HOW TO HOLD YOUR BODY.

Glance at the next consumptive you meet. Nine times out of ten his chest will be flat. This may be because of his disease. The chances are, however, that one reason why he got consumptive was because he didn't carry himself properly.

You are not taking good care of your body unless you hold yourself in a natural position. When the body is erect your heart, lungs, stomach, etc., have the maximum amount of space. The minute you bend or strain your body you are cramping or putting out of place some of its organs.

When you stand, make yourself as tall as possible. Your chest should be high; your abdomen flat. Your head should be erect. Allow your shoulders to rest easily upon your chest without straining any of your muscles. Your legs should be straight and your weight should be borne chiefly upon the balls of the feet.

Don't bend the spine in the middle. Don't slouch, with abdomen out and shoulders stooped, as many men do when they stand with their hands in their pockets. Don't crook your back when you sit in a chair and don't slip down until your weight is on the small of your back.

If you are going to treat your body fairly, give its organs plenty of room by keeping the trunk erect and straight. Remember this, no matter what you are doing—walking, running, skating, standing or sitting.—Karl de Schweinitz, executive secretary, Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis.

HUSBAND AND WIFE COULD NOT AGREE.

He Leaves Town Never To Return—Hearing Before 'Squire Schwesinger Thursday Afternoon—Leaves Watch to Pay Costs.

A railroad man from Pittston came to Honesdale the first of last week to see his wife who is employed at the Hotel Wayne. The couple have been estranged for some time, and the reception he received would have put a damper on the ardor of a less devoted husband. To say the least the reception was a cool one and consequently the man proceeded to drown his sorrows in drink. Having succeeded well in this he began to look for trouble. On Tuesday, it is alleged, that the railroad man came across a foe near the barn of the hotel in the person of another man, who was evidently as full as he was and was also looking for trouble. The foe made insinuating remarks about the railroad's wife and the latter hit him. On Wednesday evening, it is alleged, that the railroad man went into the kitchen of the hotel and threatened to kill his wife with a butcher knife. It seems that the man who leases the barn was very friendly with the wife of the railroad man and sent for Officer Levi Degroot who, on arriving at the hotel, found the man in question taking a peaceful drink to further drown his sorrows. He was put in the county jail and a hearing was set for 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. It was after three however when the warrants were issued for the man's arrest. A hearing was held at the home of 'Squire George Schwesinger on Grove street the same afternoon. There was two charges, one preferred by the woman and by the disabled (?) young man for assault and battery with attempt to kill.

The woman in the case testified that she had been married 16 years, had two children, and formerly lived in Pittston. She testified that her husband came out in the kitchen where she was working and picking up a butcher knife threatened to cut her heart out. She said that he had been arrested for the same offence before in Luzerne county and was under $1500 bond to keep the peace. She said she was afraid of him.

The disabled (?) young man testified that he had been given a black eye by the railroad man, but the eye bled the assertion. He said he saw the prisoner threaten his wife with the butcher knife.

The man who was landed in jail, was a nice appearing young man, but admitted he had been drinking the night before, but now wholly penitent, asked for mercy on his bended knee. He denied all the charges made against him and said it was all a frame-up. P. H. Hoff, attorney for the defense, made an eloquent appeal to Justice Schwesinger to show no mercy. The justice placed the ball in each case at $500. Some time before the 4:40 train went out of Honesdale the matter was settled between the parties and the railroad man left town, promising never to return, and also leaving his watch to cover the costs.

JUDGE STAPLES ON THE "BOY PROBLEM."

Judge C. B. Staples, of Stroudsburg, was introduced and delivered an address at a ministerial meeting recently at Stroudsburg on the "Boy Problem." He asked: "Well, isn't there a girl problem?" and he answered it by saying if you get the boys in the right channel the girls will be easy. If you hold a boy until he is 21 years of age, he will turn out all right.

The pastor of the church should make personal friends with the boy and do what they are interested in and hold the boys while they are in their dangerous time with some attractive method, something that appeals to them in the right.
