Get Supplies of the Murray Co.

If you want to know something about the prices of Sap Buckets, Sap Pans and other sugar making supplies, you can get a little hint (only a little hint, mind you) of how prices are running by turning to the advertisement of the Murray Co., the big four-story store where they sell "everything for the farm." But, after all, you will have to go right to the store to get a complete knowledge of what they can do for you along maple sugar making lines.

P. S.—While inspecting their sugar making goods, don't forget to have them show you their poultry supplies.
