THOUGHT FOR TO-DAY.

There is a place in the world and a mission for humor. At times in one's experience a bit of fun is better, more a means of grace, than a serious sermon would be.

The Rev. Dr. Russell H. Conwell, one of the foremost men in the Baptist Church, who is now 70 years old and broken in health, got up out of a sick bed and at the risk of his life went to Keneseth Israel Temple, in Philadelphia, to speak at the exercises in celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of Rabbi Joseph Krauskopf's ministry there.

HARD TO FIND VETERANS.

When Speaker Alter came to look over the House list for the selection of the three members of the Soldiers' Orphan School Commission, which he is authorized to appoint, he found the names of only three Civil War veterans on the roll.

John H. Riebel, of Philadelphia, is the Republican veteran, and he has served on the commission for many years. The Democratic veterans are P. C. Newbaker, of Montour, and I. B. Musser, of Juniata.

It comes as a shock to learn that they are the only survivors of the Civil War numbered among the Representatives of Pennsylvania. The halls of the Senate and House used to be full of old soldiers, who did not seem so very old, and now out of all that throng—207 men—only three veterans are to be found.

Why, it seems as though it was no longer ago than yesterday the veterans were so numerous and so important that in a gathering of that size, it would have been hard to find three men who had not served in the war.

POPULAR CHOICE OF SENATORS.

The Legislatures of New York and Ohio have joined the procession for the popular election of United States Senators, and it is probable that Pennsylvania's General Assembly will follow suit.

The subject was submitted by Gov. Tener in his recent message, without a recommendation, favorable or otherwise, but although there are still many able men who believe that the present method of choice is the better one, there are few, if any, who are actively opposing the change.

It is probable that the amendment to the Constitution will be authorized by the necessary number of States and that the Legislatures will soon cease to exercise control over the upper branch of Congress.

We have no doubt that the new method will result in the choice of good men for the Senate, but we have yet to be convinced that it will result in the choice of better men than have served there. The personnel of the Senate has not been beyond criticism at all times, of course, but neither has the personnel of the House, whose members have always been elected by popular vote.

More depends upon the good sense of the American people than upon the means they select for expressing that good sense in government.

VICIOUS ATTACKS DO HARM.

In a good-natured editorial our esteemed contemporary, the Pike County Press, replies to our recent statement that the Press is not a Republican newspaper, else it would not have made such a sweeping condemnation of the courts of the country. The Press declared a few weeks ago that "the many corrupt judges constituting our federal judiciary enables the malefactors of great wealth to prey upon the public at their will." If that declaration means anything it means that all federal judges are corrupt. For it is the judges as a body, whether they be many or few, that constitute the federal judiciary. It was the extravagance of this declaration that led us to class the Press as a Bull Moose rather than a Republican organ, for, as we said before, such a gross misstatement of fact could not proceed from a Republican newspaper. We are glad to note, however, that the editor of the Press has subjected his former opinion to the process of the "recall," and now admits that: "Not all judges, federal and otherwise, are corrupt. We believe the great majority of them to be honest and upright." So do we. That is why we deprecate these savage and wholesale attacks upon the courts that have been made in recent times by Bull Moose speakers and organs. If a speaker or writer not learned in the law, feels that he is competent to criticize a certain decision of the courts based on an interpretation of the law, and does so in temperate language, there can be no possible objection to it, though the worthlessness of his opinion as compared with that of the learned judges may be plainly apparent. It is the vicious attacks that are being made on the courts as a body that do harm. By weakening the power and influence of the courts and respect for the judges, they weaken the protection which the law gives to every citizen.

Finally, let us say, for the enlightenment of our Pike county contemporary, that The Citizen, as a Republican newspaper, is entirely satisfied with the selection of George E. Alter as Speaker of the House. We believe him to be honest and able, the manifest choice of the majority and that no proper interests will suffer at his hands.

ROOSEVELT'S INFLUENCE WAXING.

In the discussion that has been going on quietly in Washington in regard to the reorganization of the Republican party Senator William E. Borah of Idaho has been mentioned frequently as the man about whom the scattered Republican forces can be rallied. Many Republicans predict that Senator Borah will be one of the most prominent candidates for the Republican nomination in 1916.

Senator Borah is soon to deliver a dozen speeches in the South of a political character. He will deliver a speech on Lincoln's Birthday before the Union League Club of Baltimore and will express some views on "the reorganization of the Republican party" that undoubtedly will attract the attention of the entire country. Mr. Borah will follow up his address with his speaking tour in the South. He is a Republican of pronounced progressive tendencies, but refused to follow Roosevelt in the last campaign.

Although little has been said recently of the movement to reform the Republican party along progressive lines, it has been making a rapid advance under the surface and in the opinion of party leaders soon will assume such proportions as to make it certain that the third party movement engineered by Col. Roosevelt is doomed to fail.

The new movement contemplates the temporary elimination of the old regular leaders and the putting forward of men of well known progressive views. In the Senate Borah of Idaho, La Follette of Wisconsin, Bristow of Kansas and Cummins of Iowa will figure prominently in the next session in connection with the tariff and trust legislation. Little will be heard from men who heretofore have been identified with the regular Republican organization in the Senate.

The Roosevelt movement in the Western States has practically died out. The information that has been received from Pennsylvania is very encouraging to the Republicans. Senator Works has been hearing good reports from California, while Senators Cummings and Kenyon of Iowa report that the third party movement is practically eliminated in their State.

Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, is in the new movement. He avows himself a Republican and undoubtedly will play an important part in the Republican leadership in the Senate.

The information which the Republican leaders are receiving from the States indicates there is a disposition among prominent Republicans to get back into the party organization. The third party movement has made little progress since the election. Reports indicate that a large percentage of those who voted for Roosevelt did so as a matter of protest and in many cases the protest was against local conditions.

HOW JACKSON VOTED.

During the strife for chief clerkship of the House of Representatives at Harrisburg, Hon. H. C. Jackson voted for Mr. Boyd, the committee candidate, and on the third ballot changed his vote to Mr. Garvin, who was a candidate to succeed himself, for which action Mr. Jackson is being pretty generally assailed by the Democratic press, because as they allege he voted for a "Penrose henchman," yet the fact remains that the member from the home district of Senator Penrose, Mr. Shern, voted for Mr. Boyd on all three of the ballots. Mr. Jackson has hosts of friends in Wayne county, who have every confidence in his integrity and honesty of purpose, and who will not allow themselves to be swayed in their fidelity toward him through an appeal to passion and prejudice by the opposition press.

We clip the following from the Tribune-Republican: The campaign against Mr. Garvin actually won him friends. Posted prominently in the corridors of the hotels and of the capitol were placards, "Vote for the Penrose candidate, Garvin." This placard was a boomerang evidently, for Mr. Garvin took the lead on the first ballot and retained it until he was declared elected. All of the Lackawanna Washington—Republican members voted for Mr. Garvin and many other progressives did likewise. The activity of Governor Tener today in the interest of Mr. Garvin was no small factor in the success of the chief clerk's campaign. It was the vote of H. Clark Jackson, of Wayne county, who had voted consistently for Boyd that finally swung the election to Garvin on the third ballot.

THREE CASES DISPOSED OF MONDAY

The January term of court convened Monday afternoon with President Judge A. T. Searle presiding. This term called for two weeks in which to clean up the list of cases on the docket but on account of the illness of Attorney F. P. Kimble his cases were continued until next term which left this week short of cases to try and consequently court was dismissed on Wednesday afternoon to meet again Monday afternoon of next week.

The accounts of executors of the estates of Rose Sheeran, late of Honesdale, deceased; Bernard Tierney, late of Texas, deceased; Cortland Brooks, late of South Canaan, deceased; J. Lee Swingle, late of South Canaan, deceased; Nancy Hauenstein, late of Mt. Pleasant, deceased; Maria A. Huftelm, late of Preston, deceased; Fannie E. Brown, late of Damascus, deceased; John Page, late of Mt. Pleasant, deceased, were confirmed nisi.

Appraisements of $300 to the widows of George J. Bergmann, late of Texas, deceased, and George W. Butterworth, late of Sterling, deceased, were confirmed nisi.

The case of the Commonwealth vs. A. F. Severson, who was indicted by the grand jury on two counts, one for larceny and the other being larceny by bailer, was continued by agreement on account of an important witness for the defense being unable to be present on account of illness.

Morton Hines Pleads Nolle Contendere.

The case of the Commonwealth vs. Morton Hines was called and disposed of. Attorney Ed. A. Delaney of Scranton, and C. P. Searle of Honesdale, appeared for the defendant. A plea of nolle contendere was entered by the attorneys for the defense.

The case of Commonwealth vs. Ben Michels was next taken up for trial. C. P. Searle appeared for the defense and District Attorney M. E. Simons was assisted by Peter H. Hoff in the prosecution.

The jury was composed of the following men: D. W. Bidwell, Salem; Oscar H. Day, Lebanon; J. B. Diamond, Waymart; B. S. Gillow, Manchester; Oliver Hoover, Lake; Norman Lester, Manchester; Henry Ludwig, Texas; Walter Malson, Sterling; James Spratt, Buckingham; P. H. Skelly, Texas; Michael Weber, Texas; Alonzo B. Wood, Prompton.

T. D. O'Connell, the first witness called, testified to knowing the defendant and identified the check which was offered in evidence. On being asked in cross-examination what was his opinion of Michels' mental condition he answered that he thought Michels was not of sound mind.

Edward Pearce testified to having employed Michels and of his having forged a check on him. He said that in his opinion Michels was of unsound mind. Ben Michels sworn: He stated that he was the defendant and lived in Honesdale. I am thirty-six years old. This is not my first offense. Didn't know I would be sent to jail for this. Was sent to the Penitentiary before. Didn't know I would have to be sent back. I was out on parole and was to report to the warden every month. Didn't report to him. Knew Wallinger there. He was there for same offense. We were chummy. I never owed him anything nor never passed orders for him. N. B. Spencer and Herbert Bassett also testified to knowing Michels and of his mental condition.

Michels was again called to the stand and asked about his fear of being arrested. He said that he did not intend to stay at Carbondale long and would have come back soon. He said he was not afraid in the dark. Miss Lillian Hartman testified as to Michels' mental condition saying that he did and said foolish things and always looked back continually when walking in the dark. He always imagined people were talking about him. She said she thought he was of unsound mind.

F. X. Soete and J. W. Kelsch testified as to Michels' unsound mental condition.

The case went to the jury without argument. The Commonwealth offered no objection to the pleas of insanity. Judge Searle told the jury the circumstances of the case and he pointed out to them that Michels had been to the penitentiary once and it had done him no good.

The jury took a verdict without leaving the room. It was, "We find the defendant not guilty on account of insanity." Court adjourned.

TO CLOSE MONDAY NIGHTS.

Mr. Editor: Permit me to use a few lines of your paper to ask the merchants of Honesdale that are open Monday evenings to keep track of their expenses and see if it pays. The stores are open all day and Saturday night. Isn't that enough? Here's wishing you prosperity with your paper and trusting that you will take the matter up editorially, I remain, yours truly, BUSINESS MAN.

"BUNTY PULLS THE STRINGS."

The advance sale of seats will open at the Lyric Tuesday, Jan. 28, for "Bunty Pulls the Strings." The assertion that Lyric theatergoers are vitally interested in "Bunty" is emphasized by the fact that mail order applications have been extremely heavy during the past few days, and it goes without saying that "Bunty" will play to one of the biggest engagements the Lyric has seen during the present season.

Four Jacksons Featured at Scranton Motor Show January 27 to Feb. 1st

Particular Interest Attaches to Six Cylinder Model on Exhibit for First Time.

Four cars constitute the Jackson exhibit at the Scranton automobile show and portray the entire Jackson line for 1913.

The three models now being produced are designated as the "Olympic," the "Majestic," and the "Sultan," the first two being four-cylinder types and the last a six. The fourth car in the exhibit is the "Olympic" roadster.

This is the first year of the Jackson in the field of sixes, and for that reason particular interest attaches to the "Sultan."

This model is built in both five and seven-passenger types. It retains all the characteristics of former models that have helped put the Jackson in the front rank of easy-riding cars—full elliptic springs, long wheel base, richly-thick upholstery, Turkish cushions, etc.

The cylinders are cast in pairs, with enclosed valves. The power plant is a unit, the clutch and transmission being enclosed in the same housing with the motor as has been the Jackson practice for many years. The motor is 4 1/2 x 4 1/2 inches and rated at 55 horse-power. The wheelbase is 138 inches, with 36-inch wheels and 36 x 1 1/2 inch tires. The wheels are demountable, and a spare wheel is supplied.

The "Sultan" and "Majestic" both are fitted with electric starting and lighting systems, generating current that is accumulated in a storage battery, with independent dual ignition sources. The "Olympic" carries a Disco starter and automatic lighters in its gas headlights.

A characteristic of all three is the scuttle dash, concealing the gravity fuse gasoline tank. A gasoline storage tank is carried at the rear, the fuel being fed by pressure pump into the dash tank, whence it flows to the carburetor by gravity. Thus the objections to a force feed into the carburetor are overcome, and a total gasoline capacity of twenty gallons is given to each car.

The "Majestic" with a four-cylinder motor of 4 1/2 x 5 1/2 inch bore and stroke is rated at 45 horse power, with 124 inch wheelbase and 36 x 4 inch tires. The "Olympic" motor is 4 1/2 x 4 1/2 inch bore and stroke and is rated at 35 horse power. Its wheelbase is 115 inches and tire size 34 x 4 inches. Both are fitted with 10 inch upholstery and Turkish cushions.

A feature of all the models is the generous room in the front compartment and in the tonneau. All carry a one-piece ventilating windshield, set directly above the dash and at the rear end of the scuttle, so that it is really an integral part of the car. All the models are completely equipped, the two fours having demountable rims and spare rim and the "Sultan" and "Majestic" having electric horns in addition to the usual bulb horn. On all models the horns are mounted under the hood.

1912 PROSPEROUS YEAR.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 23.—Prosperity never before equaled in the history of the country marked the manufacturing industries of the United States during the calendar year of 1912, according to a statement issued to-day by the Federal Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. The bureau's statisticians based their declarations on the importations of material used in manufacturing and on the movement of domestic materials from the points of production to the factories. "These two methods of measurement," says the report, "seem to indicate that the manufacturing industries of the country made in 1912 their highest record."

Rev. William T. Schenk, pastor of the East Lemon and West Nicholson M. E. churches, spent Wednesday in Honesdale. He was on his way to Hancock, N. Y.

HOW ANY WOMAN CAN CURE INDIGESTION

Where there's catarrh there's thousands of catarrh germs. You can't get rid of catarrh unless you kill these germs. You can't kill them with stomach medicine or sprays because they can't get where germs are. You can kill these germs with Booth's HYOMEI, a penetrating, antiseptic, balsamic air that you breathe a few times a day directly over the raw, sore, germ infested membrane. It does not contain morphine or any habit forming drug.

For catarrh, croup, coughs, and colds. HYOMEI is sold on money back plan by G. W. Pell, the druggist. Complete outfit, $1.00. Extra bottles of Booth's HYOMEI if afterwards needed, only 50 cents. Just breathe it—no stomach dosing.
