SOMEWHAT INCONSISTENT.

Governor Tener's statement on the proposed issue of $50,000,000 road bonds draws attention to the fact that this important bill now before the Legislature provides for nothing more serious than a referendum of the whole subject to the people.

It is singular that the only opponents of the bill are also champions of the referendum plan. Theoretically, they believe in referring everything to the voters at large and insofar as their own pet legislation is concerned they are always ready to denounce independent action on the part of the General Assembly as a crime.

How, then, can they justify their opposition to a referendum on one of the most important questions that has come before the State lawmakers in years? It is agreed that the people want good roads and it was agreed until recently that the long-term bond issue was the proper way to finance the big project outlined in the Sproul bill. Why should the Legislature be asked to prevent an expression of the popular wishes at the polls in this instance and not in other instances? Extreme radicalism is rarely well balanced and never fair.

MAKE HONESDALE CLEAN.

To begin with, Honesdale is not so dirty as most towns where improvement associations and civic clubs do not exist. We are, practically speaking, clean at all times, but after winter there is more or less dirt that necessarily collects and should be removed in the spring, and "dirt," please bear in mind, is nothing more nor less than "matter out of place." Clean-up week in Honesdale has ceased to be a novelty, but as its purpose becomes better understood each succeeding year, its results are more marked.

May 5 has been designated as the date for beginning our annual municipal housecleaning and this spring, while the festivities are in progress and the tin cans and waste paper and ashes and broken bottles are being carted out of our Spottless Town, and back yards are being primed to court the attentions of reviving Nature, the streets of the city are to be bathed by way of innovation.

The plan is to give them a real, old Saturday-night scrubbing, so that when clean-up week is over and the last tardy householder has set his premises in good order, Sunday, the 11th, will dawn upon a community refurbished and immaculate.

As an aid to sanitation, clean-up week, probably directed and enthusiastically supported by all classes of citizens, will do more to promote public health than half a dozen boards of health could do.

Now is the time to eliminate the breeding places of the fly and the mosquito.

If you get on the job bright and early May 5, you can destroy a million filth and germ-carrying insects with one stroke of the broom.

STUDENT MISSING.

Relatives Believe Hughes Is Held Captive.

MOTHER CONDUCTING SEARCH.

Parent in Philadelphia in Renewed Effort to Find Him—Police Attribute Absence to Fraternity Prank. Sweetheart Gets Letter Saying "He's Unwilling Captive."

Philadelphia, April 17.—Alarmed by the continued absence of her son, Caleb C. Hughes, Jr., a sophomore at the Jefferson Medical college, who disappeared Saturday, the mother of the young man came here from New York and renewed her efforts to find him. Hughes, who is twenty-three years old, left the home of his sweetheart, Miss Letty Gibbs, 2220 South Sixty-eighth street, Saturday night with a check for $100 in his possession. He announced his intention of having the check cashed and started ostensibly for his boarding house in Darby. Hughes has not been seen since.

The police have been inclined to attribute the young man's prolonged absence to a fraternity prank, but friends and relatives of Hughes believe he was attacked and is now possibly held captive by some one who learned that he had money.

George F. Horace, Hughes' roommate, immediately reported his absence to the police, but no word was received from the missing man until Monday afternoon. Then Miss Gibbs got an envelope with a postmark from the central station, Camden. It contained Hughes' visiting card, upon the back of which was penned in his handwriting: "I am an unwilling captive. I don't know where I am." On the other side was written:

Dear Letty—Fortunately I have an addressed letter. I am an unwilling captive. Write pa and ma. I send love. Remain true. I will be back. Tenderly and lovingly, Caleb.

The police admitted there was something serious in the case when shown the card. The young man's roommate declares emphatically that he believes Hughes to be in serious trouble. He described the sophomore as a quiet, unassuming youth who spent most of his time in his room or at the home of Miss Gibbs. While the two are not engaged, the family of the young woman admitted that there was some understanding between them.

COATESVILLE STILL "DRY."

License For Taylor House at That Place Refused.

West Chester, Pa., April 17.—Coatesville will continue to be "dry" for a year, according to a decision handed down by Judge William Butler refusing the application for a license at the Taylor House there made by William Worthington of Germantown, Chester county. He is a brother of Mrs. Orman, widow of the former owner of the hotel.

No new applications by other hotel men in Coatesville will be given consideration by the court. The hotel men have announced an appeal to the superior court, but so far no steps have been taken. The licenses of all other hotels in Coatesville were revoked four weeks ago.

Judge Butler in refusing the application reviewed the testimony given by citizens of Coatesville, all of whom declared the license would be hurtful. They testified that one liquor license in a town of 12,000 persons would cause as much harm as though one had been granted to each of the former five hotels. To this the court acquiesced.

CALLS FOR VICE COMMISSION.

Resolution Provides For Probe of White Slavery by Board.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 17.—A joint resolution was introduced in the house providing for appointment of a commission to investigate the white slave traffic.

The commission is to be composed of two senators, to be named by the president pro tem. of the senate, and three representatives, to be named by the speaker. It is to investigate the traffic in women and girls and to report to the next legislature. The commission is given authority to compel attendance of witnesses and to travel about the state. An appropriation of $10,000 is carried.

The resolution, presented by Mr. Cochran, Fayette, is not an administration measure. Governor Tener has been considering the white slave traffic and will soon communicate his ideas to the legislature in the form of a special message. The resolution was referred to a committee.

WOMAN FAILS TO FIND GOLD ON COCOS ISLAND.

Treasure Hunting Expedition Comes Back After Fine Time.

The treasure hunting expedition led by Miss Genevieve Davis, an English woman, which had been looking for buried gold on Cocos island for many months, got back to the city of Panama recently. A good time was had by all. No treasure was recovered.

Benito Bonito was a regular pirate, who in the early part of the nineteenth century settled down to "singling the beard of the king of Spain" along the coast of Mexico. When he got any money together he buried it on Cocos island after the manner of pirates and made a map with the skull and crossbones marking the spot where the treasure was hid. His heirs have made a substantial living selling these maps to those whom romance and the works of R. L. Stevenson have touched.

Miss Davis' expedition started out from Plymouth with one of the maps and a vessel armed with a six pounder to fight the natives of Cocos island, which lies 550 miles southwest of Panama, on Sept. 10 last. The only woman besides Miss Davis aboard the ship was her friend Mrs. Barry Till. Two other expeditions left respectively from France and Victoria, B. C., with maps similar to that of Miss Davis. Nothing has been heard of them recently.

FIND GREAT IRON ORE TRACT.

Fabulous Wealth Located in Earth of Wisconsin.

What promises to be the greatest iron ore discovery in the world's history became known in Milwaukee recently with the arrival in that city of Frank R. Hensel of Prairie Du Chien to close arrangements for the transfer of leases on an enormous tract of land to a local representative of some of the biggest iron mining operators in the United States.

The great tract is in the southwestern part of Wisconsin, extends over parts of three counties, and the discoverers believe that an area sixty miles long and forty miles wide is largely underlain with ore of rich percentage in metallic iron.

Assays range from 54 per cent to over 60 per cent metallic iron, most of it non-Bessemer, but with possibilities of developing Bessemer quality at a lower depth.

The ore is near the surface, being in places only twenty feet beneath, while in the best explored tract the mineral is eighty feet below the surface and has been tested through a depth of forty feet. One area tested out contains approximately 2,000,000 tons of ore, valued at about $8,000,000.

FALLS 17 STORIES—LIVES.

Workman Smokes Two Cigarettes After Plunge From Dizzy Height.

John Brunnen, a marble worker, twenty-six years old, fell down an elevator shaft in the new Municipal building of New York from the seventeenth story to the basement recently. He sustained fractures of both legs.

It was a few minutes after 5 o'clock that Brunnen and some fellow workmen were waiting for an elevator. Brunnen looked down the temporary shaft, became dizzy and plunged down. Workmen hurried to the basement expecting to find Brunnen dead, but instead the young man was lying on a pile of empty cement bags. He was conscious, and his first request was for a cigarette.

Brunnen smoked two cigarettes and was about to light a third when Father Evers of St. Andrew's church arrived and put a stop to the smoking while he administered the rites of the church.
