

Down Hawley Way

The Camp-Fire Girls Have a Fine Time at Fairview Lake, "Getting" a Rattle-snake—How Marble Hill Received Its Name—Death of Eugene McNamara—Personal Mention, &c.

On Fairview's beach they built a camp. And lit their magic fire; Its glare flashed softly 'cross the waves.

The Camp-Fire Girls did stunts galore. They learned to swim and dive. They also found a rattle snake, Which was killed by a young man, although Mrs. Cooke would like to have seen the varmint while it was yet alive.

The Camp Fire Girls Do Great Stunts at Fairview Lake. LAKE Paupack, Big Pond, Jones' Lake, Lake Fairview, Lake Arthur. If any one else gave it a name not mentioned here, they will please forgive the omission.

Two girls did the camp work each day, and never was food better cooked, served with more merriment and laughter, and as all but three found the Pepper, it was well seasoned.

They rowed, they fished, they tramped, swam, and believe me some of them could swim before the end of the week, and they won many of the beads of honor for which every Camp Fire Girl ever is working.

Two of them missed the way to the farm where the milk was purchased, and found themselves in Hawley, but as that is only a stroll to these athletic girls, they got back before any one had time to worry over their absence.

One of the Blue Birds had a birthday which they helped to properly celebrate, and enjoyed with her delicious refreshments which her mother had prepared for them. They will long remember the day Julia Ames was eleven.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Creasy came to spend some time at the Ames cottage, and the presence of their loved teacher-friends added materially to the enjoyment of the girls.

On Friday night they had their Ceremonial meeting, and as guests they had Mr. and Mrs. Creasy, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Ames, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Welsh, Mrs. W. F. Suydam, of Hawley, and Mesdames Durland and Whitney, of Honesdale. Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Decker, with Miss Elizabeth Male came up in their car in time to enjoy the meeting.

The Woodgathers went to the woods and brought in the twigs and sticks which the Fire Makers built up ready for the Guardian to light. The flames lighted up a scene of beauty; the girls seated on the ground dressed in their handsome costumes, and the guests occupying hammocks and chairs at one side.

The closing song was sung softly, just as only the glowing embers were left of the fire, and after a social chat, the guests took the trails leading to their own camps, carrying with them one more picture to hang in Memory's Hall.

On Monday the girls returned to town, unburned but happy, reluctant only to leave the lake. Some of the campers out there are still wondering whether their password was Wohelo, or Hesmiane.

Once more the writer wants to emphasize the importance of the work that Mrs. Helen M. Cooke, the Guardian of the Camp-Fire Girls, is doing for those under her care. Drowning accidents are chronicled in the newspapers daily. She took those girls out to Fairview, learned how to swim herself, then taught nearly all of those in her charge to swim, also to dive, some of them being able to dive to a depth of 8 feet and bring up a dils from the bottom. Surely that is worth while.

It is really too bad that more work of the kind Mrs. Cooke is doing is not being done in other Wayne county towns. The girls under her charge will become intelligent, resourceful women, fully competent to fight the great battle of life along right lines with every prospect of winning success at every angle of the great fight.

Some People Who Enjoy Life at Fairview Lake. Mr. and Mrs. Suydam are enjoying their cottage, with guests from Honesdale. Mr. and Mrs. Homer Ames are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Creasy. Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Welsh have guests, among them Miss Orra Rollison. The Rodman cottage is filled with a merry crowd of Hawley girls. The Avery cottage, Knapp's, Crossley's, Murray's, Branning's and Decker's are occupied, and it rather looks as though the season at Fairview Lake would be a merry one.

To Philadelphia and Return By Automobile. Mr. and Mrs. George Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. William Watts motored to Philadelphia last Sunday, returning on Monday night. They made the round trip without a puncture, something unusual in such severely hot weather. Mr. Watts brought back a new motor for his brother. He has also recently placed machines for James Harrison and Dord Hopps.

While in Philadelphia Mr. Watts says that at the garage where he left his car there were 72 other cars, all enroute to Gettysburg.

A Carload of Youngsters From Brooklyn at Fairview. On Monday a carload of youngsters from Brooklyn reached Fairview lake where the Y. M. C. A. of that city has pitched a splendid camp. The boys are arranging for base ball and other sports on July Fourth.

A Patriotic Wedding Attended by Hawley People. Hawley people are interested in Blanche Westbrook, of Blooming Grove, because she taught in the high school and everybody liked her as a teacher. Now that she was married to a young Baptist clergyman on Thursday of this week, at high noon, their interest is still unabated. The wedding took place in her home. Among those from Hawley in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. Homer G. Ames, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Wall, Miss Elizabeth Gregg, Miss Edith Freed, Miss Underhill, Annie Lawler, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Atkinson, Mr. Fetter and Mr. and Mrs. Mark Creasy.

Base Ball Dope From And About Hawley. Last Saturday the Hawley team defeated a picked team from Scranton, the score being 4 to 3. The same teams crossed bats on Sunday and Hawley was again the winner, the score being 6 to 3. During the progress of Sunday's game Catcher Burrows sprained one of his ankles while trying to get a runner out at the home plate. Dr. Lobb was there with his auto and took the injured player to his office where the sprain was given surgical attention.

On Saturday the Hawley team will play the Jermyn county league team, said to be exceptionally strong. The game on Sunday next will be between Hawley and the County League team from Dunmore. This League team is also reputed to be very strong.

A Hawley Clerk Becomes A Travelling Salesman. Charles Marshall after clerking for nine years for Fred Swingle has resigned his position to accept a position with the Rothchilds Bros., of New York, as a travelling salesman. That Charles will make good in his new position is the earnest wish of his many Hawley friends.

How Marble Hill Received Its Name. Marble Hill is a section of Hawley lying to the extreme west of the town. Years ago it was called "Shanty Hill," and boys from the country were afraid of that part of Hawley, for in it lived "boat boys" and other awful creatures.

The time will come, and that quite speedily, when "Shanty Hill," now called Marble Hill, will be the choice residential part of Hawley. It lies just high enough to be free from the smokes and smells of the railroad, indeed, the prevailing winds waft all those things over and across the business section.

But how "Shanty Hill" was changed to Marble Hill will be a matter of interest to the people of the town in general; and by publishing the story now we may thus head off future controversy and prevent the local historians from going astray in the story of the town will be in demand and accuracy will be decidedly essential.

One of the conclusions naturally to be arrived at is that the name "Marble" had its origin from the fact that Hawley was at one time a blue stone town, and the name was suggested by association or analogy. Such, however, is not the case.

Father Judge, a priest of St. Philomena's Catholic church preceding Father Winters about 16 years ago named the town. There was to be a big picnic, and the good women of the congregation were to do some baking. Father Judge suggested that a cake contest would be held by the women of Shanty Hill. "Bake marble cakes," said the priest, "and not only will the championship be awarded to the one who bakes the best marble cake, but I will christen that part of Hawley as Marble Hill instead of Shanty Hill."

And so the women heated up their old out-of-doors brick ovens and baked; and true to his promise Father Judge christened the section Marble Hill. The people took kindly to the name. Marble Hill it is to this day, and Marble Hill it will be in the years to come.

And it is said that for a superior quality of Marble Cake, the kind that will make every atom of your hungry nature call for "more," there is no place in Wayne county that can compare to Marble Hill and its famous bakers of to-day, for it is said the skill of the bakers of that famous cake contest is handed down from mother to daughter.

Brief Hawley Stories and A Bunch of Personal News. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Rouse left Hawley on Saturday last, June 28, for an extended trip to Buffalo, Jamestown, N. Y., Warren, Pa., and Lake Chautauqua. At the latter place Mr. Rouse's father has a summer cottage. The Rouses expect to be absent from Hawley about a month.

About six weeks ago Eugene McNamara was removed from Hawley to Scranton for surgical treatment. It was found necessary to take him to the Hillside Home at which institution he died on Wednesday. His body will be brought to Hawley for interment.

Eugene McNamara was about 35 years of age. He is survived by his widow; by his mother and two sisters who live in Buffalo, N. Y.; by his brother Edward, who lives in Hawley, and by a half-sister. It is expected that the funeral will be held on Friday, July 4th.

Council Holds a Special Meeting on the Bridge Subject. A special meeting of the borough council was held on Tuesday night at which a report was received from Ed. Watson who announced that his contract to build the new cement bridge was completed. Considerable work on the bridge's approaches remains to be done and the borough Secretary was instructed to communicate with the County Commissioners so that they may employ Mr. Watson, or somebody else, to do the proper filling at once so the bridge may be used freely by teamsters and pedestrians.

HOLLISTERVILLE. Hollisterville, July 2.—This section of the country is very much in need of rain. The hay crop will be short on account of it. Children's Day services will be held in the M. E. church on Sunday evening, July 6th. The Baptist church will hold an ice cream social on the evening of July 4th.

The church fair held recently by the Ladies' Aid society of the M. P. church turned out to be a grand success. A neat sum was realized. Mrs. D. U. Brown is improving. Her many friends are looking for her speedy recovery.

The eagle doesn't scream on the Fourth of July like it used to. There isn't a celebration scheduled for miles and we wonder if all our patriotism fizzled out on Memorial Day.

A. B. Williams, and we do not know how many more, has left for Gettysburg. Mr. and Mrs. Royal Cross came up from Newark, N. J., on the 29th and are now guests at Mrs. Cross' parents.

Over one hundred were out to Sunday school on Sunday last and Rev. J. H. Tutill kindly reviewed the past quarter. Next Sunday he will give us a "doctrinal" sermon, whatever that may be, and we hope no one will get hurt. We are not very strong on creeds and care but little what church, if any, a man is a member of if he only is a sincere, earnest, conscientious Christian. We think we have too many creeds and too few Christians.
