THOUGHT FOR TO-DAY.

To make the most of dull hours, to make the most of dull people, to like a poor jest better than none, to wear the thread-bare coat like a gentleman, to be outvoted with a smile, to hitch your wagon to the old horse if no star is handy-that is wholesome philosophy .- Bliss Perry.

Mr. Flinn and his friends seem to be getting all the fight they want out ine, whereas he flatly and vigorously of Senator Penrose.

in practices which he proclaims despicable, Mr. Roosevelt is not one whit less contemptible than the temperance lecturer who carries a flask in his hip pocket.

Whether rightly or wrongly, the public has been educated to believe that campaign contributions from 'big interests' must necessarily be more wicked than the contributions from "little interests," and it is the decree of public opinion that corporations like the Standard Oil Company shall be absolutely severed from polities.

Consequently, the discoveries that have been made through the charge of Flinn and his associates should be fully developed, no matter who suffers by them. Mr. Flinn's ardor shows a notable cooling since the publication of his telegraphic correspondence by code with Mr. Archbold regarding his ambitions to become a United States Senator. It is significant that he does not deny the correspondence, contenting himself with insinuating that it is not genu-

SANITARY HOUSES.

"A sound mind in a sound body," is the old saying. Nowadays we add to this "and a sound body in a sanitary house." If you intend to well your home must be keep healthy.

Tuberculosis is called a house disease. So is typhoid fever. This is because they so often occur in unsanitary homes.

A house is not santary it should has plenty of windows. It should not be a dump or any place where it cans and refuse are thrown. A house is not sanitary unless it old cans and refuse are thrown. There should be no stagnant gutter water near it. The cellar should be clean and dry—so also should the wall paper and the plaster. If you have a cistern or a well, see that it is not near a stable or where filthy water can drain into it. Keep your garbage can covered. See that your bath room and kitchen are as spick and span as your parlor. The ill ventilated, dingy house, in bad surroundings is a breeding place for disease. Everybody ought to know this. But you have only to walk down your street to see how many people have unsanitary homes in one or another respect. Make In one or another respect. Make your motto, therefore, "a sound mind in a sound body and a sound body in a sanitary house."—Karl de Sch-weinitz, Executive Secretary, Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis.
