FORMER HONESDALE GIRL DOING STUNTS IN N. Y. STATE. Press Dispatches Claim Stepfather Has Appealed to State Secretary May to Revoke Automobile License. The following dispatches sent to the New York Times from its representatives in Albany and Chicago tell of some stunts that a former Honesdale girl is doing in Poughkeepsie, N. Y. She has since become married and it is alleged is not living with her husband. The mother and daughter formerly lived in what is known as the David Kenner house on East street until Mrs. Kenner's marriage to J. M. Ingal, an attorney of New York state, now of Chicago. The dispatches of April 4 read as follows: Albany—Secretary of State May is unable to grant the application of J. M. Ingal of Chicago, retired member of the New York bar, who asked him to revoke the automobile license of his step-daughter, Mrs. Edward I. Alexander of Poughkeepsie, stating that she was reckless in driving her car. Secretary May in a statement says the present law does not give him power to grant the request. The young woman's father asserts that she "ran over a small boy a year ago in Chicago and deliberately took her car out of the State so as to enable the accident insurance company to settle for a trifle with the parents of the injured boy." Secretary May points out that the law "does not afford any means of supervising or controlling the issuance of a certificate of registration to an owner, nor does it provide for the suspension or revocation of a license issued to a chauffeur after the same has been granted." Mr. May calls attention to the fact that measures to remedy what he terms "the inadequacies" of the present law have been introduced in both houses of the Legislature, but have not been reported from committees. Chicago.—J. M. Ingal, a lawyer of 4,638 Clifton avenue, Chicago, who wrote the New York Secretary of State, requesting the annulment of the automobile license of his step-daughter, Mrs. Edward I. Alexander, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., has retired from the practice of the law in New York State and is now spending the remainder of his days in this city. Mrs. Alexander, he says, is the daughter of the late David Kenner, who possessed a valuable farm in the Hudson River Valley in the neighborhood of Poughkeepsie, and who bequeathed her $25,000, into which she came into possession five years ago, when she attained the age of 21. Her mother, who subsequently became the wife of Mr. Ingal, inherited $500,000 from the estate. "My stepdaughter has a mania for fast automobile driving, killing of chickens, dogs, and other animals who stray upon the highways," Mr. Ingal said. "It was this propensity on her part which induced me to request the Secretary of State in New York to revoke her automobile license, believing it would save her from serious trouble. About a year ago she ran over and seriously injured a boy in this city." Mrs. Alexander has a summer home on the South Road, five miles from Poughkeepsie. She was married to Edward I. Alexander on Nov. 25th last, but sixty days later her husband disappeared and is said to be in Mexico. Mrs. Alexander is well known in the Hudson Valley towns. A few years ago she began the study of law in Dutchess county, but apparently never got to the point of applying for admission to the bar. She attracted some comment by appearing on the streets of Poughkeepsie at that time riding a white horse and wearing a black divided skirt. Her stepfather not long ago addressed a communication to Chief of Police McCabe, in Poughkeepsie, asking him if he had sufficient authority to prevent her operating an automobile in Poughkeepsie. At that time she possessed a speedy roadster, but it is not known that she had any difficulty with the authorities in driving it.
