

Y. W. C. A. GETS FUND

Women In Whirlwind Finish Raise $501,745.

GIFTS GIVEN AT LAST HOUR.

Rodman Wanamaker, Through His Father, John Wanamaker, Gave $10,000, the Last Subscription. Anonymous Donor Also Gives $10,000.

Philadelphia, May 12.—A half million dollars, the goal of a twenty-five days' campaign for women for women, was reached by workers for the Young Women's Christian association in a whirlwind finish to one of the most remarkable organized efforts to raise funds ever held in this city.

A group of large subscriptions, reported at the last minutes of the campaign, made possible the completion of the fund. John Wanamaker and William R. Nicholson, vice president of the Land Title and Trust company, announced that they would be responsible for $25,000, an amount for which partial promises had been obtained.

Rodman Wanamaker, through his father, John Wanamaker, gave $10,000, the last subscription. Another gift of $10,000 was announced from an anonymous donor. Colonel James Elverson earlier in the day subscribed $25,000.

The impetus given to the fund by these large gifts carried the total to $501,745, beyond the mark set for the end of the campaign.

When the total was announced the band of workers, who remained at headquarters waiting for the last word, prayed, sang hymns, cheered and applauded in turn.

ROAD BAD, SLAYER ESCAPES.

Beaver Prosecutor Says He Couldn't Catch Murderer In Auto.

Beaver, Pa., May 12.—Following a complaint made by District Attorney Louis E. Graham that the roads in Ohio township are so bad that he and the county detective in an automobile could not catch a fleeing murderer, Judge Richard S. Holt made an order ousting from office George B. Dawson, H. R. Dawson and John T. Derringer, road supervisors.

Answering a call from Midland, where it was said a woman had been killed by a foreigner, the district attorney and the county detective left Beaver in a hurry in a big machine. Halfway between here and their destination, which is nine miles away, they got stuck in the mud and were held up for three hours. Almost twelve hours were required to get over a piece of road two miles in length. Meantime the alleged murderer had made his escape into Ohio.

Mr. Dolan was born in Philadelphia sixty-one years ago and made his home in that city for a number of years, being engaged in the hotel business. He later traveled extensively, visiting nearly every country of the world.

$100,000 FOR TARIFF DATA.

President Wilson Favors Proposal to Protect Underwood Measure.

Washington, May 12.—With an appropriation of $100,000, William C. Redfield, secretary of commerce, purposes to obtain data to protect the new tariff law. Mr. Redfield's request for an appropriation was accompanied by a letter from President Wilson, in which the step was approved. General sentiment among representatives here is favorable to the proposal.

Investigations then will be begun by the bureau of domestic and foreign commerce of the department of commerce into corporations affected by the tariff measures, to halt, if possible, wage reductions or suspension of work that might put the measure in a bad light before the laboring classes.

Officials of the bureau of corporations said that they had little data that would be beneficial to the investigators. They said the information they had procured was in special cases, such as that pertaining to the steel, beef, tobacco and a few other industries, but that even that was from an "anti-trust" and not a tariff standpoint.

Most of this data was obtained confidentially, promises having been made to corporations that the secrets would not be revealed for the use of competitors. Statistics compiled have for the most part been on general averages. In several cases, however, individual operations have been cited, but names have been hidden behind numerals and letters.

Authority for the $100,000 estimate for the work was cited as contained in the act of Aug. 23, 1912, which empowers the bureau of domestic and foreign commerce to conduct investigations of corporations as regards wages, working hours, sanitation, ages and general conditions of employees, wholesale and retail markets and other matters affecting each particular industry.

Under the Wilson policy all these facts will be compiled at home and abroad. Then, if it is clear that manufacturers and dealers are not earning enough to keep their factories going and to keep up wages, recommendations for a larger rate of duty will be made and the bill remitted. On the other hand, if the rate is too high and the manufacturers are found to be making an unreasonable profit there will be reductions.

ROME GRAFTERS HARD HIT.

All Attempts to Hush Up Building Scandal of No Avail.

Rome, May 12.—The debate over the charges of grafting in the matter of building the new palace of justice was continued in the chamber of deputies, but was finally adjourned for two weeks.

Repeated attempts to save the deputies who are incriminated in the grafting, by which the cost of the building was boosted from $4,000,000 to $12,000,000, have failed and all efforts to hush up the scandal have been unsuccessful. Inasmuch as the members of the investigating committee are not above suspicion, the only possible solution was to leave the matter in abeyance until the publication of the secret documents on which the committee's report will be based.

SAW MAN'S SOUL PASS FROM BODY, SHE SAYS.

Issued From Lips Like Butterfly's Wings, Declares Mrs. Baldwin. Montclair, N. J.—Mrs. David H. Baldwin, of 74 Christopher street made public an experience she had on April 10 and which, she firmly believes, afforded her a view of a soul as it took passage from the body of a dying person to the unknown beyond.

It was the death of Mrs. Baldwin's father-in-law, Nathaniel H. Baldwin, 96 years old, that provided her with what she thinks was a supernatural vision. Mr. Baldwin died at the home of his son after a short illness of acute indigestion. He was one of the best known men in Essex county, having been born in Bloomfield, where he was engaged in business as a building contractor for many years before he retired on account of his advanced age. He was a man of the highest integrity, and toward the close his life took on a saintly character that increased the respect that all held for him.

Mr. Baldwin's illness did not occasion alarm to the members of the household. In spite of his great age he was always in good health. Therefore on the morning that he passed away Mrs. Baldwin was unexcited by his condition and did not consider that there was danger of his death.

She was in a room next to the chamber of the sick nonagenarian. She heard a noise and hurried to the patient's bedside. The aged man appeared to be in distress, and Mrs. Baldwin, entirely unalarmed, asked if she could render him any assistance. As she looked at the sick man, who did not answer, his eyes closed and he gave a gentle sigh.

Then there issued, she says, from between the lives of the man prostrate on the bed a distinct and well defined shape. The form of this emanation was that of two large wings, each about a foot in length. Mrs. Baldwin says the wings had the form of those of a butterfly and seemed unattached to any other part. Involuntarily, Mrs. Baldwin says, she reached out to grasp the strange apparition, which rose toward the ceiling of the room. As she did so, however, she turned to look at Mr. Baldwin, and when she looked for the apparition again it had vanished.

Mrs. Baldwin was much impressed by the sight that she had witnessed and to her relatives she confided her belief that she was certain that she had seen the soul of her aged father-in-law take flight from its earthly shell.—New York Sun.

THE FARMER'S BEST MONEY MAKER—SUMMER BOARDERS.

A close examination of our accounts at the end of last year showed that of all lines carried out on our farm, boarders gave the greatest profit. Many people object to boarders, thinking that they are a nuisance, but we have found they are, as a rule, quite the contrary. Generally they are out on a vacation and are determined to have a good time. Should a long season of rainy weather keep them from the water or their favorite pastime, they are quite as ready to enjoy the house, music, books, papers or games. We have made some pleasant friendships among our boarders, and have entertained them for a few days in the winter or during the gunning season.

Many of our eastern sections are very favorably located for this purpose, and many farm women might find it to their advantage to try boarders for a season. Our farm seems naturally a suitable location, as we are high, have woods and water near, and shady yards, so rest or recreation can be found as desired. Boarders are, as a rule, city people, and enjoy the fresh products of the farm, and so we depend chiefly on our poultry, fresh fish, country-cured hams and bacon, eggs, fresh fruits and vegetables to supply the table. Care must be exercised that foods be wholesome, well cooked, pleasing to the eye and the house kept in a sanitary condition. But do we not do these things for our own family? Then why object to a few tired mortals sharing it with us, especially when they are willing to pay for it?

We can not accommodate crowds, and believe it is better to have a few properly looked after than many crowded in, just for the sake of taking them. We do not have people of wealth, but a refined class of professional men with their families. We enjoy the company and the association of these people of different professions and different views. When undesirable guests creep in,

MURRAY CO.

Everything for the Farm. Honesdale, Pa.

They can be tactfully gotten rid of. Occasionally in the spring or fall a patient recovering from an operation is sent us, or someone suffering from a nervous disorder. It has been suggested that we turn our house into a country home for convalescent persons, but the servant question has made this impractical in our case.

One other profit that we derive from boarders is that we often sell them farm products, either to take home with them or they order occasionally a ham, a can of lard, or something that has struck their fancy. We seldom take week-end guests, as we are a little far from railroads, but now and then a man wishing this time with his family, who is already with us, or some prospective guest wishing to view the place, are made exceptions.—J. M. Anderson, Delaware, in Pennsylvania Farmer.

$100 REWARD, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

MICA USED FOR DECORATION.

Large quantities of scrap mica—small sheets and the waste from the manufacture of sheet mica—are ground for different uses, among which are the decoration of wall paper and the manufacture of lubricants, fancy paints, and molded mica for electrical insulation, according to the United States Geological Survey. Ground mica applied to wall paper gives a silvery luster. When mixed with grease or oils finely ground mica forms an excellent lubricant for axles and other bearings. Mixed with shellac or special compositions, ground mica is molded into desired forms and is used in insulators for trolley wires. Ground mica for electrical insulation must be free from metallic minerals. Mica used for lubrication should be free from gritty matter. For wall paper and brocade paints a ground mica with a high luster is required, and such luster is best obtained by using a clean, light-colored mica and grinding it under water. Coarsely ground or "bran" mica is used in increasing quantities to coat the surface of composition roofing material to prevent the tar or other ingredients used in its manufacture from sticking when the sheets are rolled for shipping.
