HONESDALE'S LARGEST AUDIENCE.

When the new Gurney Electric Elevator plant was dedicated on Wednesday night of this week the event drew in one place the largest audience of people that ever gathered in Honesdale.

It is estimated that fully four thousand were in the new building, and that is a pretty large crowd for a town the size of Honesdale to muster on any occasion.

Of course more people came to the town itself on Old Home week on both occasions; but those who came were scattered. On Wednesday night there was nothing of the "scattering" order about it, for they all gathered "in one place and in one accord."

One of the speakers, Homer Greene, Esq., commented on the extraordinary large audience, declaring that in all Honesdale's history it had never been equaled.

GOOD ROADS AMENDMENT.

The State Senate having concurred in the corrections of omissions in the resolution proposing the amendment to the constitution to permit borrowing of $50,000,000 for improvement of roads, the question is ready for submission to the people at the next election.

The resolution passed the Legislature in the session of 1911 and is now through the House, the final vote in the lower branch of the Legislature having been 189 to 2, the most decisive vote taken on a big measure at the present session. The Senate had already passed the bill and the action this week was to approve typographical changes to make the bill an exact duplicate of the one passed two years ago. It will be submitted to the people at the November election, and the voters will then have an opportunity to say whether they desire to have first-class highway system or not. We must have good roads so why not start in building them?

VERY UNFORTUNATE AFFAIR.

The Citizen notes, with regret, the great trouble, of a financial nature, that has come upon the Tribune Publishing Company, of Scranton, and it also notes, with much sorrow, the half-concealed tone of satisfaction with which several of our contemporaries have told the story in their columns.

Any such misfortune as that which has befallen the Tribune-Republican reaches far in its effect on all classes of business. To the city of Scranton it partakes of the nature of a calamity. It has hurt the banking institutions of that city so severely that the effect will be an unnecessary tightening of their lines against other business interests that will need and should have their protection. It weakens public confidence in all business enterprises along the modern lines of co-operation and allied capital. It weakens the confidence of those not living in Scranton as to her enterprises of all kinds, for people are bound to look askance at business ventures in any community where failures on a large scale occur.

As to Mr. Towne himself, his ability as a very forceful writer along editorial lines cannot be questioned. That he has given Scranton people a good morning NEWS-paper must generally be admitted. While The Citizen has not seen political matters in the same light as

Mr. Towne, it nevertheless believes that that gentleman has been honest in his convictions, and that he has as much right to them as we have to ours.

What the outcome of the affair will be, can only be conjectured. There will be no suspension of the publication of the Tribune-Republican, for, like the Sultan of Turkey, "the sick man of the East," who is upheld by the allied powers because they dare not allow him to come to his end, even so is it with the Tribune-Republican. Those to whom it is indebted cannot afford to allow it to fall, and for their individual protection they will have to hold their arms beneath it and bear it up in this hour of great weakness.

We are truly sorry, as before mentioned in this article, to observe the "darned-glad-of-it" note in the editorial expressions of some of our contemporaries. Such expressions are in bad taste, to say the very least. All newspapers in these strenuous days have troubles and sorrows of their own, and there is not one of them that as the result of some unfortunate and careless utterance, or some short-sighted business or editorial policy, might not sooner or later be plunged into an abyss that would be as disastrous as that of the Tribune-Republican. It is better in every sense to be a helper, than a hindrance, to say the kind word rather than the words that leave a sting behind them.

It is to be hoped that the dark cloud of trouble that now hovers over the Scranton Tribune-Republican and those in any way connected with it may soon be lifted, and that the sun of prosperity and peace may ere long be shining in full brightness and power.

NOTABLE INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS ON SCHOOL HYGIENE.

All the leading nations, every state in the Union, every college and university of note in this country, and various other leading educational, scientific, medical and hygienic institutions and organizations, as well as various women's organizations, will be represented at the Fourth International Congress on School Hygiene in Buffalo, August 25 to 30th, according to a preliminary statement just issued by Dr. Thos. A. Storey, of the College of the City of New York, Secretary-General of the Congress.

Mr. Woodrow Wilson, as President of the United States, has accepted the honorary office of Patron of the Congress. The president of the Congress is Mr. C. W. Eliot, one time president of Harvard University. The vice-presidents are Dr. William Walcott, president of the recent International Congress on Hygiene and Demography and chairman of the Massachusetts State Board of Health, and Dr. William H. Welch the great pathologist of John Hopkins University, formerly president of the American Medical Association.

It is the aim of the organizing committee in charge to bring together at Buffalo a record number of men and women interested in improving the health and efficiency of school children, and to take this Congress—the first of its kind ever held in America—one of direct benefit to each individual community. A program of papers and discussions is now being arranged covering the entire field of school hygiene. There will be scientific exhibits representing the best that is being done in school hygiene, and also commercial exhibits of educational value.

Nor will the entertainment of delegates in any way be neglected. Buffalo has just subscribed $40,000 toward covering the expenses of the Congress. The Buffalo citizens committee has planned for a series of social events, including receptions and a grand ball, a pageant in the park, and excursion trips to the greatest industrial plants and to the scenic wonders of Niagara Falls.

The Congress is open to all persons interested in school hygiene, who may join as regular active members upon the payment of a $5 fee. Application for membership should be sent to Dr. Thomas A. Storey, College of the City of New York, New York City.

BURY JUDGE MAGILL

Funeral of Philadelphia Jurist Notable One.

EULOGIZE HIS ACHIEVEMENTS

Bench and Bar Largely Represented at Services—Chief Justice Fell One of the Honorary Pallbearers—Succumbed After Short Illness.

Philadelphia, April 24.—The funeral of Judge Edward W. Magill was held from his late residence in this city. The services were conducted by the Rev. William Dayton Roberts, a close personal friend of the jurist, who died Sunday in the University hospital following a short illness.

The bench and bar were largely represented at the services. The honorary pallbearers were Chief Justice Fell of the supreme court, Judge Orlady of the superior court, Judges Bregy and Kinsey, associates of Judge Magill in common pleas court No. 1; Judges Sulzberger, McMichael, Willson and Martin, Governor Miller of Delaware, Hampton L. Carson, Francis Shunk Brown and former Governor Stuart.

The active pallbearers were John L. Burns, Horace D. Gaw, Oscar West, Hiram Horter, Jr.; O. F. Borneman, Charles C. Lyle, Francis Schreiber, Robert W. Blatt, Jr., and William C. Grober.

In common pleas court No. 1 justice of the supreme court, judges and foremost members of the legal profession met to pay fitting tribute to the memory of Judge Magill. In eulogies sincere and heartfelt judges and lawyers recounted the fine qualities of Judge Magill as a citizen and a jurist and praised his great ability first as a lawyer and afterward as a judge.

Chief Justice Fell was named as presiding officer and paid a brief but impressive tribute to the memory of the dead judge, whom he had known since boyhood. Carroll R. Williams, Ruby R. Vale, Harry T. Stoddard and William H. Stanke were made secretaries. Following this formality Hampton L. Carson presented a resolution of sorrow upon the death of Judge Magill, which will be conveyed to his family.

Said Judge Barratt: "Judge Magill and I were friends from boyhood, and I come with profound sorrow and reverence to lay a sprig of evergreen upon his grave and express my personal sense of loss.

"Judge Magill was reared in this fine atmosphere of plain, old fashioned, honest living, of truth, honor, honesty and probity in all things. He was thoroughly sound and wholesome in his views of men and life and absolutely unsuspecting. Judge Magill had few faults because he never imputed faults of others. He was strong both mentally and physically, and as a judge what he did was after careful consideration and because he believed it to be right. In private life he was the plain, unassuming gentleman."

ARREST HUMMEL'S DAUGHTER

Admits She Owned Revolver With Which Father Was Killed.

Pottsville, Pa., April 24.—Bertha Hummel, daughter of George Hummel of Tower City, who was found dead in his home, shot through the heart, was arrested in connection with the murder and is now in the county jail here, having been committed without bail. Edward Hummel, a son of the murdered man, was also arrested as a witness.

Miss Hummel entered a plea of not guilty, although she admits that she owned the revolver which was found by the side of her father.

40,000 PUPILS SHUN SCHOOL.

Protest Against Superintendent Heeter Continues in Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, April 24.—Fully 40,000 pupils kept away from 132 public schools of this city in protest against the retention of S. L. Heeter as superintendent of schools.

The children did not make the same demonstration as when they paraded with banners denouncing Heeter. There were few attempts to march and these were prevented by the police.

Heeter declares that he has no intention of resigning.

CHOKED TO DEATH BY MEAT.

Nephew of John Wanamaker Expires in Philadelphia Restaurant.

Philadelphia, April 24.—Nelson Wanamaker, forty-five years old, a nephew of John Wanamaker, choked to death in a restaurant on a piece of steak. The meat lodged in his throat in a coughing spell.

Mr. Wanamaker was taken to the Jefferson hospital, where the meat was removed and a pulmotor used to induce artificial respiration. He was dead, however.

GIANT KILLER BADLY HURT.

Berry Coveleskie Knocked Unconscious From Blow of a Bat.

Shamokin, Pa., April 24.—Relatives of Harry Coveleskie, former pitcher of the Philadelphia National leaguers and who kept the Giants out of a pennant, received a message that he had been badly injured at Chattanooga, Tenn.

While warming up preliminary to a game a bat slipped from the hands of another player and struck him on the head, rendering him unconscious.

SAMUEL MORRISON, THE HONESDALE MAN WHO DID THE GURNEY PLUMBING AND HEATING.

Any description of the building of the Gurney Elevator Works in Honesdale would be incomplete without some special mention of the vast amount of work that was done along the line of plumbing and heating; and this, of course, leads directly to the individual who had the contract for doing that work—Samuel Morrison, once a Philadelphia boy, but now a Honesdale business man.

It is all the more interesting when the fact is taken into consideration that this was the only contract on the entire building that was left in Honesdale, the job being apparently too large or complicated for our local men to bid on.

The mode of heating the enormous plant is by the vacuum system, which eliminates air valves. The drip returns to a pump receiver which sends it on its rounds again and again, much the same as blood pulses through all forms of animal life. When the fires are lighted and pressure of 25 pounds of steam or more has been raised the pump automatically begins to work, and keeps right at it until the steam falls below that point. Something like perpetual motion, you see—you start a fire and the pump does the rest.

To generate the steam for heating the plant required the installation of two huge boilers of one hundred and twenty-five horse power each. In order that the heat could be conveyed to every part of the mammoth building it was necessary to connect up 39,000 feet of pipe. This amount of pipe, if laid end to end would extend about seven and a-half miles.

The smoke-stack necessary to accommodate the huge boilers is three feet and six inches in diameter, and it pierces the sky to the height of one hundred and ten feet. In the matter of radiator surface it figures 7,200 square feet. When it is considered that 300 square feet will heat an ordinary house it will be seen that to heat the Gurney plant will require as much radiator surface as would twenty-four ordinary residences. The steam is controlled by automatic damper regulators that are set to adjust themselves to any required degree of heat, and they do the work they are supposed to do, and thus all worry and fuss are cut out.

In the matter of plumbing, the contract called for shower baths, hot and cold water baths, a 60-foot sink or lavatory in the manufacturing shop and a 27-foot lavatory in the foundry.

The baths and facilities for health and cleanliness were to be installed along specifications which called for the very best as regards both materials and workmanship.

In the matter of toilet rooms, there are closets in every part of the establishment. As to their construction, and so forth, Mr. Morrison told The Citizen representative that they were better than would be found in first-class hotels. There are two luxurious toilet rooms for ladies in different parts of the building, for a certain number of women are employed at clerical and draughting work at the Gurney Elevator manufactory.

Of course the writer can only touch the merest outlines of work that were required in Mr. Morrison's contract. He can give not even a hint as to details. The work was begun on November 1st, 1912, and was pushed with all of the vigor that characterizes Mr. Morrison until April 16—seven days before the building was to be dedicated, when his contract was completed, and it is as satisfactory a piece of work along the lines indicated above as was ever attempted in this part of the Keystone State. During the progress of the work twelve men on an average were employed. At no time were less than six on the job, and frequently the number ran as high as sixteen.

The completion of the contract by Mr. Morrison on schedule time and in the highly satisfactory manner that characterizes the work, tells people in very plain terms that in Mr. Morrison Honesdale has a contracting heater and plumber that is capable of doing great things and of doing them well. —Advertisement.

A. E. Sheard, of Milanville, accompanied his daughter, Miss Lillie G. Sheard to Honesdale on Thursday. Miss Sheard left for Columbus, Ohio, where she will complete a course in penmanship. Mr. Sheard told us that he sowed oats on Wednesday, which is the earliest in many years.

Monday Specials

Why Not Tuesday?

Very true. Why Not Tuesday? We have more than half expected that question and have been prepared to answer it. Monday seemed to us at the time we began the very best day because it gave housekeepers all day Sunday to plan for Monday's shopping. Then, too, every worker in the store was ready after Sunday's rest to work most willingly on Monday. However, for reasons aforesaid, which may be no reason at all, we made Monday bargain day, and as Monday bargain day we have made it famous, and as such to-day's bargains will add to its reputation.
