

LAMAR, GRILLED, DEFENDS HIS ACTS

Sought to Save Friend Lauterbach, He Says.

AN INTERESTING WITNESS

"I Am the One Villain in Wall Street," He Declares Bitterly—"All the Rest Are Actuated by the Highest Motives."

Washington, July 9.—The senate committee investigating the Washington lobby scandals again heard David Lamar, "the wolf of Wall street." Lamar had requested a further hearing to prove that neither Mr. Lauterbach nor himself had engaged together to get money from J. P. Morgan & Co. or other interests.

"I'll tell you what my motive was," said Lamar, discussing the reason for his association with Lauterbach. "It was either to force these men to recognize the injustice of their attitude toward Lauterbach and myself or force them to come out into the open with the charges of blackmail they had circulated in New York for years against both of us. Ledyard and his associates had ruined many men, and I was determined they should not ruin me." Lamar said he knew Lewis Cass Ledyard was trying to "trip him" when he began telephoning in the name of Representative Palmer and then determined to "fix a game on Ledyard to force the financial interests into the open."

Corroborates Lauterbach. Lamar's choice of adjectives in speaking of various Wall street men led senators to interrupt his statement frequently. Whenever the committee disapproved of something he said Lamar immediately agreed with the objector, to the great amusement of the audience.

The committee finally decided to hold Lamar strictly to answering questions. He testified he had told Lauterbach that Senator Stone had authorized him to make certain representations to the Morgan firm and had told Lauterbach that Senator Stone said he represented Speaker Clark.

Lauterbach had testified that all his information about Senator Stone and Speaker Clark had come from Lamar.

Under a sharp fire of questions Lamar insisted that his only object was to bring about "just such a situation as this investigation."

"I am the one villain in Wall street," said Lamar bitterly. "All the rest are actuated by the highest motives and possess the highest ideals."

Lamar declared the whole thing was "a major Wall street operation traveling on parallel lines" and insisted he was "after Ledyard, Cravath, Everts, Lovett and the Morgan steel trust, Union Pacific and other interests" and wanted to force them to an open attack. "It was a favorite method of mine for producing an explosion when I wanted one," he added.

His Basis For Charges. Lamar testified that his charges of an $82,000,000 forgery on the Union Pacific books, which was emphatically denied by lawyers for the company at the time he made them, were founded on statistics from a "manual" and Thomas Gibson, a New York financial writer. He had discussed with Lauterbach making the charges public before the lobby committee.

The witness testified also of impersonating Mr. McCombs, chairman of the Democratic national committee, and Mr. Hillis, chairman of the Republican national committee.

Senator Cummins wanted to know if Lauterbach asked for an explanation of any of Lamar's plants which involved his (Lauterbach's) honor.

"The question of honor was not considered. It was entirely a Wall street operation," returned Lamar.

The committee tried to bring out whether Lamar had any stock in the Steel corporation about the time the investigation resolution was introduced or held any Union Pacific or Southern Pacific recently or now. Lamar denied having any.

SLASHED IN "SLEEPING DUEL"

Rivals in Love Matched Pennies to See Which Should Die.

Mobile, Ala., July 9.—In a "sleeping duel" Charles Robinson's throat was cut, and he is dying in hospital. Robinson and Frank Broncho, a Spaniard, shipped on the schooner Henry Crosby for the West Indies. They loved the same girl.

Two days out, according to Broncho, they matched pennies to see which should cut the other's throat while he slept. Robinson lost. He is too weak to give his version, and the whole truth may never be known. The schooner's captain returned to port with the wounded man.

GARRETT TO HEAD PROBE.

Tennessee Man Slated as Chairman of House Investigation.

Washington, July 9.—Representative Finis J. Garrett of Tennessee will be chairman of the house lobby investigating committee, it was authoritatively stated.

Unless a filibuster develops the house will pass the lobby inquiry resolution today, and the investigation will begin tomorrow with the organization of the committee.

MASSACRE PLOT IN INDIA.

Authorities Discover Widespread Conspiracy Against British Rule.

A society organized for the purpose of waging war on British rule in India has been discovered with widespread ramifications. Acting on information laid before him, which resulted in a search of the house of his own son by the deputy magistrate of Midnapur, Bengal, the police arrested forty-four Bengalis of good family on the charge of conspiring to carry out a wholesale massacre.

Documents which were found in the house contained proposals for corrupting the Sepoy establishments in the military centers, projects for wholesale massacre instead of isolated murder as at present and also a list of the names of the members of the society.

The police searched other houses and found an abundance of evidence to show the widespread nature of the plot.

KIDNEYS GONE, BOY LIVES.

Lad Seems None the Worse After Fever Destroyed Them.

Russell, the fourteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. K. M. Edwards of Freeport, N. Y., is living without the use of his kidneys. They have been destroyed, physicians say, by scarlet fever.

Several weeks ago the boy became ill. A physician treated him for a cold, but when he became worse another doctor was called, who said he was suffering from scarlet fever in an advanced stage. The physician declared the disease had settled in the boy's kidneys, which had been practically destroyed.

Since this diagnosis the lad has been studied by many physicians, for his condition is said to be unique. The doctors say they cannot see how the youngster can survive long.

New Extradition Treaty With Paraguay Will Close Last Door.

The last country to which American criminals can flee and escape extradition will soon be closed to them. The foreign relations committee of the senate has ordered a favorable report on an extradition treaty with Paraguay.

This concludes treaties of this character with every civilized nation on earth. Two years ago Honduras was the favorite resort for fugitives from justice, but a treaty closed that abode.

LAKE COMO.

Lake Como, July 10.—On Friday, July 4, Lake Como took both ends of a double header from that speedy bunch of ball tossers at Equinunk.

The first game, a seven-inning contest, was close and well played but it lacked the ever troublesome doctor and the deep voice of a certain Mr. Lord which made the afternoon game so exciting and so very interesting for the poor umpire. The afternoon game was a walk over for Lake Como, the score being 15 to 1. The following is the score by innings of both games:

First game—
Como 2 3 0 3 1 0 0—9
Equinunk 2 0 2 2 0 0 0—6

Second game—
Como 0 2 1 3 4 1 0 4 x—15

The batteries for the afternoon game were Heesh and Heesh; Cummings and Warfield. Umpire, Taylor.
