

HARRISBURG LETTER

To the Pennsylvanian who loves his state, pays his taxes and otherwise behaves as a good citizen should this piling up of evidence of progressivism on the part of the Senate is merely another proof that Pennsylvania manages to maintain its leading position among the commonwealths that make up this nation in social and political progress as well as in industry, but for the political agitators and the professional "reformers" it is a cause of great sorrow.

The way in which the work lags in the House is beginning to cause anxiety everywhere. During the past week the rules were changed so as to insure that the body will be in session at least six hours each legislative day, and just before adjournment over the week-end Speaker Alter threw out the suggestion that members make preparations to sit also on Friday, beginning with the present week.

Even John R. K. Scott, former gangster but now militant reformer and by far the brightest mind on that side, grows impatient at times over the actions of his new political bedfellows. Last week he denounced the way in which the new rule permitting any measure negative by a committee to be put upon the calendar. He charged that the new rule is being turned into a farce and declared that in his opinion the House should not vote to put a negative bill upon the calendar until the sponsor had convinced the members that the committee had been mistaken. He also said in this same connection that the chairman of the committee that had turned down the bill should be required to make a statement before a vote is taken on the motion to put the bill on the calendar. It is possible that this is because the Plinnites were pulling wires to keep it there—the Rockwell resolution. "Et tu Rockwell" would be rather disconcerting in the fall campaign of 1914 when, no matter how badly they fail during the present session, the Plinnites will again turn out to save Pennsylvania from political perdition.

Boys Who Drank From The Same Canteen.

It's fifty years ago or more, we left our homes, Our country to defend. Now together come, ye Columbian's Sons, The Union we sustained— The Union we sustained as Boys, We now will sing this psalm, For we took a sup from the coffee cup And drank from the same canteen.

CHORUS:

Hurrah, now all, Hurrah! For hard-tack we did gnaw In days gone by, Oh, many a sigh, With hunger and thirst so keen, We thought of home and friends, And the war that soon would end, Then pork and beef, gave us relief As we drank from the same canteen

We comrades met as foemen on this field, All fought as we thought right; Then here we slew as together drew, And fierce was this fight— And fierce was this fight, as foes, Yet here are friends again, And united bands, we'll now shake hands, And drink from the same canteen.

CHORUS:

Then firm, united boys we stood, And yet we are the same, For we love to meet, each other to greet, And lend a helping hand— And lend a helping hand as boys, For many days have seen When we often sup, from the coffee cup And drank from the same canteen. Hurrah, as Boys, Hurrah!

CHORUS:

As peace is here, we give a cheer, And make a little noise, For we'd heard more, when the cannon did roar, With shells a flying, too— With shells a flying, too, at us, 'Mid bullets, balls and beans, We took a sup from the coffee cup, And drank from the same canteen. Hurrah, as Boys, Hurrah!

CHORUS:

Those times and war is of the past, And we are home again, Yet we love to hear, from far and near And see you all the same— And see you all the same, as boys, As years ago was seen, When we took a sup from the coffee cup And drank from the same canteen. Hurrah, as Boys, Hurrah!

CHORUS:

Remember all, these ranks and files Must come to another camp; Our hopes is all, will there be called, And ranks will there be full— And ranks will there be full, as men We've cast away all spleen No more will sup from the coffee cup Or drink from the same canteen.

CHORUS:

May we cheer, when the trump does sound To take our place in line, All should be there, and may we share The triumph we have gained— The triumph we have gained by grace, And those we fought so dear, For among the slain their triumph gained All victory end here.

—Stephen Wells.
