THOUGHT FOR TO-DAY.

Get up right in the morning. Go to bed right at night. Start with joy in your heart, hope in the future, kindness in your purpose. If it is a dark day, never mind; you will light en it up. If it is a bright day, you will add to the brightness. Give a word of cheer, a kindly greeting and a warm handshake to your friends.
If you have enemies, look up, pass them by, forget and try to forgive.
If all of us would only think how much of human happiness is made by ourselves, there would be less of human misery. If all of us would bear in mind that happiness is from within and not from without, there would be a wellspring of joy in every heart and the sun would shine fore-ever. Try it!—Leslie's Weekly.

If the Pennsylvania Democratic leaders don't succeed in landing William H. Berry in a nice, soft Federal job within the State, they will have him on their hands two years hence when the gubernatorial fight opens. There is only one place Berry will accept and that is collector of the port of Philadelphia, attached to which is a salary of $8,000. He wants nothing else and confidently predicts that he will win the coveted prize, despite opposition of party leaders in Philadelphia. There is much opposition, but friends of Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer want Berry out of the way for the gubernatorial race and it is likely Berry will get the job he wants.

REORGANIZATION.

Hon. Geo. W. Guthrie, Ambassador to China.
(Successor to Geo. W. Guthrie, Democratic State Chairman.)

Hon. Vance McCormick, Dispenser of Patronage and candidate for United States Senator.
(Successor to Vance McCormick, Bullet maker to the Reorganizers.)

Hon. A. Mitchell Palmer, Supreme Justice of the Court of Last Appeal and candidate for Governor.
(Successor to A. Palmer, Big bullet shooter to the Reorganizers.)

Hon. I. James Blakeslie, (accet on the I.) Fourth Assistant Postmaster General.
(Successor to Jimmie Blakeslie, Secretary to the Reorganizers.)

Charles R. Kurtz, Surveyor of the Customs at Philadelphia.
(Successor to Charles R. Kurtz, lickspittlestimo for the Reorganizers.)

Bulletin. The Democratic State Committee takes pleasure in announcing that the reorganization of the Democracy of Pennsylvania, begun with so much eclat last summer, has been completed. We have the jobs we want, now the rest of you pitch in for yourselves and the devil take the hindmost.—Democratic Watchman.

ONE OF THE RICHEST.

Pennsylvania is one of the richest states in the Union. It contains 45,215 square miles. It is 300 miles wide at its widest part and its greatest length is 180 miles. With its 7,665,000 people it holds the second place in point of population. It contains the third richest city in the country, only New York city and Brooklyn passes Philadelphia in the valuation of taxable property. It has the greatest railroad system in the country, though holding the sixth place in respect of its total mileage.
In the list of the 100 largest cities in the United States, seven are in the State of Pennsylvania, and there are in the State 146 incorporated places of 5000 or more inhabitants. In density of population Pennsylvania holds the sixth rank among the states, with 171 population to the square mile.
In 1911 the railway mileage in the State was 11,340.58 miles; in 1909, the latest figures just now available, there were only 3364 miles of what are called "improved" public highways in the state, and this is the point of present interest.

The total mileage of all public roads in the United States is 2,199,- 645 miles, and the total mileage of all improved roads is 190,476.
Among the eight states "having largest mileage of improved roads" in the United States the name of Pennsylvania does not appear. In Wisconsin, which was wilderness when Pennsylvania was a settled Commonwealth, there are 10,167 miles of improved public roads; in Pennsylvania there are 3,364 miles.

In the list of 18 "States showing the greatest percentage of improved roads" in 1909 the name of Pennsylvania did not appear. In the list of eleven States showing "the greatest progress" in road building in the five-year period between 1904 and 1909 Pennsylvania ranked seventh.

With its population of more than 7,000,000, its great cities, its immense wealth represented by property assessed for taxation, at 60 per cent of its actual market value, at $5,783,688,325, the Imperial State of Pennsylvania—"the Keystone State" —built 1204 miles of "improved" public roads, or about 240 miles the year, or about 110 inches per capita.
That is not an achievement, surely, of which one of the oldest and most civilized states in the Union should be very proud; but it is set down in the official reports as "gain," and in its day of small things Pennsylvania should have full credit for what it has done. There have been stretches of years when it did not do anything at all to make its paths straight.

Bulletin 41, United States office of Public Roads, gives the total mil-age of public roads in Pennsylvania as 87,387 miles, of which 2,891 were macadam, 29 miles brick and 436 miles gravel. Isn't that a record of which the State founded by William Penn should be proud?—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

HARRISBURG LETTER

The Sheatz mothers' pension bill, providing for a commission of not more than seven nor less than five and an appropriation of $100,000, was passed finally in the House last week by a vote of 188 to 5, after a debate in which George A. Baldwin, Beaver, had declared that the bill was based on the wrong theory and that the present poor laws offered all the relief necessary. Mr. Bal-win, at first moved to postpone the bill, but was defeated and then renewed his attack on the measure as ill advised legislation.

Mr. Strauss, Berks; Mr. Watson, Indiana, and Mr. Piper, Philadelphia, argued for the bill, Mr. Watson saying that Mr. Baldwin's statement that pensions were granted only for service to the State did not deserve consideration because there could be no greater service than the rearing of children in a proper manner. Mr.
McClintock, Philadelphia, closed the discussion, speaking in favor of the measure. The bill goes to the Senate for concurrence in the House amendments.

The House also passed by a vote of 172 to 5 the Jones bill for providing for appointment of a country life commission of seven persons to promote the agricultural interests of the State by investigation, suggestion and reports with a view of increasing fertility of the soil and the bringing of products to the consumers with the greatest economy. An appropriation of $10,000 is carried.
This bill is one of the Republican State Convention committee's measures.

Mr. Kitts, Erie, objected to the provision of any additional bills, giving notice after two had been handed in by unanimous consent that he would object to any in future on the ground that the House had set March 17 as the last day for new bills and an unprecedented number was before the Legislature. The bill to increase salaries of clerks in the department of mines was defeated 86 to 78.

The House passed finally:
Authorizing appointment of ten special agricultural instructors to counsel farmers and appropriating $40,000 for salaries and expenses; permitting sale of articles manufactured by inmates of State institutions for benefit of such persons; regulating appeals from reports of school auditors; providing an indemnity plan in sales of trees, vines, plants, seeds, etc.; regulating jurisdiction in service of papers in divorce; providing that hospitals maintaining phycopathic wards shall be entitled to $2 per day from the State for each patient; establishing time in which an election may be held on increase of municipal indebtedness for the same purpose and subjects as defeated at a previous election; authorizing county controllers in counties having less than 150,000 population to appoint sollicitors at $1,000 per year; providing for oral examination of judgment debtor for purpose of discovering whether he has property which may be subject to execution; regulating practice of surveying under act of 1856; establishing in third class cities houses of detention for delinquent, dependent or neglected children; requiring reports of cases of lead poisoning and other occupational diseases.

The resolution submitting to the voters of Pennsylvania the proposition to issue bonds to the amount of $50,000,000 for construction of highways, which has been an object of discussion in the House of Representatives for almost a month, was passed unally in that branch of the Legislature Thursday night by a vote of 189 to 2. The measure was ordered sent to the Senate for concu-rence in amendments to correct typographical errors and if passed in that branch, which is expected, will be laid before the voters at the November election.

The resolution was taken up in regular order and John R. K. Scott, Philadelphia, who had made a fight to keep it in the roads committee last week, called attention to the fact that the Attorney-General had informed the House that no enabling legislation for issuance of bonds could be passed this session. He declared that he was opposed to the amendment as he did not consider that the State needed to issue bonds for highways, calling attention to the fact that taxation bills, which are pending will raise between $6,- 000,000 and $7,000,000.

He said that he did not think that Pennsylvania needed to borrow a dollar and asked why a State so rich and so liberal to charities should be forced to go to the money lenders.
The bill passed the Senate on March 11, and has been in the House since that date.

SISSON FOR GOVERNOR.

Attorney General Proposed as Best Candidate for State Executive by the "Sonntagsbote."

Many men have recently been mentioned as available candidates for the governorship as successor of Governor Tener, but none of them seem to have the qualities and abilities, which would recommend them to us as acceptable timber for the highest office in the State of Pennsylvania.

There is one man, though, who, we confidentially believe, would meet all requirements for a capable state executive, who would give a good account of himself and also would as a man of liberal views have most certainly receive the support of the German-American element.

This man is A. E. Sisson, at present auditor general of the Keystone State. The "Sonntagsbote" proposes him as the best man available for the governorship and hopes that he will accept the candidacy when his legions of friends, who are only waiting for the opportune moment to do so, will launch the formal boom, which, we are confident, will result in his nomination and election with an overwhelming majority.
Mr. Sisson is a native of Erie, Pa., and during his entire career has proved himself a thoroughly honest and capable man. He has the confidence of his friends and the general public, who know, that as governor, he would be the right man in the right place. During his present term of office, which ends on May 1, he has saved the state and the taxpayers many thousands of dollars by forcing the corporations, which heretofore always had succeeded in evading the payment, to come up to time with their taxes. The receipts of the state treasury have, by his energy and activity, been increased by many hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Sisson for Governor! He would be the right man for the right place.

POPE BETTER, BUT STILL WEAK

Pontiff Takes More Nourishment and Physicians Look For His Recovery.

Rome, April 21.—Although the pope still is weak and is subject to periods of depression which have a large element of danger in them, it is thought that his increased ability to take nourishment is a most favorable sign.

With more food entering his system his strength is returning. It is thought by his physicians that he soon will be out of danger. His pulse now is normal—70 to 75, compared with more than 100 at the height of his fever.
The pope suffered from coughing spells, which came intermittently. At times these periods were exhausting.
But the bronchial affection on the left side is diminishing. For five days now there has been practically no fever.

The call of the pope's brother, Angelo Sarto, postmaster of the village of Grazie, was a tender episode. There is a difference in age between them of only one year, but Angelo, with his robust frame, seemed ten years younger than the pope, who appeared thin, languid and pale. Dr. Marchiafava, who was present at the meeting, declared that the scene was so touching that his own eyes were wet.

The presence of the members of his family around him has inspired the pope with new vigor, and the bright sunshine flooding his room caused him to exclaim, "On such a day as this I cannot imagine that any one could be ill."

Rumors of various kinds continue to be circulated, and it has even been reported that Dr. Ettore Marchiafava and Dr. Andrea Amiel have quarreled over the case. One report had it that Dr. Amiel insisted that the pope should have last communion, but that Dr. Marchiafava opposed this in order to avoid the shock which this might cause the patient. This report is absurd, as the pope has taken communion every day since his illness began, so that in the words of the pontiff himself, "Death will not find me unprepared."

Clyde Leftwich, for the last three years employed in the Gurney Elevator shops, expects to move to Newark, N. J., in the near future where he has secured employment at his trade.

WOMAN SHOT DEAD BY BURGLAR

Fleeing Marauder Wounds Two Others Who Seek to Block Escape.

Boston, April 21.—Mrs. Eugene Co-bert was shot and instantly killed by a burglar she surprised at his work of looting her flat in the St. Jean apartment house at 81 Pond street, South Attleboro. A moment later in his flight from the house the burglar shot Mrs. Covert's sister, Mary Powers, through the shoulder, inflicting a dangerous wound, and also shot her brother, Joseph Powers, through the arm. The burglar escaped.

Within a few minutes the entire country side was in an uproar, and policemen, sheriffs and a posse of men, armed with rifles and shotguns, were out scouring the country for the mur-derer.

Miss Della Dollhoff, in charge of the Attleboro telephone exchange, received a message telling her to call physicians and the police, for a burglar had shot several persons and probably killed a woman in the St. Jean apartments in Pond street. Miss Dollhoff immediately sent alarms in the four police signals scattered in the various parts of the town.

The burglar first encountered Joseph Powers, the brother of Mrs. Covert. He put his revolver to Powers' head and demanded his money. When the burglar turned to go Powers jumped at him and the burglar instantly fired one shot, striking Powers in the arm.

The burglar fled down to the second floor, where he was confronted by Mary Powers, and when she attempted to grab him he shot her in the shoulder.

Mrs. Eugene Covert had heard the noise and, telling her husband she was afraid there was a burglar in the house, she got out of bed and went into the hall and confronted him. Her husband heard her scream, "He has shot me!" and then there was a loud noise. She dropped to the floor dead. Mr. Covert found her lying dead in the hall when he went out.

Railroad Is Fined $5,000.

Indianapolis, April 21.—The Michigan Central railway was fined $5,000 by Federal Judge A. B. Anderson following conviction on the charge of granting unlawful concessions in rates to Chapin & Co., a Milwaukee grain firm. Chapin & Co. were indicted at the same time as the railroad, but have not yet been tried. The firm operates a large plant at Hammond, Ind.

Stops Scalp Itch

Dandruff and Every Form of Scalp Disease Cured Quick by Zemo.

It is simply wonderful how Zemo goes after dandruff. You rub a little of it in with tips of the fingers. It gets right down into the glands, stimu-lates them, stops the itch, and makes the head feel fine. No, it isn't sticky! Zemo is a fine, clear, vanishing liquid. You don't have to even wash your hands after using Zemo. And what a wonder it is for eczema, rash, pimples and all skin afflictions. A 25-cent bottle at A. M.
Leine's drug store, Honesdale, is guaranteed to stop any skin irritation.

Zemo is prepared by E. W. Rose Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo., and is regularly sold by druggists at $1 a bottle. But to prove what it will do at trifling expense, Zemo is now put up in 25-cent trial bottles.

Surest Way to End Catarrh

Go to Pell, the druggist, and say:
"I want a HYOMEI outfit." Take it home—pour a few drops of HYOMEI from the bottle into the little hard rubber inhaler—breathe it for five minutes and note the refreshing result—breathe it four or five times a day for a few days and Catarrh and all its symptoms will gradually disappear.

Booth's HYOMEI is balsamic air; it contains no opium, cocaine or other harmful drug and is sold on money back plan for Catarrh, Croup, Colds and Coughs. Complete outfit (includes inhaler) $1.00—extra bottles if later needed, 50 cents at Pell, the druggist, and druggists everywhere. Simple instructions for use in every package—you can't fail.
Just breathe it—no stomach dosing.

PAUPACK.

Paupack, April 21.
Mrs. John Orr of Emporium, has returned to her home after a three months' stay with her sister, Mrs.
P. J. Keary. She came home to attend the funeral of her father, who died at Mrs. Keary's in February. was taken sick and was not able to return home till last week. Her daughter, Mary, of Utica, N. Y., who has been helping care for her, accompanied her home.
