Change all falling or slow queens promptly and breed from the best you can secure, thus raising the standard of your stock step by step and improving the average year by year.

The young bees, hatched from Aug. 1 on, constitute the colony to be wintered, and for this reason it is wise to see that much brood is ready, even if you have to resort to stimulative feeding.

As a rule, bees cast a prime swarm as soon as the first queen cell is sealed unless prevented by bad weather; therefore the first young queen may be expected to emerge on the eighth day from the first swarm.

When the hives are well distributed in a certain space their inmates can be more easily handled. It seems to improve their disposition, especially if there are some trees, shrubs or the like about it.
