Among those from Honesdale who won prizes at the poultry show at Scranton last week were F. W. Schuerholz, who received first prize for his Silver Campine entry. Russell G. Erk received third with his S. C. Rhode Island Red stock. The show at Scranton this year was well attended by farmers, as well as breeders of fancy poultry.

A subscriber sends in the following: Noticing the announcement in the Citizen that J. Fred Wolfe, of Bethlehem, will be heard in recital here on Tuesday, I wish to say that Dr. Wolfe's appearance here is a distinct honor for Honesdale! He is one of the great organists of our time and a noted band interpreter. It is he who has made the Easter Festival music of the old Moravian church at Bethlehem so far-famed, attracting musicians from far and near to hear it. The noted grand opera singers are Dr. Wolfe's soloists at these festivals, and he adheres to the tradition of trombone soloists playing at 4 o'clock Easter mornings in the belfry of this old famed church. If brought to their attention, Tuesday's concert should attract musicians here from Carbondale, Scranton, Wilkes-Barre and other nearby towns.

The warm weather and forecasts for continued mild weather worries the ice companies in the Pocono mountains. The ice on some of the lakes has melted several inches. At Pocono and Tobyhanna the ice is about five inches thick. A week ago the prospects were for a good crop, but now some of the harvesters fear they will not be able to fill their houses. If there is a cold snap in February, however, they will come out all right, but usually they begin cutting ice the middle of January. Last year they couldn't store all the ice.

The third number of the High School Concert Course will take place at the Lyric on Thursday evening, Jan. 23, when "The Boston Lyrics," a trio, which presents a delightfully varied program of vocal and instrumental music, readings, and cartoons, will be the attraction. The instruments used by this company include a cornet, trombone and also that interesting instrument known as a marimbaphone. Seat sale will start at 9 a. m. Wednesday, Jan. 23. All those holding course tickets must present them at the box office and receive seat coupons. To anybody not being fortunate enough to own a course ticket the price of admission will be fifty cents to all parts of the house.

If a man jumps out of the way of an interstate train only to land in front of an interstate train and loses thereby a leg and a foot, is he injured by the interstate train or by the intrastate one? Such a question was considered recently by the Supreme court of the United States sitting in Scranton. Martin Pederson was the victim of such an accident at West End, N. J. He was crossing a bridge when he observed a train from Buffalo bearing down upon him. He jumped to an adjoining track only to be struck by a train running from Montclair to Jersey City. The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad company resisted his suit under the federal employers' liability act of 1908, on the ground among others, that the interstate train was not the cause of the injury.

The large safe which was used in the old postoffice has been purchased by the borough council.

The teachers of the Honesdale public schools are very desirous that every family sending children to them should be represented at the reception next Friday from 3 to 5 p. m. If the father or mother cannot, send an aunt or an older brother or sister but be sure that each child has a special friend present. The following is the order of exercises: 1:30, Singing by High school; 1:45, program in charge of Senior Class; full program published next issue; 3:05, reception during which refreshments will be served; music by High school orchestra; 4 p. m., a general meeting at which time "Parent Teacher's Organization," will be discussed. On Friday evening, Jan. 31, at 8:15, the senior class of the High school will present the amusing comedy "Ici ou Pare Francois" under the supervision of Miss Alice Gregory.

The Young Men's Guild of St. John's Lutheran church held a business and special meeting in the parlors of the church Thursday evening. The routine business was transacted and it was decided to begin a strenuous campaign for a larger membership. Two new members were admitted to the society. They were Lewis Dreyer and John Roenschlau. A delicious luncheon was served which consisted of rolls, coffee, and ice cream. A musical program was given by the members of the Guild, following which speeches were made by G. Wm. Sell, J. J. Koehler and Rev. C. C. Miller. Mr. Sell spoke on various lines touching the humorous stories and anecdotes of Abraham Lincoln. He was followed by Mr. Koehler, who gave an instructive talk on the method of electing presidential electors, Mr. Koehler being the Roosevelt elector from this district. Rev. C. C. Miller talked about inspired men, mentioning the names of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Roosevelt.

"The Promised Land," by Mary Antin, was the subject of Mrs. Friedewald's reading before an audience of over seventy-five women in the high school auditorium on Saturday afternoon. It was thought to have the reading in the library room but the patrons of these literary treats have increased to such a number that the auditorium must be used. The Promised Land is a wonderful study in the soul and spirit development of a Russian Jewish girl who came to America when she was ten and who blossomed like a flower in the light of freedom of the soil of the "Promised Land." She tells of the horror of life in the "pale"—the terror caused by the Russian persecutions; the coming to America and her life in the British slums. She tells of all the growth of her life and most of all the growth of her beautiful spirit which drew all good to her; her meeting Dr. Edward Everett Hale and his influence over her. It was one of the most interesting and absorbing books Mrs. Friedewald has ever introduced in Honesdale.

"BUNTY PULLS THE STRINGS." The Scotch players have some very new and original stories about their own countrymen. Here is one told by James H. Heron who plays "Weelum Sprout" in "Bunty Pulls the Strings" at the Lyric on Wednesday, Jan. 29th. "An old Glasgow Scotchman was moving from one house to another in the same street. He was Scotch of the very Scotch, and carried all his things in a wheelbarrow instead of hiring an expressman. The last load was a tall, ungainly grandfather's clock, as stiff and awkward to move as an old man with muscular rheumatism. So the economical Scot had to abandon the barrow and carry the clock over his shoulders. Staggering along he met a friendly countryman who had had a wee drop too much. 'Tak' ma' advice,' said the mellow one, 'an' buy yersel' a watch.'"

ELECTRIFICATION PLANS FOR THE D. & H. But One Obstacle Now Faces Delaware & Hudson Railroad Engineers—Line to Run Between Scranton and Carbondale. Under consideration for years, plans for the electrification of the Delaware and Hudson railroad between Scranton and Carbondale is now stated by reports from reliable sources to be pretty close to concrete shape. It is understood that there is just one problem that stands as the obstacle and that if the engineering department can figure out ways and means of overriding this, the plans for using electricity for the company's passenger service between those cities will be taken up, with every prospect of being adopted. This problem concerns the difficulty the company would have in using the outside tracks for passenger traffic, because of the many branches running into mine workings of the company along the line. By outside tracks are meant those on the extreme west and east of the roadway, the company now having a four-track line to Carbondale. It isn't possible to use the inside tracks, as they are arranged at present, as this would necessitate the traveling of passengers over one set of tracks to reach the passenger line. All hope of the Laurel Line extending to Carbondale has been abandoned. Several times since the
