He hopes to be able to come to Honesdale the end of the week in the interest of his magazine. We sincerely hope that Mr. Woodward's malady will be of short duration and that we may soon see him on our streets.

—County Detective N. B. Spencer is in Pointelle this week investigating the curious disappearance of Terry Caffrey, an account of whose disappearance from home on Monday before Christmas was given in our issue of last week. Mr. Spencer has found evidence that leads him to believe that the man has been murdered. There have been no new developments in the case as yet. Mr. Spencer will return this evening.

—Price & Butler Stock company renewed their popularity in the Honesdale theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week. On Thursday evening the Lyric was filled to capacity and many people were turned away from the doors. Messrs. Price and Butler are to be congratulated on the high character of their repertoire of plays, and the attendance at each performance attested to the high popularity of the players.

—The Scotch classic, "Buntie Pulls the Strings," will be the attraction at the Lyric soon. The fact that it played over one year at Collie's Comedy Theatre, New York, without missing a performance, and is now in its second year at the Haymarket Theatre, London, is proof positive that the public is always ready to welcome with open arms a play of merit independent of the previous history or experience of its author. "Buntie Pulls the Strings" is a champion in its way. The charm lies in the fact that it is entirely human, and so delicate in its structure that it leaves a pleasant, lingering taste in the mouth.

—A coffee, kitchen and bakery sale will be held in the Sunday school rooms of Grace Episcopal church on Friday afternoon.

Mr. Gardner was born in Scott township seventy-three years ago and spent all his lifetime as a citizen of that place. He was township constable for several terms and was also county contractor on several bridges in Scott and Greenfield townships. He is survived by his wife, one daughter, Mrs. Ira Hobbs, of Scott township, and one grandson, Earl Gardner, now in Girard college, Philadelphia. Two sisters and two brothers also survive. Mrs. Calvin Vail and Mrs. Josephine S. Vail of Jermyn, and W. S. Gardner, and Attorney C. B. Gardner, of Scranton.

—At the regular December Term of Pike county court at Milford Judge Staples stated that the county was to be congratulated on the clean bill given by the constables; no violations of the law were reported and the roads and bridges were all reported to be in good repair. The court, from its own knowledge, was of the opinion that the roads of the county irrespective of locality were in better condition than for many years past. Judge Staples invited questions from the constables and the only one put forth was a puzzler. Constable Rosencrance inquired if the state roads (that is roads now in charge of the state highway department) become drifted this winter is it the duty of the supervisors to open them. The judge frankly admitted his inability to find any law on the subject but told the constables that the best thing to do was to instruct the supervisors to write to the Highway Commissioner in the matter before any drifts come and he would undoubtedly satisfactorily inform them.
