WARLIKE MOVE BY AUSTRIANS

Reported 10,000 Troops Have Started For Montenegro Towns.

London, April 28.—An Austrian naval division has left Trieste with 10,000 troops with the intention of occupying Antivari, Dubrigno and San Giovanni di Medun and advancing against Cetinje, according to a report published in Berlin.

The Strassburger Post asserts that the German emperor has received a telegram to the effect that the Austrians have already entered Montenegro.

This is premature, but little doubt is now felt that Austria is determined to act alone unless the ambassadorial conference at London decides on European action.

Rome, via Chiasso, Switzerland, April 28.—The Italian government has put a ban on all references to demonstrations in favor of Montenegro. Students in Rome recently displayed enthusiasm over the recent Montenegrin victory and addressed Queen Helena as the daughter of King Nicholas. This information was not permitted to be sent out of the country over the telegraph lines.

While most of the people by reason of sentiment, traditions and bonds of nationality applaud the Balkan success and condemn what they term "the overbearing action of Austria," the state because of pledges to the triple alliance is obliged to co-operate with the administration at Vienna. In this way the royal family, with its close connections with the Montenegrin sovereign, is placed in an embarrassing position, which has aroused popular sympathy.

The money received, the candy social held at Irvin Conklin's recently, was used to purchase a library for the Keesler school.

The superintendent of the Sunday school, E. P. Sebring, made an address welcoming them back to Gouldsboro, and expressing the belief and feeling of all that this conference year will be one of the most successful in the history, not only of the Sunday school but of the church; that the outlook is very bright. Mr. Robinson, to whom the affair was a complete surprise, responded in a feeling manner. The usual party diversions, singing, etc., caused the evening to pass quickly and pleasantly.

which are needed to round out life and make it of the finest type.

"The man who is or seems to be entirely devoid of spiritual nature needs to be converted. He has gotten like a lump of putty which has become dried and hard. He has allowed something to go from him that he needs in his make-up, just as the putty has gotten into a condition of uselessness because there has dried out of it something that it needs for its highest efficiency. Ask the psychologist what has happened to the life of such a man, and he will tell you. The explanation is something like this: On the hill-side, after a little channel has been engraved by the action of the water, it is there in the channel that the water which is draining off that hill will flow. And all the while the channel is being deepened, till it becomes the course of a rivulet, then of a brook, then of a river. Just so with the little acts and even thoughts of our childhood. That is why it makes so much difference what moral and spiritual education we give to our children. It would be very strange if thoughts and acts failed to become habitual. For whatever we think or do wears a tiny channel the first time in our brain, the second time deepens and widens the channel, until at last there is a wide furrow in the tissue of the brain. But the important point is this, that whether we are till shaping our characters or not, we may do so. And the importance of this lies in the fact that if our characters are not all that we should like them to be, we still have a chance to make them what they should be. For how, when it is desirable to deflect the course of the little stream on the mountainside, may this be accomplished? By simply digging another channel which shall take the water from the original channel. And in just this way can we grown men change the they are called in scientific language.

In closing Rev. Whittaker said: "If in the town which we love and wish to serve with our best powers there be not that finer spiritual atmosphere of loyalty to Jesus Christ and His lofty standards of thought and conduct, let us set to work to put into operation a new spirit. When a few men are determined upon the accomplishment of such a purpose, it does not often fail. It may take long, but at last that spirit will triumph."

PROMPTON GOING AHEAD.

Last Year It Was a New Railroad Station—This Year It Will be a Glass Cutting Shop.

Honesdale is not the only place in Wayne County that has reason to feel joyous and hopeful. There is Prompton, for instance. Last year the D. & H. R. R. Company presented that delightful little town with a spic-and-span new station, both for passenger and freight accommodation, and this year the town, through some of her influential citizens, is doing a little something on her own account.

The money has all been subscribed for the new glass cutting shop, and work on the structure has been commenced. The building will be 28x60 feet, and from ground to roof will be twenty-five feet. It is located on the foundation of the Moore excelsior works. The boiler house and the acid room will be on the outside of the main building.

As the charter has been granted and the building of the structure commenced, it will not be long now ere the enterprise will be running in full blast, and the residents of Prompton will feel warranted in trying to land some other industry that will add to that town's prosperity and growth.

At one time Prompton was a very thriving little borough. A large manufactory whose output was bedsteads was operated by George Hall & Son. The town supported three stores. The County Normal School was located there, and it was the stopping point for three or four gravity railroad train crews. As history repeats itself, the outlook for Prompton is most cheerful and encouraging.

BRAMAN HAS GONE WEST

Braman is now in the West again. He went sooner than he calculated on going because he sold out his stock of before he had half satisfied the demands of those who wanted such superior animals.

Indeed, such a quick sale of horses, and such a bulk of horse business, was never done in Wayne County before. It was a whirl-wind sale, a record breaker.

Braman Didn't Have to Talk to sell those horses. The stock was so excellent, just as pretty as a picture printed above. In fact,

The Horses Talked

for themselves, and that is all there was to it.

Now, you were possibly disappointed at not getting one of the lot that went so fast. Don't worry. Be patient. All you have to do is to wait just a little while; and, remember,

It Will Pay You to Wait for the horses that Braman will speedily bring from Iowa will be just as fine a lot as were ever bred, and trained, and sold under a Braman guarantee.

Watch this space for further particulars. But in any and all events,

Wait For Braman!
