Bishop Whitehead Threatens Heresy Charge.

TOLD ARUNDEL TO KEEP OUT.

But Former Preacher In Pittsburgh's Most Fashionable Church Declares He Will Stick and Continue to Uphold the Doctrines of Christian Socialism.

Pittsburgh, Sept. 17.—Regardless of Bishop Cortlandt Whitehead's orders to the effect that he must not return to the Pittsburgh diocese, the Rev. Dr. A. W. Arundel, former rector of the fashionable Trinity Episcopal church, arrived in town ready to assume charge of St. Mark's Episcopal church, from which he received a call a few weeks ago.

Dr. Arundel announced that he had come to the city prepared to take charge of St. Mark's church and that he would preach Christian Socialism to the congregation of the South Side church, no matter what Bishop Whitehead thought about it.

Bishop Whitehead, who is in Paris at the present time, warned Dr. Arundel soon after the latter had resigned from the rectorship of Trinity church that he must not return to this diocese.

It was also said a few weeks ago that the bishop would prefer charges of heresy against Mr. Arundel if he persisted in his intention of accepting the call to St. Mark's church.

Dr. Arundel is outspoken in his denunciation of a clique of wealthy men who forced him out of Trinity church because he preached the doctrine of Christian Socialism. He claims the same clique is responsible for Bishop Whitehead's attitude toward him now.

ARREST BALL PLAYERS.

Men Said to Be Members of Phillies in Row.

Philadelphia, Sept. 17.—Three men, whom the police believe are members of the Philadelphia National League baseball team, were arrested in Atlantic City after a row in a cafe.

The men gave their names as William Killifer, George Walsh and Ralph Morgan. The last name is thought fictitious, and the man who gave it is believed to be Earle Moore.

The men entered the cafe about midnight, seating themselves at a table near that of Harry Kuehnie, Egg Harbor, N. J. It is said that the ball players began to flirt with members of the Kuehnie party.

Kuehnie was prompt to show resentment, and in the disturbance which followed chairs were upset, glasses smashed and plates scattered about. Three detectives took a hand, and the ball players were arrested.

Charles S. Doolin, manager of the Phillies, said that he was certain that neither Billy Killifer, his star catcher, nor "Egg" Walsh, his utility infielder, was concerned in the brawl.

"I cannot believe they had anything to do with the trouble. We have no man named Morgan on this club payroll. If the man who gave that name is a player I will fine him, or I may suspend him. I think I know who he is."

BIG SALARY RAISE.

Pottsville Rolling Mill Employees Get 15 Per Cent Increase.

Pottsville, Pa., Sept. 17.—The Eastern Steel company announced an increase of 15 per cent in the wages of all employees in the rolling mills. Several hundred men will receive from $29 to $25 a month more as the result of the increase, and it was learned that the company contemplates an increase to all its 1,500 employees.

The mills have more work than they can turn out, and the company is arranging to pay a bonus to certain departments for an increased output. Such prosperity has not been known in this region since before the panic of 1907.

HUNTED MAN FOILS HUNTERS.

Armed Poses Seek Teamster Who Shot Up Brewery.

Clearfield, Pa., Sept. 7.—Heavily armed men are searching the swamps and forests of Clearfield and Somerset counties for John Keeler, a teamster.

He forced his way into brewery office here, fatally wounded John W. Rossner, head of the institution, seriously injured three of his clerks and escaped. Keeler served ten years in the United States army, much of the time as a scout in the Philippines. Located near here he held off his pursuers with his rifle, shouting, "I got four, but I want six more." The shooting was the outcome of a dispute over wages.

Son Sees Father Die.

Norristown, Pa., Sept. 17.—Daniel F. Fisher, Reading railway agent at Bridgeport, died at his desk of heart disease. His son employed in the office saw him fall forward and was the first at his side. Fisher was sixty-five years old and for forty-six years had been employed by the Reading railroad.

GEN. SICKLES WILL NOT SEE WIFE

After Pawning Jewels She Is Turned Away—Another Woman Blamed.

New York, Sept. 17.—General Daniel Sickles would not see his wife when she came to his home on the afternoon of the day that she pawned her jewels to save his personal property from going under the hammer of an auctioneer. She had come to tell him that his keepsakes, his furniture and his civil war commission had been saved, but the civil war veteran sent out word that he was fatigued and did not wish to see his wife.

Such is the statement made by the general's son, Stanton, who blames Miss Eleanor Earl Wilderling, for fifteen years housekeeper for the old fighter, for the general's attitude toward his wife. He says that she is directly responsible for the estrangement of the two. Both the son and his lawyer said that Miss Wilderling told the general that it was not his wife who saved the precious contents of the old vine covered house at the northeast corner of Fifth avenue and Ninth street, but an army friend of his.

It was apparently a severe blow to Mrs. Sickles that her prompt action in saving the general's effects had not effected a reconciliation. She had seemingly hoped that he would be softened when he knew what she had done and agree to forget the differences that had stood between them for so long.

New Rochelle, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Adolph Ruhling of 2220 Sterling avenue, the Bronx, a member of the firm of Grant & Ruhling, dealers in structural steel and ornamental iron at 373 Fourth avenue, Manhattan, was instantly killed by a westbound express train on the New Haven railroad in New Rochelle.

He had come to New Rochelle to inspect some work on the electrical equipment of the railroad being done by his firm. He was crossing the tracks and did not see the train approaching. He was thrown fifty feet, and his skull, neck, back, arms and legs were broken.

GUNMEN AT CONEY

"Lefty" and "Gyp" Were Mardi Gras Revelers.

FREQUENTLY VISITED NEW YORK

Apparent Effort to Discredit Dougherty's Tale of Trailing and Entrapping Them—Walter Identifies Pair as the Actual Rosenthal Slayers.

New York, Sept. 17.—"Lefty Louie" Rosenberg and "Gyp the Blood" Horowitz merrily described to their counsel, Charles F. Wahle, how easily they had eluded the police while they were supposed to be trembling in hiding.

They did not immerse themselves at all, they told Mr. Wahle. They were constantly out and about, taking part in the gay life of their set. They frisked and frolicked in the Coney Island Mardi Gras, and they came frequently to Manhattan on errands of pleasure.

Deputy Commissioner Dougherty made a big mistake, they said, in giving out that they had lain close in the Woodward avenue apartment. On the contrary, laughed Gyp and Lefty, they came and went when they pleased or when their wives pleased, which was much the same thing.

Their story was perhaps the most astonishing development of a day that produced much of importance in the Rosenthal case. It came out after Justice Goff began a secret inquiry to determine whether or not the police concealed or destroyed evidence found in the apartment where "Lefty Louie" and "Gyp the Blood" were arrested.

Goff After All Facts.

Basing his action on an accusation laid before him by Acting District Attorney Moss that the central office men who searched the apartment after Rosenberg and Horowitz had been taken to police headquarters suppressed or attempted to suppress important evidence, the justice brought to bear his authority as a committing magistrate in the John Doe proceedings for the purpose of investigating all the circumstances of the arrests.

Although the inquiry is being conducted in secret, it was known that one of the points on which information was sought was whether "Lefty Louie" and "Gyp the Blood" were tracked and caught in the manner described by Deputy Commissioner Dougherty.

The acting district attorney demonstrated forcibly his suspicions that the police have not acted in perfect faith. Kreese, the waiter whose dramatic identification of "Bridgie" Webber and Jack Sullivan as men he had seen in front of the Metropole when Herman Rosenthal was shot, identified Rosenberg and Horowitz as two of the four gunmen who killed Rosenthal and picked out Max Kramer, the pickpocket arrested with Rosenberg and Horowitz, as one of the sentinels of the murder job.

Justice Goff postponed the arraignment of Rosenberg and Horowitz until tomorrow.

TAFT TO CONFER WITH HILLES

Meeting Scheduled For Day Before the New York State Convention.

Beverly, Mass., Sept. 17.—President Taft will spend several hours in New York next Tuesday for a political conference with Charles D. Hilles, chairman of the Republican national committee. As this is the day preceding the convening of the Republican state convention at Saratoga, Mr. Taft and Chairman Hilles may discuss the New York situation as well as national politics. While the president will follow the advice of Chairman Hilles, it is known that he will not interfere with the selection of the Republican candidate by the convention.

The president will leave New York late Tuesday night for Altoona, Pa., where on Wednesday he will attend a meeting of the surviving civil war veterans. He will leave Altoona in time to catch the Colonial express at Philadelphia for Boston, where he is due early Thursday morning. He will make an address Thursday night at the international congress of chambers of commerce in Boston.

The president and Mrs. Taft motored to Manchester and took dinner with Miss Mabel T. Boardman of Washington.

T. R. ATTACKS WILSON.

Says He "Lacks Experience" and is "Playing Game of Bosses."

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 17.—After protesting that he "wanted to be courteous to Governor Wilson, my antagonist," Colonel Roosevelt in a speech here proceeded to criticize the Democratic candidate as "lacking experience" and "playing the game of the bosses." The ex-president launched another violent attack upon Wilson for the governor's elucidation in New York last week of his theory of governmental control of corporations.

Roosevelt pitched into the New Jersey governor as reflecting a "sad lack of knowledge of the functions of the American government" in saying, as Roosevelt repeated it, that the growth of liberty means limited governmental power.

Weather Probabilities. Fair today and probably tomorrow; light variable winds.

TO UNITE LABOR AND CAPITAL

That Will Be the Object of the New Industrial Commission.

TAFT WILL NAME MEMBERS.

Hearings to Begin Soon—Commission Is Directed to "Seek to Discover the Underlying Causes of Dissatisfaction in the Industrial Situation."

An adjustment of differences between capital and labor in the United States is sought by congress through the medium of the industrial commission created by an act passed at the recent session. The commission will shortly be named by President Taft and its researches begun at once.

Charles Nagel, secretary of commerce and labor, will soon forward to the president the names of a number of prominent men who have been recommended for appointment as members of the commission. Administration leaders regard the passage of the bill creating the commission as one of the most important accomplishments of the recent session of congress.

President Taft is deeply interested in the subject. He intends to exercise great care in naming the personnel of the commission. The commission was directed by congress to "seek to discover the underlying causes of dissatisfaction in the industrial situation and report conclusions thereon."

Since the adjournment of congress Secretary Nagel has given a good deal of thought to the personnel of the industrial commission. He has discussed the subject with Charles P. Neill, commissioner of labor; Samuel Gompers and others who are supposed to have knowledge of questions that will have consideration.

The proposed inquiry has awakened the liveliest interest in industrial circles, both employers and employees of the country seeming to realize the significance of the investigation.

Commission of Nine. The commission is to be composed of nine members, three to be representatives of employees, three to represent employers and three to be "lay" members.

It is believed that H. C. Emery, former chairman of the tariff board, will be named as the chairman of the new commission and that the tender of the appointment has already been made to him through Secretary Nagel by President Taft.

Discussing the creation of the commission and its work, Secretary Nagel said: "I regard the commission as one of the most important that has ever been provided for by congress and endowed with sufficient power to do incalculable good. If successfully organized and if it does its work thoroughly the commission's deliberations ought to be of far-reaching advantage to the United States."

"It is obvious that the two forces sought to be brought together by the purposes of this legislation seem now far apart and that the commission created has something of a job on its hands, but nothing is needed so much at the present time as authentic, reliable, well digested information on which those who are charged with making laws and those charged with their administration may rely with confidence."

The commission is authorized to "hold sittings and public hearings anywhere in the United States, to send for persons and papers, to administer oaths, to summon and compel the attendance of witnesses and to compel testimony and to employ such secretaries, experts, stenographers and other assistants as shall be necessary to carry out the purposes for which such commission is created," etc.

The sum of $100,000 is appropriated for the commission to begin business, and authority is granted in the act for members or employees of the commission to go outside of the United States on the business of the commission.

The Duties. Following are the duties imposed upon the commission by the act creating it: That the commission shall inquire into the general condition of labor in the principal industries of the United States, including agriculture and especially those which are carried on in corporate forms, into existing relations between employers and employees, into the effect of industrial rights and powers of the community to deal therewith, into the condition of sanitation and safety of employees and the provisions for protecting the life, limb and health of the employees, into the growth of associations of employers and wage earners and the effect of such associations upon the relations between employers and employees, into the extent and result of methods of collective bargaining, into any methods which have been tried in any states or in foreign countries for maintaining mutually satisfactory relations between employees and employers, into methods for avoiding or adjusting resources of existing bureaus of labor and into possible ways of increasing their usefulness, into the question of smuggling or other illegal entry of Asiatics into the United States or its insular possessions and of the methods by which the Asiatics have gained such admission and shall report to congress as speedily as possible with such recommendation as said commission may think proper to prevent such smuggling and illegal entry. The commission shall seek to discover the underlying causes of dissatisfaction in the industrial situation and report its conclusions thereon.
