BORN ON CHRISTMAS DAY

Some Famous People Who First Saw the Light on or About Dec. 25.

There is some uncertainty about the year and date of the birth of Clara Barton, founder of the Red Cross and famous philanthropist, who died this year, more than ninety years old, but it is generally believed that she was born on Christmas day in 1820 or 1821.

Lord John Morley, the celebrated British author and statesman, Gladstone's lieutenant and secretary of state for India in the Asquith cabinet, was born on Christmas eve, Dec. 24, 1838. Seven years later to the day King George I. of Greece first saw the light.

Lord Marcus Beresford, brother of the famous British admiral, was a Christmas day baby, as were also Lady Grey-Egerton and the Countess of Rothes, one of the survivors of the wreck of the Titanic.

Among those who were born on Dec. 26, "just too late for Christmas dinner," were Admiral George Dewey, the Earl of Leicester, Sir James Linton, the painter; the Duchess of Leeds, Sir James Rankin, member of the British parliament, and James D. Stephens, representative from California in the American congress.

CHRISTMAS WITH THE TOILERS OF THE SEA

LANDLUBBERS that you are, did you ever reflect that there is a world where Christmas is as meaningless a day as the 24th or 26th of December?

Did you ever think far enough beyond the splay vapors of your own plum pudding to realize that the seafaring folk were living their Christmas day as if they knew naught of its fame? They do know what it means, however, as well as ever do you, but winds lash and waves thump on the 25th as on every other day, and it's a foolish seafarer who counts on turkey or holly berries. The chances are he'll see little of them.

Christmas is disobliging enough to come in the very beginning of the maddest weather, and the weather never gives way one inch. The pilotboat people and the life savers make pathetic little attempts at holding holiday, but ten to one they will be nothing more than attempts. If the sea chooses to make merry in its own way the sea commands and must be obeyed.

The captains of the life saving stations along the beach try each year to celebrate with their men. A turkey is always brought to the headquarters and a good meal prepared around it as a star attraction. But anywhere from drumsticks to nuts and raisins may come the signal from the coast guard. Perhaps a crab fishing boat has capsized; perhaps it is a big ship going down—the result is the same. The Christmas turkey is left to grow cold, the mince pie is forgotten, and it's off to launch the lifeboat and then to the oars and away. Night or day the summons may come. If at night there are a flashing of lights on the beach and a light, man against storm, in the blackness of the surf.

On the lightship provision is made for a good dinner, but there the pleasure ends. Day and night the ship rides at anchor ten miles off shore. Always the clanging of the fog bell is heard and the lights are watched, and break in the monotony there is none, save for a better bill of fare than usual and an extra glass of grog, then back to the bell and the lights again, and men forget what Christmas celebrated or that it was celebrated at all.

It was during the carving of the last turkey that the bells rang fiercely, for a fog was driving in past the heads, and lights were being enveloped in it. Two new men were among the crew, and they sprang, frightened, away from the table. The old sailors assured them that it was no trouble out of the ordinary, but they could not be induced to come back to the dinner. They are blue now and are laughing at their new men, but their companions have not forgotten to mention the dinner that they missed by gazing shudderingly into a winter fog and expecting the death of themselves or some one else every moment.

Christmas is a lottery to the pilots. No man of them knows when his turn is coming to guide a ship into port, and ships must be guided when it is their captain's will. Some of the pilots may have a snatch of the day at home in the midst of Santa Claus gossip and tin horns and stuffed stockings. Who ever the other pilots may be, they are on the water with a good dinner stowed away awaiting its opportunity, which may or may not come. If a ship is suddenly sighted, then never mind the dinner.

The life on the great steamers and sailing vessels is more systematic, and it is worth while to prepare for as much merriment as the homelickness of empty sea view will permit. There may be a Christmas tree and music and dancing; but, be you a seadog or a landlubber, it's all the same—you would rather be at home over a table that does not roll and spend a good Christmas with all its traditional nonsense.—San Francisco Call.

APRONS AS GIFTS.

Attractively Made, They Will Delight the Busy Woman.

This fancy apron will make a delightful gift for the woman who is devoted to her chafing dish or to the one who is fond of fancy work. The three little pockets that can be applied on the points will be convenient for skeins of silk or odd spools.

Fine lawn was the material used in this case. It was cut in a single piece with the three points below, a handsome beading being run around the outside. The top was slightly gathered to the waist band. The lower part of the apron was cut out of heavy net and finished with a beading and a lace frill. The band that goes about the waist was made of a beading bordered with rows of narrow lace insertion. Ornaments shaped out of the material and shaped bands of it were applied to the net.

An apron work bag may also be made of plain or flowered muslin, with pink or blue ribbons, if destined as a gift for a girl or of silk, satin or brocade if for an older lady.

The apron ties round the waist by means of a ribbon, while the bottom of it is doubled up to form a deep bag, with ribbon run round the slot at the top of it, so that when the wearer stands up suddenly any needlework, scissors or cottons lying in her lap slide into the bag instead of falling on to the ground.

This makes it a specially useful gift for any one who has any nursing, waiting on older people or looking after small children to do.

SWEET SCENTED SACHETS.

Charming Tokens for the Christmas Gift Maker.

Dresden ribbon daintily tinted is used in making this sachet handkerchief case. The upper part of the case is open so that the folded handkerchief may be slipped inside. A plain satin ribbon is used for the lining. The row of tiny satin ribbon roses wreathed around the edge of the heart and the big plain satin ribbon bow at the left are charming embellishments.

A specially pretty and novel handkerchief sachet is very easily made from a twenty-two inch square of flowered silk, interlined with a layer of flannelette, lined with Japanese silk and edged all round with a cord chosen to match the lining.

After the materials have been placed together and one cord sewed on the four corners of the square should be folded to meet in the middle, envelope fashion, while four inches from each point sew a wee bow of ribbon to catch the sides together.

The four points should then be turned back at will as far as the four ribbon bows, allowing ample room for getting handkerchiefs in and out.

The effect of the turned back corners, particularly if the lining has been chosen in some pretty contrasting color, is very attractive.

For a large sachet, suitable for a nightdress, a yard of silk measuring not more than twenty-two inches wide in some pretty shade is required, together with a yard of soft white silk for lining.

The two yards of silk are laid together, stitched round three sides and then covered on the inside with a thick pad of wadding. If it is the ordinary sheet wadding use three layers. Tuck the wadding loosely to the selvage of the silk. The case then is turned right side out and the fourth side slipstitched. The yard strip is divided into three, and two-thirds are sewed up together on either side to form a bag.

The remaining third of the strip is then tied up somewhere about its center with a yard or rather more of wide ribbon to match the colored silk used on the case or, if it is not possible to obtain a good match, with a double strip of the silk itself stitched together to form a ribbon.

The tied up piece of the sachet is finally turned over, so that the white silk lining and the bow lie on the front of the sachet, and the opening is left ready to slip the nightdress in.
