U. S. WOULD RENEW TREATY.

Bryan Desires to Extend Arbitration With Great Britain.

Washington, May 12.—Renewal of the arbitration treaty between the United States and Great Britain, which expires by limitation on June 4, will be sought by the United States. Secretary of State Bryan said that he hoped to extend it.

The treaty is of the highest importance, as the British government has asked for the arbitration of the Panama canal tolls controversy unless the United States sees fit to withdraw the legislation favoring American ships using the canal.

Arbitration of disputes between the two governments arising out of the interpretation of treaties is provided for in the treaty.

COLDEST MAY DAY IN TWENTY-NINE YEARS.

The little boys out in Stonecliffe, Ontario, were constructing snowmen Sunday and the wind that blew from the direction of that frigid town was permeated with the frosty spirit of winter. There wasn't any snow hereabout, but it was nearly cold enough for it at 5 o'clock Sunday morning, when the mercury dropped to 28 degrees, thus beating all Weather Bureau records for all May days except one, and that was May 1, 1884.

The killings frost came, as predicted according to Foster's bulletin, to upper sections of the State, doubtless injuring the berry and vegetable crops. Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, northern Pennsylvania and Vermont had temperatures below freezing. About 11 o'clock Sunday night the mercury was at rung 40 of the thermometrical ladder and the wind was blowing twenty-two miles.

YOU FANS OUGHT TO BE PLAYING, NOT WATCHING.

Spectators at Baseball Games Get Too Emotional, Says Expert.

Witnessing professional baseball games tends to harmful excesses of emotion, says Dr. Dudley A. Sargent, Harvard university's world famous expert on matters of physical education. Expressing his views on that point, Dr. Sargent says: "The excitement attending ball games as they are played at present is harmful. Our baseball fans nowadays are devotees of a game in exactly the same sense as are those fascinated by watching a roulette game or other games of chance.

"Attendance at these games means that thousands of men and boys and even women become unduly excited over the athletic prowess of professional players. They leave the ball grounds with nerves tingling and spirits exalted if the game goes well, and the question is what outlet do those men and women find for their emotions thus aroused? I am tempted to leave the subject with an interrogation point.

"There is nothing wrong with a ball game as such any more than there is with a theatrical performance as such, but such games arouse emotion without furnishing a motor outlet. This would not be the case if the game were actually played instead of watched. We are overdoing one phase of the so called love of sport.

"There is nothing in this bothouse form of athleticism, and the less we have of it the better."

BABIES, DOGS AND BURGLARS.

Pastor's Cup of Tribulation Overflows. Oves Dogs Abject Apology.

The Rev. C. A. Beckett of the Neidrinhaus Memorial Methodist church, in Granite City, Ill., was preaching to a large congregation on a recent Sunday night. As if by agreement four lusty lunged babies brought interruptions to the sermon. The pastor frowned, paused, but finally passed into his "secondly" in competition with the babies. Just as the walls of the babies were nearly hushed by embarrassed mothers there burst through the windows the clamor of several yelping dogs.

"I can stand and have stood the crying of children," he said, "but I consider the yelping of these dogs the last straw. I am going outside to drive them away."

Then he strode from the pulpit. With such missiles as he could find in the churchyard the pastor routed the dogs. He returned to the pulpit and finished his sermon. There were no further interruptions, for the heretofore crying babies now slept in their mothers' arms.

After he had shaken hands with the last of his parishioners the Rev. Mr. Beckett entered the parsonage. He found the house topsy turvy. Four hundred dollars of church funds and the pastor's clothes were gone. The dogs the minister had driven away had been doing their level best to frighten off the burglars. Dr. Beckett has offered to apologize to the dogs.

TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION. The semi-annual meeting of the Wayne County Teachers' Association was held in Pleasant Mount last Friday evening and Saturday morning. Dr. George Beck, secretary of the State Board of Education, was present and gave a very interesting address upon the "State's Most Valuable Asset."

It is alleged on the part of those who are connected with the institution that a great many of the people who go there and procure employment look for sinecures, and in addition to this they look for high wages when they perform little work. They seem to have formed the opinion that because it is a state institution all they have to do is to demand more wages and their demands are granted.

This story does not seem to fit well in view of the fact that the girls who quit allege they did not receive more than eighteen dollars per month and their food. Any girl who can do house work can procure more than this amount and not work near as hard as they work at the hospital. Notwithstanding the fact that the girls were held down to rock bottom wages, it is claimed there are some of the employes at the hospital who do not sweat much for the money they receive, and it is also alleged that they are pretty well paid at that.

FARVIEW NOTES.

The governor has approved two bills relating to the Farview hospital for the criminal insane. The bills in question permit the Delaware and Hudson to locate a station on the plot and to run wires over the ground, concessions that were overlooked when the company made a gift of the tract to the state.

A correspondent says: Ten of the girls who went on strike at the Criminal Insane hospital at Farview last Saturday lost their positions, and they have been filled by other girls. When they decided to strike, the girls had a conference with the superintendent and informed him that they did not propose to work for the wages paid which are said to have been eighteen dollars and board. They were employed in the laundry and waiting on tables.

This is the second or third strike that has taken place since the institution was thrown open. Some time ago the guards struck, but after a conference with the superintendent returned to work. The girls who struck Saturday allege that they tried to have their differences settled before going out but failed.

HYMENEAL.

Gerken—Hocker.

Miss Christine Hocker and Mr. William Gerken were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Hocker, at Milanville, Wayne county, Pa., at four o'clock on Thursday afternoon, May 8th, where the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Rogers, of Cochection.

The house was attractively decorated with ferns and flowers; the color scheme throughout being pink and white.

The bride was attired in a gown of white lansdowne, embellished with allover lace. She carried a bouquet of white carnations. During the ceremony a melody from Rubenstein was rendered by the pianist, Miss Frederika C. Hocker, sister of the bride, who also played the wedding march from Lohengrin.

At the conclusion of the impressive ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Gerken received the congratulations of the company, after which a splendid wedding dinner was served.

To the bride was presented a large number of many beautiful and valuable gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Gerken left town on the Erie train at 6:47 p. m., for a short wedding journey. On their return, they will make their home in Milanville.
