

Down Hawley Way

"Fisherman's Luck" as Experienced by Baschon, Deitzer, Eck and Moulton—Work Started on the New County Bridge—The Catholic Cemetery to be Enlarged—Saw Mill to be Re-Built at Hoadleys—Hawley Minister Receives an Appointment of Honor—Personal Mention, Etc.

With overcoats, and fishing rods, and well stocked cans of bait, and with "grub" a-plenty close at hand, for hungry folks won't wait.

THE ghost of Walton, the old-time English poet and fisherman who didn't know any better than to spell his front name "I-z-a-a-k," must have been hovering over Hawley in the early part of this week, for on Monday his disciples, or at least four of them, were abroad in quest of Fish and Fun.

When the wind is in the south it blows the bait in the fish's mouth. Bright and early they were "on the job" well supplied with necessary bait, grub and patience.

The fourth fisherman was W. C. Moulton, who cast his lines nearer home in the waters of the chattering Wangum. In his basket were 14 handsome fellows, just as fine specimens as the Indians ever took from its foaming current more than a century ago.

While on this subject it seems well to introduce another matter right on the line of fish and fishing, especially on the line, (or string, if you like the word better), of trout fishing. Mr. Baschon said that as under the law all trout under six inches long must be returned to the stream, the result of the day's sport was disastrous to the fish. Trout under six inches long don't know anything about the fish and game laws, and they are just as hungry as their larger brothers and sisters.

At Work on the New County Bridge.

Across Main street on both entrances of the Middle Creek bridge wire fences have been stretched as taut as the head to a big bass drum, and right in the centre of each fence is a big red banner, the signal of danger, as well as the banner of the Socialistic party.

Wedding Bells Will Soon be Sounding.

On Sunday last in St. Philomena's R. C. church the banners of marriage between Miss Elizabeth Caprio, of Hawley, and Mr. Charles Toubill, of Pittston, were published for the first time.

While Lozier is Here He is a Hawleyite.

When C. C. Lozier and his force of workmen go to Prompton they will be Promptonians; but while they resumed. Workmen are busily engaged taking down the old bridge, and as they remove bolts, nuts, and heavy braces and stringer pieces, the onlooker is impressed with the truth of the good old theory of "every man to his trade." Great Scott! How terribly some of us would get our fingers pinched if we should tackle a job like that.

W. J. Cobb's Saw Mill To be Re-Built.

W. J. Cobb, who for the past ten years has been doing extensive lumbering for the Pennsylvania Coal Co., with mills at various points in the vicinity of Hawley, has a force of men at work rebuilding the saw mill at Hoadleys that was destroyed by fire one night last fall.

Hawley Catholic Cemetery To be Enlarged.

On last Sunday evening members of the congregation of St. Philomena's R. C. church held an important meeting for the purpose of considering options on a new cemetery, as the congested condition of the old cemetery, which has been used for the past sixty years, demanded instant action.

Hawley Minister Receives An Honorary Appointment.

Rev. Donald MacKellar, of the M. E. church, has been appointed Grand Chaplain of the Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of Pennsylvania. And thus the little, bustling town under the hills continues to receive honors.

Hawley Coal Company Building New Chutes.

The Hawley Coal Company is improving their plant by building new chutes for the purpose of storing coal. A force of about 25 men is employed at this work, and they are expected to accomplish the task in double-quick time.

Hawley Personalities of a Miscellaneous Nature.

County Commissioner John Male, of Honesdale, was in Hawley on Tuesday, visiting his brother Isaac, who is now recovering from his recent serious illness, and incidentally to keep an eye on the dismantling of the Main Street bridge.

Miss Anna White to Spend Summer Abroad.

Miss Anna C. White, daughter of Mr. Fred C. White, of the Hawley Glass company, left Hawley on Wednesday for a tour abroad.

Mr. Bebbler is Going Back to "Bucktown."

After spending some little time in Wayne county as an engineer for the Paupack Company, whose operations in preparing for the big lake have become locally famous, Mr. Bebbler will next Sunday return to his home in Dunmore where he will resume his previous occupation as an engineer on the Erie railroad.

Rev. C. O. Fuller, of the Baptist Church, is in Oneonta, N. Y., enjoying a two weeks' visit.

MORE ABOUT THOSE HAWLEY SAMPLE PAPERS.

With this number we complete 3 weeks of the four that we began putting sample copies of THE CITIZEN in every residence and business place in Hawley. We made no canvas after advertisements for those weeks of sampling; but several progressive establishments knew a good thing when they saw it, and took advantage of the opportunity to talk to ALL of the people of this town.

main in Hawley we claim 'em, yes, we do, and they are Hawleyites, sure thing! But they will remove to that town one of these days, for work on the new shop up there is progressing quite rapidly, the foundation being about one-half done.

St. Philomena's Choir Give An Operatic Rehearsal.

St. Philomena's Choir and Sunday school teachers are getting very much in earnest over their forthcoming opera. An entertainment and rehearsal was held at Bowers' hall recently.

Two Dignitaries of Famous Paupack River.

You never would suspect that Fred Schalm had a bungalow up on the Paupack river if you were only to observe his modest demeanor as he pursues his vocation at his custom tailor shop on River street.

The other dignitary is Lewis Geisler, who has a motor boat on the famous old river and he is known as "Captain." When the "King," the "Captain," and the "Colonel" from Scranton cluster in that section of old Wayne it makes some of the rest of we common people rather hanker after dignity and a title.

Miss Anna White to Spend Summer Abroad.

Miss Anna C. White, daughter of Mr. Fred C. White, of the Hawley Glass company, left Hawley on Wednesday for a tour abroad. She will be gone all of the Summer, and, leaving as she does in the midst of a cold and inhospitable May she will more assuredly welcome the sunny skies of old England, Bonnie France and glorious Spain as in turn she visits those countries.

Hawley Personalities of a Miscellaneous Nature.

County Commissioner John Male, of Honesdale, was in Hawley on Tuesday, visiting his brother Isaac, who is now recovering from his recent serious illness, and incidentally to keep an eye on the dismantling of the Main Street bridge.

Mrs. Helen M. Cooke went to New York city on Tuesday morning to make a brief stay. She will be back for Memorial Day exercises.

The Memorial service in the Presbyterian church last Sunday night was well attended, and the Presbyterian minister preached a very timely and forceful sermon, which was much appreciated by all who heard it.

Rev. C. O. Fuller, of the Baptist church, is in Oneonta, N. Y., enjoying a two weeks' visit.

CARNEY'S Grocery & Candy Store Main Avenue

There is only one first class line of candies at 10 and 20 cents a pound—The Red Band line. And Michael Carney's is the only place in town where you can get them.

W. J. McIntyre, of Honesdale, was a business caller in Hawley on Tuesday.

T. F. Mangan, the River street merchant, spent last Sunday with relatives and friends in Pittston.

Miss Margaret Kinney, of St. Joseph, Susquehanna county, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. T. F. Mangan, of River street.

J. B. Littlejohn made a trip to Harrisburg last week. He left on Wednesday and returned on Saturday. On the way he made brief calls on Scranton friends.

Miss Anna Bohan, of Church street, returned to her home in Hawley after spending three weeks in Plains, Scranton and Dunmore.

Miss Brown, of Port Jervis, N. Y., after a short visit with Miss Emily Spring, of Wangum avenue, returned to her home on Sunday last.

T. J. Hames and his wreckers were called to Norwood, formerly Kirby's siding, near Hoadleys, on Sunday morning last to re-rail a derailed car of Conductor W. Clifford's train.

The wreck was cleared without delaying traffic as the long siding was used for main track movement. The wreck was but a short distance from where John Cronn was killed exactly one week previously.

Miss Elizabeth Caprio, of River street, returned to her home last Friday after visiting friends in Scranton.

The following Hawleyites attended the Heptasoph's ball at White Mills last Saturday evening: William and Leo McNamara, John Bohan, Richard Drake, Alfred Wallace, Geo. Hittenger, Michael Zensen, Fred Everdeen, John Calmus and Joseph Brower; also Misses Clara Bryan, Christiana Everdeen, Lena Seiler and Laura Bennett.

Mrs. James Curran and her daughter, Mary, of Chestnut avenue, were visiting friends in Scranton on Friday and Saturday of last week.

Frank House, of Dunmore, visited his father in East Hawley on Sunday last.

The story published in this department last week about the discontented king and the contented man without a shirt to wear attracted considerable attention in Hawley. Like (Continued on Page Five.)
