

LATE MAJ. GEN. O'REILLY SERVED IN MANY WARS.

He introduced the Policy of Compulsory inoculation in the Army.

Major General Robert Maitland O'Reilly, U. S. A., retired, who died recently in Washington, was surgeon general of the United States army from 1902 until 1909, physician and close personal friend of the late President Grover Cleveland and the only medical officer of the regular army who held the rank of major general.

It had been General O'Reilly's pleasure in recent years to be able to point to the fact that his appointment to this office was made solely on his record.

It was about that time in 1902 that General O'Reilly lost through death by typhoid fever his only son, the late Philip Maitland O'Reilly, who had just been graduated from the Naval academy, and it was because he lost his son through this malady that General O'Reilly decided that he would do everything in his power to contribute toward cutting down the death rate from typhoid fever in the army.

After the civil war General O'Reilly saw hard service as medical officer in the field with troops in the Indian campaigns, and during the war with Spain he was chief surgeon of the Fourth army corps.

BOY HAS ARTIFICIAL JAWS.

Joints, Omitted by Nature, Are Provided by a Surgeon's Skill.

A remarkable operation was recently successfully performed at a Baltimore hospital on a fourteen-year-old boy who since birth had been unable to move his jaws and had been fed through a tube.

The surgeon cut through the solid mass of bone where the joint should have been and modeled upon the sections actual joints, such as nature ordinarily provides.

Thanksgiving Day Among The Lumberjacks

PREPARATIONS for the Thanksgiving dinner in the lumber camps of Maine begin early in November. Traps for the rabbits, which form the principal dish, are set in place and carefully baited.

Men who go to the lumber camps about the 1st of October give up the hope of having chicken or turkey or goose with cranberry sauce on the last Thursday of November.

The "cookie" for the first few days in camp does little more than hunt out the haunts of bunny and after locating as many as are in reasonable walking distance of the camp proceeds with his work of slaughter. Most of the rabbits make their winter home under low scrub bushes of hard wood and hunt for food under the dead leaves which have been blown from the trees during the fall frosts.

A liberal supply of whole corn and oats is used as bait for the rabbits, being scattered under the leaves in close proximity to the snares.

After breakfast has been served in the camp and the men have gone to their work the "cookie" commences his rounds of the snares.

rabbit on all fours. After that it is but easy work to dispatch the animal. The trap is then rebaited, and the "cookie" continues his journey to the next snare, and so on until he has made the round.

Almost as good as the rabbit stew is the plum pudding, which the cook takes pains to have extra good on Thanksgiving day and Christmas day.

Of course the baked beans must be served on Thanksgiving day, but they are cooked just a little bit better than those doled out during the week.

When one rolls out of his bunk in the morning, shivering just a bit from the cold, a big dish of the smoking baked beans is found on the table.

It was not very many years ago that woodsmen thought it necessary to have a haunch of venison or moose meat for the holiday's principal meal, but that time is past, and now it is rabbit pie, baked beans and old fashioned plum pudding.—New York World.

Thanksgiving. Now we feast.

So did the pilgrims. Now we take in football. Then they dodged hostile Indians. Now the hostess thinks up novelties. Then they were pleased to have plenty of plain food.

Thanksgiving Day.

With grateful hearts let all give thanks. All lands, all stations and all ranks. And the cry comes up along the way, For what shall we give thanks today?

For peace and plenty, busy mills, "The cattle on a thousand hills," For bursting barns, wherein is stored The golden grain, a precious hoard; Give thanks.

For orchards bearing rosy fruit, For yielding pod and toothsome root And all that God bestowed was good In hill or dale or field or wood; Give thanks.

For water bright and sweet and clear, A million fountains far and near; For gracious streamlets, lakes and rills That flow from everlasting hills; Give thanks.

For summer dews and timely frost, The sun's bright beams, not one ray lost; For willing hands to sow the seed And reap the harvest, great indeed; Give thanks.

For hearth and home, love's altar fire; For loving children, thoughtful sires; For tender mothers, gentle wives, Who fill our hearts and bless our lives; Give thanks.

For heaven's care life's journey through, For health and strength to dare and do, For ears to hear, for eyes to see Earth's beautiful things on land and sea; Give thanks.

Pretty Gift For Invalids.

When planning the holiday gifts do not forget the invalid.

Make a bag of dainty flowered silk or cretonne, running inch wide satin ribbon in the top for a draw string and lining it with delicately scented silk.

Have the drawstring very long so it can be hung on the bedpost in easy reach of the invalid's hand without the necessity of her raising herself in bed.

In the bag is a small paper pad, pencil, handkerchief and anything she may need that otherwise would have to be handed to her by an attendant.

Novelties For the Dressing Table.

A charming gift can be easily made from a picture frame. Buy a frame any size you choose, but instead of inserting a picture put in a piece of bright chintz or cretonne.

JUST WHAT THE TERM HORSE POWER MEANS.

Very few people realize just what a horse power, as expressed in engineering terms, really means.

When it is stated that the world's largest Curtis steam turbine, which drives an electric generator in the Watershed station, New York, develops 30,000 horse power the meaning is vague and incomprehensible, imagine this term reduced to man power and almost everyone can grasp its full meaning.
