the magazine publishers should pay their way through the mails as other business men do who are no more prosperous than they.

From the practical viewpoint of vote-getting, this was impolitic, of course. You may even believe that the publishers have good grounds for complaint, although it seems to us unfair to expect the government to make them rich by paying a large annual postal deficit.

But whether you side with the publishers or not in this single dispute, you must admit that every magazine in the country has a personal motive in wishing to prevent President Taft's re-election.

And it is certainly to the credit of the President that he has refused to advance his own interests by mollifying the irate publishers, just as he has declined to temporize with his tariff principles by signing the wool and steel bills forced through Congress by the coalition of Democrats and "progressives" for purely campaign purposes without any reference to the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad. Mr. Taft is not a politician. He is a statesman who has the courage of his convictions, and who at all times and under all circumstances declines to prostitute his high office by using it for his own personal advantage.

This is the "weaking" denounced as the "creature" of those iniquitous "special interests" which are leading and financing the fight to elect anybody except William Howard Taft President of the United States.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

THE PROGRESSIVE CONVENTION

Aside from the trouble which arose by reason of the turning out of the negro delegates from the South, the Progressive convention at Chicago went through according to programme without a hitch. There was no reason why it shouldn't. It was conceived, planned and carried out by one man. All other Progressives deferred to his wish and obeyed his will, and whatever was said by the convention it was the voice of Roosevelt that spoke. He is not only the candidate and leader of the new party, he is the party itself. Apparently sobered by a sense of his own responsibility, he exercised much self-restraint both in his speech expounding his political views and programme, and in the declarations of his platform. Neither are nearly as radical as his former utterances had led the public to expect they would be. He still holds, but with no great emphasis, to the subversive doctrines of the recall of judges and of judicial decisions. Aside from these positively injurious principles and the doctrines of the initiative and referendum and of woman suffrage, which are, to say the least, of doubtful expediency, the platform contains nothing that may be considered new, startling or revolutionary.

Many of its best features are contained, in different form in the platforms adopted by the Republican and Democratic conventions. Indeed, the real Republican Progressive will find nothing of value in the principles enunciated by the new party that he does not find in the principles adopted by the Republican party. The radical point of difference between the two is that Col. Roosevelt attempts to draw to him the army of the discontented by promises and visions of equality and prosperity that he cannot hope to fulfill, to be obtained by means which are utterly subversive of constitutional rights and orderly procedure; while the Republican policy is that of sure and steady progress along constitutional lines, equality of opportunity to all, and the protection of every man's right to obtain prosperity fairly.

As to the legal right of Col. Roosevelt and his followers to launch a new party, it cannot be denied. But before the fall elections occur the people will have discovered it to be a needless extravagance, since it offers no inducement to Democrats to abandon their own faith, and offers nothing to Republicans that they cannot obtain by adherence to their own party. So far as is now apparent the new party has but one real purpose in its being and that is to afford Col. Roosevelt an opportunity to run as a candidate for the presidency.

WISDOM IN TAFT VEToes.

It begins to dawn upon business men generally that President Taft, by his vetoes of the wool and steel bills, has saved the country from hasty and ill-considered tariff legislation which might have done a great deal to upset confidence and effectually check the tide of commercial prosperity which has been slowly but steadily rising for some weeks. Clearly it was the purpose of Democratic and Progressive Senators and Representatives in their attitude on the tariff to make campaign material which they thought would aid them at the election in November and work a corresponding injury to the Republican cause. But the veto messages of President Taft were so convincing that the bills could not be passed over his objection. His logical arguments could not but appeal to the good sense of legislators disposed to put the welfare of the country above the cause of the political party which they might espouse.

By fearlessly performing his duty President Taft has made many friends. He has forcibly directed attention to the fact that but for a Republican President, the steel industry, which is just recovering from a period of semi-prostration, would have received a blow that might have closed industrial plants and thrown thousands of working-men out of employment.

The country can well afford to wait to have its tariff laws revised deliberately along intelligent lines, as recommended by a commission which will study every aspect of the complicated subject. This has been the position of President Taft all along and he deserves great credit for adhering to his fixed policy under trying circumstances. Although Woodrow Wilson, as the leader of the Democratic party, is a strong advocate of revising the tariff downward—and very far downward—he deprecates hasty legislation and approves the Republican policy of careful investigation by commission in order that legislators may have full information upon which to base a new tariff law. On this point the candidate is no doubt further advanced than are most men who are conspicuous workers within the Democratic ranks, and if he should be elected difficulty would arise in restraining Democratic Congressmen from hasty and drastic tariff legislation. This is the point which forcibly dawns upon business men since the episodes of last week. President Taft has advanced his own chances of re-election by doing the right thing in the right way. Such acts will far outweigh the effect of campaign speeches that are so "full of sound and fury, signifying nothing."—Philadelphia Press.

SUCCESS IN BUSINESS.

"The attributes in a man which are essential to success," says Mr. Henry Clews in the Strand, "are honesty, fidelity, patience, judgment, and courage. The big men of today are now on the look-out for young fellows possessing these virtues, as the captains of industry have their hands and heads more than full of details, and are seeking for lieutenants to whom they can delegate some of their work." "It goes without saying that honesty and truthfulness are the main qualifications, but unless backed by judgment they will not qualify any man to become a leader. Patience is a virtue, and haste to better himself has often been the rock upon which men have been wrecked. Every man should know himself, and with this knowledge should know for what he is best fitted, and should make himself by study a master of details and conditions. When good work has attracted the notice of his superiors, and he is entrusted with more important duties, courage comes into play. Without the courage to fight and to overcome difficulties man has not the measure of self-confidence to ensure success.

STERLING.

(Special to The Citizen.) A piece of the pipe has been laid for the proposed reservoir on the hill and it is to be hoped that it will be completed before the ground freezes. On Aug. 14, the Ladies' Aid met for dinner with Mrs. John M. Catterton and notwithstanding the rain there was a good turnout. Three new members were added to their number. The aid kindly donated $25 for the proposed "water in the parsonage."

Susie Cross is visiting friends at Kingston. A number from this section attended the various picnic parties that met at Moosic Lake, Aug. 15. Charles Stucker got a piece of stone in his eye and was obliged to spend several days in Scranton before he could get it out. Mrs. Emeline Butler is still on the sick list. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Butler left on Saturday for Scranton, enroute to visit Mr. Butler's sister, Mrs. Grace Flak, who is ill at Plymouth.

David Cross, who has passed a year at Pittsburgh, is home on a vacation. Report says John Stevens has sold his farm and stock to James Van Why for $3,000. We are also informed that Eugene Baisly has sold his farm. Beulah Cross has just returned from a visit with Stroudsburg friends. We are now having what we have desired for a long time—lots of rain.

TEMPERANCE SOCIETY HOLDS OUTING.

Temperance Day was observed Saturday, August 17, by Pride of Wayne, Div. No. 232, Sons of Temperance, of White Mills. The outing was held about a mile or two out of town in the grove owned by Lyman Garratt, which by the way, is an ideal spot for this purpose.

The afternoon was delightfully spent with games of all kinds. The feature of the afternoon's enjoyment was a base ball game between two teams known as the "Tigers" and the "Cubs" in which the Cubs triumphed by the score of 9 to 8. The game was very interesting from start to finish, both pitchers doing excellent work.

The "Tigers" got an early lead which seemed hard to overcome. At the beginning of the seventh inning the score stood 6 to 1 in favor of the "Tigers" and they were all smiles, but their smiles soon disappeared as in the last half of this inning, the "Cubs" started a rally which completely took the "Tigers" off their feet, and when the dust had settled, the "Cubs" had scored eight runs to their credit.

The "Tigers" came back strong in the eighth and ninth innings, but were unable to again take the lead. The feature of the game was a home run made by Downs in the first inning. He also did good work behind the bat. The lineup: "Cubs." E. Wood, 1b; W. Walker, W. Crist, 2b; F. Haggerty, R. Driscoll, rf; Ed. Wood, F. Falk, 3b; A. Silsby, O. Branning, c; S. Downs, M. Wood, lf; I. Falk, A. Mallett, p; J. Falk, J. W. Toms, 3b; E. Elmore, L. Garratt, c; Will Toms, Umpire—T. Walker.

Score by innings— "Tigers" . . . 1 0 1 0 3 1 1 0—8 "Cubs" . . . 1 0 0 0 0 8 0 x—9

After the game the ladies, to show their appreciation of the good work done by both teams, served an up-to-date luncheon which everybody seemed to enjoy and no one had to go dry even if it was a "dry" bunch as there was soft drinks served of all kinds; also ice cream. It was late in the evening when the crowd returned home, all reporting an excellent time.

Much praise is due to Mr. and Mrs. L. Garratt in the way they helped to make the outing enjoyable to all.

STEENE.

(Special to The Citizen.) Steene, Aug. 21. Mrs. Winifred Mumford, of Southern Pines, is spending the summer months with her mother and grandmother here.

Mrs. J. E. Haley is visiting a week with her daughter, Mrs. William Wright, at Carbondale. Mr. and Mrs. David Mill and family of Beach Grove, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Cole.

Fred Theobald, of Honesdale, was a caller at Steene Sunday. Merchant Datesman and Edward Richardson report a large catch of the finny tribe at Keens Lake on Saturday.

Warren Buckland is gathering a good supply of slippery elm bark. He says that it's a sure remedy for plenty of eggs during the winter months.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Spangenburg, who have been spending their vacation with the latter's parents here, will return to their home at Carbondale Wednesday.

Crops are looking fine since the recent rains. John W. Arnold has given up the poultry business and gone back at his old trade healing the sick.

Charles and James Cole, of Forest City, spent Sunday with their brother, William, here.

Lesley Mill has purchased a whole outfit of farm tools. Something is about to happen.

SOUTH PRESTON.

(Special to The Citizen.) South Preston, Aug. 21. The Spencer reunion will be held in the Poyntelle grove Saturday, August 24. Come all ye Spencers. Alma and Laverne Noble, of Calkins, recently spent a week with relatives in Preston.

The South Preston Sunday school held a box social in the grange hall last week. Nineteen dollars was realized and was paid on the pastor's salary.

Wright Bell, wife and daughter, of Oneonta, N. Y., recently made an auto trip to Preston and spent a few days with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Bell.

S. B. Doyle is rebuilding his house. Emery Spencer is doing the work. Mrs. S. E. Brooking and daughter, Louise, are spending a week with relatives in Carbondale and Bethany.

Beulah Swingle, of Avoy, Pa., is visiting her aunt, Rose Butler. Mrs. Kate Clemo, of Bethany, is spending a couple of weeks with her brother, Charles Spencer. Leon Stone and Martin Denio spent last week in Atlantic City. It is hard to believe some of the things the boys tell about seeing while there

BOARD OF TRADE NOTES.

The next regular meeting of the Board of Trade will be held the second Friday of September.

Parties from Binghamton recently called upon the Board of Trade for the purpose of establishing a steam laundry in Honesdale. They were favorably impressed with the town and were confident that Honesdale and its nearby surroundings could keep an industry of this kind busy night and day.

How about your supply of Board of Trade envelopes? If it is exhausted renew your order. Keep Honesdale before the public at large. There is no better place to live, work, spend your vacation or do your trading.
