"WILCOX GLIDE" HAS ARRIVED

New Dance to Supplant Turkey Trot is Invented.

A new dance, the Ella Wheeler Wilcox glide, was introduced recently in Earl hall, Columbia university, New York, at a reception given by the Western club of the college, under the auspices of the university forum.

Mrs. Wilcox herself consented to dance the newly invented steps, with Louis F. Chalf, formerly of the Metropolitan Opera company, as her partner. The dance is a sort of combination of the valse and the minuet and is intended to supplant dances such as the turkey trot, which have come under ban.

Miss Jane Beers is the inventor of the Wilcox glide.

The dear old songs of long ago— I heard them warbled in a show. My taste, alas, is not severe! I have, no doubt, a vandal's ear. For as I heard the old refrain In comic or in serious vein I vowed with diffidence complete The modern songs have got them beat! —Washington Star.

SAY MARTIN FLED WITH WOMAN

Rich American May Be Held by London Card Sharppers.

London, April 17.—The London police have been supplied with many alleged clues as to the whereabouts of Joseph W. Martin every few minutes of the day. One of the latest avers that the Memphis man went on board the steamship Walmer Castle with a woman on April 5, shortly before that vessel left for South Africa.

Thirty-four taxicab drivers informed the Scotland Yard authorities that they had driven men answering the description of the lost American. Another cabman said that he drove a man on the night of April 3 who possibly had Martin's cash with him. The man alighted near the Belvedere road, where Martin's hat was found, and tendered a ten pound Bank of England note in payment of his fare. The man showed a red stained handkerchief and several articles of jewelry.

Inspector Ward examined the papers found in Martin's baggage, but discovered nothing to throw light on the mystery of his disappearance. Among the papers was a draft of a prospectus of an Arkansas land company which Martin was floating here. There was nothing, however, to show that any money had passed in this connection. Ward expects to obtain an order from the high court of justice permitting the examination of Martin's safe deposit vault.

Information reached the police that the woman with whom Martin had an appointment the night he disappeared had made arrangements to leave London for the United States. That Mr. Martin was the victim of card sharpers, who may either have killed him or are holding him a prisoner somewhere, is the generally accepted theory here. Whether the mysterious woman, said to be a beautiful Brazilian, was a member of this band is not known, but she is known to be acquainted with some of its leaders. One of the most prominent members of this band of sharpers is said to be a woman of title.

PICKS HOME POSTMASTER.

Wilson May Appoint Cotterill, Republican, in Princeton.

Washington, April 17.—President Wilson is choosing the postmaster for his home town—Princeton, N. J.—and his choice is likely to be a Republican. "Chip" Cotterill, now assistant to the postmaster and known to the president since boyhood, is likely to be appointed. A change in the office was recommended in an Inspector's report to the department, made before the close of the Taft administration.

Representative Allan Walsh, who represents the district in congress, was invited by Postmaster General Burleson to suggest a successor to the incumbent, but declined, saying that President Wilson was more familiar than he with the capabilities of the various candidates.

ACCUSED AS "BLUEBEARD."

Fencing Master Killed Two Wives, Tried to Poison Third, Say Police.

Berlin, April 17.—Karl Kopf, a fencing master prominent in sporting circles here, has been arrested at Frankfurt-on-the-Main on the charge of having killed his first two wives and of trying to poison the third one. It is alleged the crimes were committed to get big insurances.

A search of the house where Kopf lived resulted in the discovery of deadly drugs, cholera, typhus and other bacilli, chemical apparatus and medical books.

DIES IN HIS 104TH YEAR.

New Jersey Man Attributed Long Life to Moderation.

John Butler died recently at his home in Ocean Grove, N. J., in his one hundred and fourth year. He was born at Tottenville, N. Y., Jan. 16, 1810.

Up to the time he was in his one hundred and first year Mr. Butler could see as well as he could at seventy-five, and he enjoyed splendid health. He was as sprightly as few men of eighty are. His eyesight began to fail at length, and finally he became almost blind, but up to a few weeks ago he retained his bodily health.

Uncle John, as every one had called him for years, always preached "moderation in all things," and he practiced moderation except perhaps in the matter of coffee. He indulged in this to the extent of eight cups a day for many years. He never used tobacco, but drank liquors when he wished.

SUFFRAGE PRAIRIE SCHOONER.

Tour of New York State in Ancient Vehicle Planned.

A prairie schooner such as figured in the rush to the gold fields in 1849 will have a prominent place in the May suffrage parade in New York, after which it will tour the state, starting from the state suffrage headquarters. The sides of the schooner will be decorated with slogans to this import: "Suffrage or bust in 1915."

Certain ants, with some pleasure, are recalling that the schooner which started for the gold fields bearing the device, "California or bust," ultimately hit the homeward trail with the caption changed to "Busted, by thunder!"

The schooner is being built under the direction of Frank Nelson of Rochester, who is an old time prospector.

SHOWS JOB HUNTER THE DOOR

President Wilson Squelches Man Who Ignored Rule.

That "no office seekers need apply," which President Wilson hung on the White House fence March 5, still is in force a candidate for a governmental post learned to his sorrow recently. He was received personally by the president and after a bit of general conversation diplomatically broached the subject of his ambition for office.

The president congealed in his particularly effective way of congealing. "You have forgotten the rule," he observed distantly, "Good afternoon."

LETTER FROM W. A. BRADY.

Mr. Editor:
 "Bought and Paid For," the biggest play of our time, and which will be the attraction at the Lyric next Monday evening, carries my personal guarantee. It is the same in every particular as drew packed houses for two years at my Playhouse in New York.

If you find anything to criticize—any slurring or inattention by the players, or any point about the stage equipment that does not justify the highest claims of the management—I shall esteem it a very great favor to have you write me in detail at my offices in the Playhouse, New York.

It has been asserted in some quarters that lack of interest in amusements in all but the few largest cities has been caused by short sighted managers who sent inferior companies and shabby scenery to these centres. I am determined that my name, when attached to an attraction, shall be a full assurance of the high value of that attraction, and I bespeak your assistance to that end.

Any proper complaint you may make will receive prompt and respectful attention.
