Reports received by the state game commission indicate that game of every kind will be abundant this year, the season having been favorable for propagation of feathered game in all parts of the state.

The shooting of birds before sunrise is prohibited. The snipe season runs until May 1. There is no limit on the number of birds that may be shot.

Raccoons will also be legal game after September 1, and may be taken in unlimited numbers until January 1. The plover season is now on, and good kills are reported from many counties.

OLD INDIAN TYPE IS FAST DISAPPEARING.

Sculptor Engaged to Make Busts Before Type Vanishes.

The government has at last recognized the importance of preserving for future generations a true likeness of the old Indian type, now fast disappearing, and Frank Micka, a New York sculptor has been sent to the western Indian reservations to make busts and masks, which will be placed in the United States National museum at Washington.

Mr. Micka is in Winnebago, Neb., and is making studies of the very old Indians as well as pure bloods of a younger age. For several months he has been among the Sioux in South Dakota, and after finishing his work among the Omahas and Winnebagoes he will go to the Onges in Oklahoma and thence to the Apaches and Navajos in New Mexico and Arizona. Altogether his work will require the greater part of a year before it is finished.

The completed busts and masks will first be placed on exhibition at the San Francisco-Panama-Pacific exposition, but their permanent home will be in the museum at Washington.

"The greatest obstacle that I have to overcome," said Mr. Micka, "is the superstition of the Indians, especially of the women. They seem to think if a likeness is made of them it means their death. So they will not pose for me without great persuasion—and pay."

"When I came to work on the children," continued Mr. Micka, "I realized that the government had not begun an instant before it was necessary to begin, if the true Indian type was to be preserved. The children are diseased almost beyond belief. Of the 200 children I examined there were only two who were good models. Practically all of the others were suffering from disease."

"In a few more generations the Indian race will be almost extinct, or at least the distinctive characteristics of their forefathers will have disappeared. Most of the present day Indians bear the marks of civilization on their faces. The white man's way is removing the lines worn by the old Indian method of life."

WHITE A PERIL TO CHILDREN.

Doctor Says It Causes Irritability and Is Sheer Cruelty.

A statement which will be read with interest by every parent is made by a well known London doctor, who has come out with the assertion that the use of the color white is so bad for young children that its almost universal employment on and around them is nothing short of cruelty. "Much of the irritableness and peevishness of babies and children may," he says, "be put down to their constant association with white."

"Banish white from your nurseries! See that everything about the children is colored, either green, blue or yellow—their clothes, coats, toys, nursery wall papers and even ceilings."

"Many nurseries are decorated like this—a snow white cot, white or creamy paper (relieved perhaps by a fairy tale frieze) and white ceilings. The babies, of course, wear white clothes, and when they go out there is a white perambulator with a glaring white hood at which baby lies and stares."

"It is sheer cruelty. It is just like placing anybody on the Alps, where he cannot escape from the monotonous dazzling fields of snow. Apart from the discomfort, white is extremely hurtful to the delicate retina of the eyes and may permanently disarrange the sight."

"Make the nursery bright and cheerful with soft colors. My own nursery is tempered a soft green, and my two children rarely wear only white clothes. Toys, coats, baby carriages—everything should be colored—never, by the way, a bright red, which is even more irritating than white."

TELEPHONED BABY TO SLEEP.

Mother Halts Card Game and Sings Lullaby in Transmitter.

Putting babies to sleep by telephone is the latest innovation in social circles at Steubenville, O. This method of quieting fretting youngsters whose mothers leave them at home while they enjoy bridge was introduced by Mrs. Harry G. Zanier while attending an afternoon party. The nurse phoned to Mrs. Zanier that the baby had been crying for an hour and that she could not quiet it. Mrs. Zanier gave a few hurried instructions to the nurse. A moment later the guests were surprised to hear Mrs. Zanier singing a soft lullaby in the transmitter.

The baby had been placed in a basket on a stand near the phone, the receiver close to its ear, and it was lulled into dreamland by the soothing tones of the mother's voice. In five minutes she had resumed her place at the card table.

Men's Hats For 1912.

As far as can be seen at the moment, there will be no marked change in the styles of men's hats for the spring of 1912; but, according to a statement of an authority, there is a strong possibility that the rough finishes in soft hats that have enjoyed so much popularity of late will be relegated to the background. Black derbies are expected to supply the major portion of the business done in that line, as usual. Gray, slate and kindred shades will be the most popular colors in soft hats from present indications, with staple blacks coming in for the usual share of the attention of buyers.

OUR COURTS OF JUSTICE.

The Superior Court.

The superior court of Pennsylvania was established by an act of the legislature approved June 24, 1895. Annual sessions of the court are held in Scranton and in various other cities of the state. It is a court of appellate jurisdiction to which appeals from the lower courts in civil cases involving small amounts and all criminal cases, except murder, may be taken. This court also passes upon Orphans' court matters. In the first Superior court that sat in Scranton were Chief Justice Charles E. Rice and the following judges: Jas. A. Beaver, Howard J. Reeder, George B. Orland and Henry J. McCarthy. Since then Judge Henry J. McCarthy was succeeded by Peter F. Smith of the Lackawanna county courts, and on the resignation of Judge E. N. Willard the latter was succeeded by W. D. Potter. The present judges in the Superior court are: Chief Justice Charles E. Rice, J. J. Henderson, Thomas A. Morrison, George B. Orland, John B. Head, James A. Beaver and William D. Porter.

United States Court.

An act of Congress passed Aug. 5, 1886, provided that two sessions of the United States District and Circuit courts of the Western District of Pennsylvania should be held at Scranton. In pursuance of this act Justice Bradley of the United States Supreme court formally opened the same on September 6, 1886. A fine building to accommodate the postoffice and these courts was soon, thereafter, through the efforts of Congressman Joseph A. Scranton, erected at Washington avenue and Linden street.

A large number of lawyers, officials and citizens attended the first meeting of this court held in Scranton, among whom were Hon. George W. Miller, United States marshal; H. D. Gamble, clerk of the circuit court, S. C. McCandless, clerk of the district court, and Wm. A. Stone, United States attorney. The court appointed T. F. Penman deputy clerk; Jacob B. Snyder, clerk; Albert S. Newton, William Frantz, E. J. Williams, P. G. Walsh, and Jacob Ritter, bailiffs. Addresses were delivered by Justice Bradley, Hon. F. W. Gunster, president of the Lackawanna Bar association; Hon. W. A. Stone and Hon. H. W. Palmer.

The seventy-two members of the Lackawanna bar were on motion of Hon. W. H. Jessup admitted to practice in the United States courts for the Western District of Pennsylvania.

When Judge McKenna in 1891 resigned as Circuit Court Judge, Judge Acheson was appointed his successor. To fill the vacancy thus created in the district judgeship, Hon. James A. Reed, of Pittsburg, was appointed to the office and presided at the session of the court here on March 2, 1891. Judge Reed sat here in United States courts for several years and was succeeded by Judge Buffington of Pittsburg, who continued to preside until 1901 when the Middle District was created.

Middle District Court.

On March 2, 1901, Congressman Wm. McConnell secured the passage of the act creating from parts of the Eastern and Western districts of Pennsylvania, the Middle District and providing for sessions of the courts at Harrisburg, Scranton and Williamsport. On March 29, 1901, Judge Archbald was elevated to the bench of this court by appointment of President McKinley, and continued in the office until Feb. 1, 1911, when he became one of the judges of the newly created Commerce Court by appointment of President Taft, with the rank of circuit judge which position he now holds.

Unfathomable Man.

"Mamma says a woman never can understand men."

"Does she?"

"Yes. She says if a girl had taken piano lessons, her husband will not buy her a piano, but if she has taken cooking lessons the first thing he will buy is a range."

So "Clevah!"

Intrepid Widow—Speaking of conundrums, Mr. Slocum, here's a good one: Why is the letter "d" like a wedding ring? Procrastinating Bachelor—Oh, I'm no good at conundrums. Intrepid Widow—You give it up? Why, because "we" can't be "wed" without it.—Tit-Bits.

W. W. Parker and N. Frank Fraley motored to Milford on Saturday.

OUR HIGHWAYS.

Harrisburg, Aug. 29.—Almost $25,000,000 or one-half of the amount of the bond issue which it is proposed to issue in Pennsylvania for the construction of a system of State highways, was appropriated by the State of New York last year for the construction and maintenance of roads. In the same year Pennsylvania's total appropriations for road purposes approximated hardly one-fourth of the amount specifically devoted to roads in New York state.

New York in the same year reorganized its State Highway administration, abolishing the highway commission of three members and creating a State Highway department along the lines followed by the Sprull highway department act of 1911 in this State. The same general plan for construction of highways has been adopted in Ohio and Maryland, which have created highway departments and set aside large sums for the making of experiments and the necessary work preliminary to the establishment of a system of State Highways. New Jersey is planning development of its already extensive system of highways and Indiana, Illinois, Texas, Kansas and other western States have embarked in road building on a scale which will make the Keystone State hustle to hold up its end.

Figures obtained by the Pennsylvania Motor Federation, which is working earnestly for the establishment and maintenance of a system of roads that will connect county market towns and traverse the rich farming and scenic sections of Pennsylvania, show how New York has undertaken to build and maintain roads which at many points will connect with those projected in Pennsylvania.

The New York appropriations are an object lesson to Pennsylvania, who will be called on next year to vote on the proposition to issue $50,000,000 of bonds, divided over a period of years, for road construction. For 1911 alone New York appropriated: For construction of certain specified roads, $13,955,000. For improvement of public highways, $8,000,000; for State proportion of amounts appropriated for repair of highways, $1,795,254.27; maintenance and repair of highways constructed by state aid, $1,207,079.

In the same year the Pennsylvania appropriations for roads were as follows: Construction of state highways, $3,000,000; for State aid in construction of highways, $1,000,000; for construction of township roads, $500,000; for payment to townships of amounts due under road tax, $890,000; for construction of National road, $300,000; for reimbursement of townships, $17,000.

Maryland in 1911 appropriated $1,000,000 for road construction in addition to other expenses authorized.

New York highways have brought hundreds of thousands of dollars of revenue into the state through increased traffic and added vastly to the value of farms as enabled farmers to obtain ready access to markets. Pennsylvania can not afford to lag.
