WHAT THE WITTY ONES SAY

TWO farmers met in a western town a day or two after a cyclone had visited that particular neighborhood.

"She shook things up pretty bad out at my place," said one, stroking his whiskers meditatively. "By the way, HI," he added, "that new barn o' yours get hurt any?"

"Waal," drawled the other, "I dunno. I hain't found it yet."

No Bubbles in Hers.
Little Elsie, given her first glass of mineral water, made a very wry face over it.

"It tastes that way, dear, because it's charged," said her mother.

"I guess, mamma," said Elsie, pushing it aside, "I'll just have some of the kind you've paid for."

Having an Understanding.
She—When we are married, dear, will you expect me to bake my own bread?

He—I'll leave that with you, darling, only I shall insist on your not baking mine.

The Outlook if Women Rule.
Mr. Meekley—Then you would have the word "obey" omitted from the marriage service?

Miss Strongminded—Not at all; merely transferred so that the man will say it.

None There to Read.
"I feel afraid of that woman. They say she is a mind reader."

"Well, she won't bother you."

Can You Beat It?
Housekeeper—Why do you charge so much for your ice?

Ice-man—Well, mum, the water was high where we cut it.

POINTS OF ETIQUETTE

Small habits and mannerisms betoken good or bad breeding.

It is hard to cure oneself of everyday mannerisms, but it can be done if you keep at it perseveringly.

Take, for instance, the habit of yawning in public without making any attempt to conceal your widely opened mouth. No man or woman who has any claim to good breeding would think of doing such a thing. Not only is it extremely unbecoming to stretch your mouth from ear to ear, but it is not a pleasant sight for other people.

Of course you can't keep from yawning, but you can place your hand over your mouth when you do yawn.

Another rude and exceedingly aggravating habit is that of interrupting conversation, taking the words out of people's mouths and carrying on the story yourself. Wait until the other person is finished and then have your say.

Don't talk at the top of your voice about your own private concerns when in public. The public is not interested and prefers to read its newspaper in peace.

It's no use saying that you can't cure a habit like any of the small ones mentioned. You can if you exercise your will power. It won't take long. Just keep it continually on your mind, and never give way to it. After awhile you will forget all about it.

THE VANITY BOX

In some cases very tender and easily chapped skin will yield to the treatment of glycerin applied immediately after washing when the skin is moist. Do not apply it to a dry skin. Rub thoroughly into the skin and then rub with a little good cold cream.

Soaking thin hands in warm olive oil for half an hour every day will fatten them. Always bathe the hands in warm water before using any improver, so as to open up the pores. After an oil soak wipe dry and use prepared chalk as a powder until obliged to wash them free from oil.

To protect the skin from the hot summer winds rub a little cold cream on the face and dust on pure rice powder when obliged to be out in the wind. Afterward wash off with warm water, followed by a cold rinsing. A chiffon veil worn through the windy season will save the skin from tan and roughness.

For falling hair shampoo the head with green liquid soap and plenty of hot water; then apply every day for a month this tonic and shampoo once a week with soap and water until the month is up. Constant use of green soap will make the hair too dry.

Tonic—Tincture cantharides alcoholic, four drams; tincture capsicum, one dram; tincture nux vomica, four drams; cocoa oil, one and a half ounces; eau de cologne, five ounces.

SUMMER FISH HINTS.

You can select a fish lying on ice on the marble slab, apply the ordinary tests of "bright eyes and red gills," take it home and find it is beginning to "turn." Twenty minutes is sufficient.

It is more dangerous to eat tainted fish than anything else, and the use of sauces, dressings and various condiments often hides, too successfully, the taste which would betray its condition. If you are at all suspicious place in the water in which the fish is to be boiled two or three pieces of charcoal, egg size. This will make the fish turn out perfectly fresh and wholesome.

There are two simple ways of keeping fish sweet. One is to hang it up in a muslin bag soaked in vinegar, the other to lay it in water and cover with small pieces of charcoal.

Fritters, fish or anything can be fried in the same fat without any of the different tastes being transmitted if the fat is in each case boiling.

Considering the entire earth, about one person in a hundred lives to be sixty-five years of age.

If the earth were to revolve seventeen times faster than it does bodies at the equator would lose their weight and remain stationary in the air without support.

The Home Beautiful The Dining Room In Summer

THIS simple dining room furnishing gives a cool and roomy aspect to the summer dining room. The wall treatment is suitable for a low celled room, the dark green burlap, which ends at the line of the picture molding, being carried just to the height of the door. Above that the wall is finished like the ceiling in plain white. The simple yet massive furniture is of dark oak. The sideboard has handles in an old silver effect, and the furniture is upholstered in dark leather. A quaint flower stand is filled with flowering plants. On the dining table a handsome silver vessel for fruit stands just beneath the handsome chandelier, whose cuplike reflector serves to throw the light on the center of the table. The portiere, of a thin, soft fabric in one of the new cubist patterns, is in tones of dark green and red.

IN FASHION'S MAZE.

Plain materials are used for points on blouses.

The summer evening gown is colorful.

White gloves stitched with red are very smart.

Figured lawn is combined with plain blue lawn.

Hatpins with extremely small heads are displayed.

The wired lace ruff suggesting the medici collar is new.

Sleeves of fine soft material show a decided fullness.

Coat suits are made of chamouis colored ratine.

The contrasting skirt and coat continue to hold sway.

On many pretty garden hats appear frills of plaited tulle.

An Old Favorite
Summer Rain

OGENTLE, gentle summer rain, Let not the silver lily pine— The drooping lily pine in vain To feel that dewy touch of thine— To drink thy freshness once again, O gentle, gentle summer rain!

In heat the landscape quivering lies; The cattle pant beneath the trees; Through parching air and purple skies The earth looks up in vain for thee— For thee, for thee, it looks in vain, O gentle, gentle summer rain!

Come, thou and brim the meadow streams And soften all the hills with mist. O falling dew, from burning dreams By thee shall herb and flower be kissed, And earth shall bless thee yet again, O gentle, gentle summer rain!

—William Cox Bennett.

THE CHILDREN'S CORNER

A New Arrival.
The Gopher—I can't get the snow off you.
The Guinea Fowl—Those are the polka dots on my plumage.

Baby Alligators.
Baby alligators and crocodiles as soon as hatched are taken by the mother to some out of the way pond, where by degrees they are introduced to the water that is to be their future home, and when three or four weeks old they are often seen riding upon the back of the mother, her rough hide frequently being completely hidden by them.

1 Point.
It is necessary in this game for the one acting as guesser to have a confederate. He is then able to leave the room and on his return to mention what person was pointed at during his absence. It is done in this way: It is agreed between the guesser and his partner that whoever speaks last before the door is closed upon the guesser shall be the person pointed at. It is very seldom that any one discovers this trick.

Riddles.
When is coffee like the earth? When it is ground.
What grows less tired the more it is worked? A carriage wheel.
When may a man be said to breakfast before he gets up? When he takes a roll in bed.

Who Knows?
"Oh, sonny, get my slippers, please!" My papa calls to me
When he is tired and wants to rest
And we have just had tea.

I like to do what he requests,
But don't I dread to go
All in the dark alone upstairs!
And don't I go up slow!

I grasp the slippers, and I turn.
Just three steps bring me to
The banisters. I seize the rail,
And don't I shoot down! Whew!

"Don't be afraid, son," papa says.
"The dark has not hurt you."
Of course it hasn't, but who knows
When it is going to?
