REPUBLICAN TICKET.

- For President, WILLIAM H. TAFT.
- Vice-President, JAMES S. SHERMAN.
- State Treasurer, ROBERT K. YOUNG.
- Auditor General, A. W. POWELL.
- Congressmen-at-Large, FRED E. LEWIS, JOHN M. MORIN, ARTHUR R. RUPLEY, ANDERSON H. WALTERS.
- District Congressman, W. D. B. AINEY.
- Representative, H. C. JACKSON.

THOUGHT FOR TO-DAY.

September seems to me to be the fairy among the months of the year. She is so crowded with gold, so full of play and magic spells, she has no work to do, and it is she who transforms the green woods and gray marshes to wonderlands of fairy fire, and brings the great pale moon back round and full night after night into the skies. Yes, September has a magic!—Hildegard Hawthorne.

PRESIDENT TAFT.

Labored under the disadvantage imposed by hostile control of the House of Representatives and a hopelessly split majority in the Senate of the Sixty-second Congress. President Taft has had an unusually difficult course to steer. The majority in the House, ably captained, with a deplorable but thoroughly human instinct has insisted on "playing politics." The insurgent Senators have bent their energies to play the devil. In the Congress the Republican party has been in a hopeless minority.

Under these circumstances the position of the Executive has been vexatious, trying and exposed to unusual dangers. It is to Mr. Taft's credit that he has sustained it without more concessions to the expedencies of the hour or the necessities of the political campaign in which he is engaged. He has been the President of the United States first and an intelligent partisan second. He has not been a trimmer, nor has he sacrificed his convictions because of clamor or misrepresentation.

President Taft has made mistakes as every President must. But his essential sincerity, modesty, good sense and strength of character are convincingly apparent.—New York Sun.

A REAL PRESIDENT.

President Taft undoubtedly is winning the approbation of large numbers of his fellow countrymen by the dignified course he is pursuing with relation to his candidacy for a second term.

While the insatiable Third-Term-er is coveting about the country with his customary clutter, and the Democratic candidate is issuing daily pronouncements as to his attitude on this, that or the other subject, the President is devoting his attention quietly to directing the affairs of the government. The scant leisure the late adjournment of Congress afforded, he is spending with his family.

The unparalleled campaign of abuse and misrepresentation waged against him by Theodore Roosevelt in advance of the primaries made it necessary for the President for a time to enter the lists and personally correct the falsehoods uttered against himself and his administration, but as soon as it was humanly possible to do so he quit the stump and reassumed the attitude of dignified aloofness from political imbroglio which, until the days of the Rough Rider, generally characterized the occupant of the Presidential chair.

President Taft is himself again. He does not wish to be President unless the people really desire it, and he believes they are quite capable of deciding the question wisely, despite the din that is being raised in certain quarters.

OSCAR S. STRAUS.

The Progressive state convention of New York, held at Syracuse last week, nominated Oscar S. Straus as its candidate for governor. The nomination came as a dramatic climax to an otherwise uninteresting session. Hotchkiss and Prendergast, the two rival candidates, had locked horns for a determined struggle when a somewhat spectacular character, known widely as "Suspend Jack" McGee, mounted the platform and in an impassioned speech presented the name of Mr. Straus. The idea caught the convention, the delegates were swept from their feet, everybody was shouting for Straus, Hotchkiss and Prendergast and Timothy Woodruff, seeing the unavoidable trend of things, tumbled over each other to second the nomination and amid wild applause and enthusiasm it was made unanimous.

Whether this nomination was the result of a careful but secret pulling of the wires, or, as it appears to be, the unpremeditated result of a situation grasped at the psychological moment, does not now matter. It is in many respects an admirable one. Mr. Straus is a man of exceptional character and standing. As business man, philanthropist, cabinet member, and foreign ambassador he has done distinguished service to his country and deserves well of his fellowmen. But the platform adopted by the convention, on which he is supposed to stand, will doubtless prove his undoing. The voters of the Empire state are not yet ready to accept in all of its eccentric and radical features the Roosevelt propaganda. Nevertheless it behooves the Republicans of the State to meet this nomination with one equally as strong.

THE RESULT IN VERMONT.

The result of the state election in Vermont last week is doubtless a fair indication of what the result of the national election will be in November. After a vigorous campaign by all three of the leading parties, the vote stood in round numbers about as follows: Republican 26,000, Democrat 20,000, Progressive 15,000. An analysis of the result shows that the Progressive votes came entirely from former adherents of the Republican party. Not only did the Progressives fail to draw from the Democratic ranks, but the Democrats, encouraged by the three cornered fight, increased their normal vote by about three thousand. Neither party having polled a plurality of the votes, the election will be thrown into the state legislature and as that is strongly Republican, a Republican administration for Vermont is assured.

The position of the Progressive party in this campaign is strongly indicated by the vote in Vermont. Its strength is drawn entirely from the Republican ranks. It cannot hope to poll as many votes as will the Republican party. As in Vermont, it can cripple but it cannot kill the party from which it separated. The only advantage to be obtained by any party as a result of the Bull Moose movement will accrue to the Democrats. This was clearly foreseen when the movement was inaugurated. Not that the leaders desired Democratic success, but that Col. Roosevelt and those in his confidence, had but one end in view, and that was the defeat of President Taft and those who supported him as against the third term candidate. While it is already clear that Col. Roosevelt cannot be elected he is still carrying on his campaign in the hope of defeating and humiliating the President and his administration by any means in his power, even though it should lead to Democratic success and the consequent evils of free trade. But the Progressive movement has reached its climax and is now on the wane as the result in Vermont distinctly proves. And as its purposes and fallacies come day by day to be better understood by the people, and its strength dwindles accordingly, the Democratic hope of defeating the old-time antagonist of Democracy, becomes more and more faint. The campaign of education is going steadily on, and long before the day of the November election the result so clearly foreshadowed in Vermont will be practically assured.

HAWLEY.

(Special to The Citizen.)

Hawley, Sept. 12. Mrs. Alice Palmer and daughter Helen, of Brooklyn, have been spending the past month at Park View hotel. A fine souvenir booklet has just been issued which tells of Hawley as one of the places with a prominent future—a future that means prosperity and happiness for many thousands of people who will in the years to come be attracted here by the important things now developing. The booklet speaks of Hawley as 125 miles from New York city by the Erie railroad, at the junction of the Lackawanna and Paupack rivers, in a land of enchantment that is filled with the things that make for life's delights. The nearness of the town to the great park of the Blooming Grove club, and to Scranton is also fully told. Of the manufactures here there is mention of our three silk mills, our cut glass and bottle factories, and the knitting mills, as well as the lumber industry. All other good features of the town, such as the streets, fine homes and well-kept lawns, the schools, the fire department, the water works and electric light works, and also a field for athletic sports are referred to, and then is enumerated the many fraternal organizations which lend to the uplift of the community.

But the one thing that is specially interesting in the booklet is what is said about the great big power dam which is now under construction just over the hill towards Wilsonville on the Paupack river, where already a half million dollars have been spent, and where three millions more will be expended in forming the greatest water power proposition in the country next to Niagara Falls. L. B. Stillwell, of New York City, formerly of Scranton, claims this will be the best proposition of the kind east of the Rocky mountains. The lake which the dam will form will be fifteen miles long, four miles wide, and cover twelve thousand acres, with a total fall of 225 feet, yielding from 20,000 to 25,000 horse power. This great lake is to furnish power for various industries, scores of which are expected to locate here, and there will be an electric power supply line extended to the Lackawanna and Wyoming valleys, so that the results of this vast undertaking here will be felt scores of miles away.

The concrete walk in front of Snyder & Freethy's pharmacy is completed and the store will soon have a new large plate glass front. The sidewalk in front of Wm. Schardt's property has also been raised. Our town is progressing.

Harry Plum is making an extended trip to New York.

Mrs. Curtis Wilds left this morning for a visit in Syracuse and Binghamton, N. Y.

The new concrete garage of G. Watts & Son presents a fine appearance. A recent visitor from Honesdale remarked that it makes our town look quite civilized. We are glad that Honesdalers appreciate our efforts at improvement.

DAMASCUS.

(Special to The Citizen.)

Damascus, Sept. 11. The latest information is that C. D. Fortnam and bride were given one of the loudest serenades on Wednesday night last that has been heard in these parts since boys were boys. Night was made hideous until midnight by the use of various kinds of instruments, and weapons of warfare. We welcome Mrs. C. D. Fortnam into our midst and wish for the new couple the best of everything that life can bestow. Mr. Fortnam has brought his bride home to a well-furnished, spacious and substantial home and may they both be favored with a long and useful life in it.

Miss Fannie McIntyre, of New Hamburg, N. Y., is here visiting relatives and friends, to pass part of the time allotted to her as a vacation. It is the place of her nativity, and "there's no place like home." Miss McIntyre has for several years been connected with the Bowdoin Charity School, of New Hamburg. This institution takes children of destitute parents in the East Side, New York city, gives them a glimpse of a better life and a different way of living, clothes them, returns them to their parents. There was at this institution at one time the offspring of a couple both of whom were deaf mutes, yet this child was intelligent as the majority of children. It is said, however, that if such offspring should have progeny they would be deaf mutes the same as were the grandparents. This school spoken of is located on an eminence overlooking the Hudson river and about a quarter of a mile back on the eastern side. It has a large farm and poultry plant connected with it, yet there is not produced enough raised upon it for the maintenance of those in the institution. This man of millions takes this method of using some of his money and at the same time alleviate the sufferings of some fellow mortals.

CENTERVILLE.

(Special to The Citizen.)

Centerville, Sept. 11. Patrick Garrity, of Philadelphia, was the guest of his mother a few days last week. Among those from this place who attended the dance at Philip Krieger's given in honor of his son Philip, were Mary Lane, Elizabeth and Wm. Garrity, James and Margaret Marshall. All report a real good time. Miss B. Garrity who spent the last two months at her home here, returned to Philadelphia on Friday last. This will be her last visit home for some time as she expects to enter the convent in Philadelphia. Her mother, Mrs. E. Garrity, returned with her where she will spend a few weeks visiting with her daughter, Mrs. John McGinley, at that place. Fanny Spangenberg and Vincent Kelly, of Audell, were the guests of Mary Lane on Sunday. We are sorry to hear of the illness of Mrs. John O'Connor, but hope she is better at this writing.

WHITES VALLEY.

(Special to The Citizen.)

Whites Valley, Sept. 11. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gardner, of Binghamton, N. Y., are being entertained by relatives and friends. Misses Maud and Olive Allen have returned home after spending a week with their aunt, Mrs. E. M. Horton, at Prompton. Mrs. Allie Mills and Mrs. Beers, of Honesdale, were guests of Mrs. O. C. Miller last week.

Mark and Clara Fisher returned home accompanied by their uncle, Wm. Fisher, who brought them in his touring car from Maryland. Mr. Fisher returned to Emmetsburg, Md., Monday, via Easton. Clarence Bryant has purchased of Drake & Bonham, Carbondale, a five-passenger Ford car, 1912 model.

Mrs. D. E. Hacker was called to Scranton Sunday by the illness of her grandson, George Perkins. Mr. and Mrs. John Jennings attended the funeral of Wm. Mains at Carbondale Sunday. Nelson Crossman, who has filled the pulpit at the Baptist church at Steelton, during the summer months, is spending his vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Crossman.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Martin, a son. Mrs. John Romich, son Burton, and daughter Romich, recently visited relatives here. Mr. and Mrs. Murphy motored from Hawley Sunday and called at O. C. Miller's.

Mr. and Mrs. N. Lee and sons of Herrick Center, were guests at R. I. Lee's Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. S. McGivern returned Monday to New York after being entertained several days by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stagawald. Ralph Lee, will make an extended visit with his brother, R. I. Lee. C. V. Bonham and L. P. Stark have returned home after spending several days camping at Rock Lake.

ARLINGTON.

(Special to The Citizen.)

Arlington, Sept. 12. Cora A. Bidwell returned recently from Milford to take up her duties as teacher at the Amherstmontown school. Grace E. Bidwell returned last week.

Miss Bortree opened the Arlington school Sept. 3. D. D. Patterson of Ardel, and J. C. Carlton are doing the carpenter work on F. C. Carlton's house. Leon Hafer and father are doing the mason work.

Homer Bidwell of Gouldsboro, spent Sunday home. Lester M. Carlton returned a victory from the athletic meet held in Scranton Labor day, getting second place in both mile and three-mile runs.

Bertha Finley of Hawley, spent a few days home recently. George Finley is working in E. L. Peck's mill at Uswick.

TYLER HILL.

(Special to The Citizen.)

Tyler Hill, Sept. 11. Many farmers are threshing their oats from the field. Mrs. Fannie McIntyre, of New Hamburg, N. Y., is spending a few days in town.

Miss Rachel Tinkelpaugh, of Peckville, is visiting Irene Pethick. School began on the 3rd of this month with M. N. Brigham, of Damascus teacher. There was a box social at the home of Chas. Pethick on Friday evening. Proceeds were $5 which went to the treasurer of the Y. W. B. C. of the Baptist Sunday school. Services next Sunday: Damascus Baptist church at 11 a. m.; Damascus M. E. church at 11 a. m.; Calkins at 7:45 p. m., Rev. R. D. Minch officiating.

Percy Cole made a business trip to Waymart Wednesday.
