AGED MAN FOUND DEAD IN BED

Was Dead Several_ Hours When Found-Companion is Revived After a Struggle-Escap-ing Gas Tells Story.

Henry Johnson, of Mauch Chunk, was found dead in bed in a room over the Christopher Lowe restaur-ant at 558 Main street about 6 o'clock this morning. His companion for the night, James Baird, was lying by his side unconscious, having been overcome by escaping gas from the gas jet in their room.

Mr. Johnson and Mr. Baird came to Honesdale to attend the funeral of the late Mrs. William J. Lane which was held yesterday and they decided to stay at Lowe's during the night. They, and a number of their friends were in Lowe's restaurant during the evening and it is said that the two men retired to their room about eight o'clock. Mr. Baird, who is a conductor on the Erie, on the Port Jervis branch, and living at Port Jervis, expressed the wish to his landlord that he should call them at 6 o'clock so that he could take the 7:17 a.m. train for home. This morning the family were aroused by the fumes of gas. Mrs. Lowe went to the room occupied by the two men and rapped on the door to arouse them. She failed to get an answer from within and tried the door which was unlocked. On opening the door the fumes were so strong that she was obliged -t0 turn back. When it had somewhat cleared away she went to the bed and shook the men, but they were unconscious. Mrs. Lowe now be-came alarmed and called help. With the assistance of several men Mr. Baird was revived and breathing commenced, but Johnson was be-yond recall. Drs. Petersen, Ely and McConvill were immediately called and worked over the unconscious man but pronounced that Johnson had been dead several hours. It was known that he had heart trouble

Coroner Petersen empanelled jury composed of Dr. H. B. Ely, W. J. Lane, Eugene Canivan, Edward Deitzer, George Deitzer and Dr. W. T. McConvill. The verdict was accidental death from breathing the fumes from an open gas jet.

Mr. Lane who was with the men before they retired, states that the electric light in the room was left burning. Ms. Lowe says that about morning she o'clock this heard someone walking in the room occupied by the two men. The supposition is that one of them got up to turn out the light and gave twist to the gas jet as the gas jet and the electric bulb were only a few inches apart. On turning out the electric light he had turned on the gas enough to let it escape in the room. The close proximity of the gas and electric apparatus would make this supposition seem correct. Dr. McConvill stated that one winin the room was slightly open and that is all that saved the other man.

Mr Baird was still unconscious late this morning but Dr. McConvill pronounced him out of danger. Mr. Johnson has a wife and fam-ily living in Mauch Church, who have been notified. Mr. Johnson is
