

HONSDALE VOTES FOR PAVED STREETS

MUDITES SNOWED UNDER AT A RATIO OF 10 TO 1 ON FRIDAY

Vote of Special Election Results in Overwhelming Victory for Improvement--The Citizen Receives Many Congratulations.

The following is a comparison of the number of lines contained in the Citizen and Wayne Independent on the pave issue during the past four weeks:

The Citizen, 1,989 lines. Independent, 183 lines.

PAVE. This is the unanimous expression of the public.

As the result of the special election held on Friday last to increase the indebtedness of the borough of Honesdale the pavetes won by an overwhelming majority.

The vote cast represented 397 taxpayers of Honesdale. It was divided in a ratio of 10 to 1 in favor of brick as follows:

The two ballots that were thrown out were marked with an X after the words "Yes" and "No."

Vote Interesting One. The vote over which everybody is rejoicing (the mudites, too) started in brisk at the opening of the polls.

In the first nine minutes nine votes were cast and in the first hour 14 were dropped in the ballot box. The number cast in hours during the day tallied as follows:

Table with 4 columns: Hour, 7 to 8, 8 to 9, 9 to 10, 10 to 11, 11 to 12, 12 to 1, 1 to 2, 2 to 3, 3 to 4, 4 to 5, 5 to 6, 6 to 7.

Total Votes Cast 397

The largest vote was cast between 10 and 11, when it tallied 54 ballots. The least number cast was between the hours of 7 and 8, when only 14 were dropped in the ballot box.

There were several voters who had to be sworn in, their names having failed to appear on the registry list. Among the number was John M. Lyons, who claimed that for 43 years he had voted, but rather than be sworn in he would not vote. The difficently, it is claimed, is caused in making the transfer from one assessor's book to another.

Owing to our modesty, The Citizen does not feel at liberty to pat itself on the back over the victory. Those who read this paper know how we stood on the issue and can give credit to whom credit is due. We have, however, received a number of congratulatory remarks and messages since the election. The following was received from Rev. John Toole:

"The Citizen can say 'we did it'; but the banner high. Accept my hearty congratulations. You deserve a lot of credit. Thank God for the vote." (We displayed the Stars and stripes from our office window on Saturday.)

Council Takes Action.

Following the election, the members of the borough council met at the city hall for the purpose of receiving the result of the election and notifying State Highway authorities so action may be taken at once in the preliminary work for the pave. The president of the council authorized the secretary to communicate with Division Superintendent Legel that the council was in readiness to enter into a contract with the State for the building of the road.

A vote was taken and the ordinance requiring taxpayers to pay one-third of the cost of paving was adopted as read.

To Open East Street.

Phillip Krantz appeared before the council in behalf of residents of East Street and asked that action be taken toward opening same.

Bond Filed.

A $10,000 bond of the Wayne Street Railway company was filed with the council. This will protect the town against any legal proceedings which might take place in the matter of the old trolley company.

Committees Discharged.

President Cauffield discharged two committees as follows: Committee consisting of C. A. McCarty, G. W. Swanden, W. H. Kretzner and J. Weston appointed on good roads for Honesdale, and committee on postoffice in the city hall. The latter committee was composed of

CRADLE ROLLS OF WAYNE COUNTY SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

The following Sunday schools of Wayne county have reported a Cradle Roll Department, without which no school can reach a perfect standard. Is your school among this number? If not, why not? "Bring the little ones to Jesus."

BURGLARY AT SEELYVILLE.

While visiting her neighbors, Friday morning, the home of Mrs. Samuel Mitchell was burglarized and $21.70 taken.

The nearest neighbor, Mrs. Andrew Lutz, had gone to visit Mrs. Greiner consequently no one was in the immediate vicinity at the time the thief gained entrance to the house. Mrs. Mitchell's home is located on a knoll near the Seelyville Delaware and Hudson depot. When she returned, Mrs. Mitchell discovered the door of her home opened. She knew that she had locked it before she left the place, but thought that perhaps her son, John, who was visiting in New York City had returned home. She was expecting him Friday afternoon, when, it appears, he did arrive.

Entering her home through the forced-open door Mrs. Mitchell commenced to look around the room. Lying upon the floor was the broken lock of the door. Mrs. Mitchell then made further investigation. Going to her bedroom she found the covers of the bed in a turmoil and clothes scattered around the room. The bureau drawers were out and their contents were on the floor. Going to where she kept her money, Mrs. Mitchell discovered that its secret place had been discovered and that $21.70 had been taken. No clue as to the whereabouts of the burglar has been learned.

MISS SCHIMMEL SUCCEEDS MISS JADWIN.

At a meeting of the Honesdale school district directors held last Thursday afternoon, Miss Julia Schimmel was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Grace Jadwin as teacher of the fifth grade of the Honesdale school. The board also re-elected A. M. Leine secretary and W. J. Ward treasurer for the ensuing year.

TEMPERANCE RALLY AT HOLLISTERVILLE.

The W. C. T. U. will conduct an all-day institute at Hollisterville on Friday, July 25. A fine program is being arranged. Good speakers will be present at each session. Churches and temperance societies are invited to send delegates. It is desired to make this a general temperance rally for all southern Wayne. Come and bring your friends.

MRS. JENNIE SWARTZ INJURED.

Last Friday morning as Mrs. Jennie Swartz was crossing the sidewalk near the gas house, she was struck by an automobile and thrown to the ground. The driver stopped his machine and offered to take her home, but she refused. She, however, finally consented. Dr. F. W. Powell was called. Mrs. Swartz received a severe gash on her head and the right side of her face was badly scarred, a large patch of flesh being scraped off.

Councilmen W. H. Kretzner, H. C. Rettew and T. J. Canivan.

True progressiveness was demonstrated on Friday when Everett and Phillip Krantz, Jr., sons of Phillip Krantz of Fourteenth street, drove around the streets of Honesdale displaying a card "Vote for Pave" on their Shetland pony outfit.

Considerable credit is due the Greater Honesdale Board of Trade and the Honesdale Business Men's Association for getting out the vote on Friday. The Board of Trade had a team all day getting out the vote. The Scranton papers also gave space in their columns a few days prior to the election, reminding the voters of their duty to the town.

The election board was composed of William H. Bader, judge; Frank Truscott, C. L. Dunning, inspectors; R. J. Hartnett and William Vetter, clerks.

Summer School Students at Polls.

Professor H. A. Oday accompanied his summer school class to the polls on Friday, where the special election was being held. The manner of voting was explained to the students and each was given a specimen ballot. (In two years the young ladies may be voting.)

PALMER HOLDS FEDERAL PLUMS TO SAVE MACHINE

NO PATRONAGE UNTIL A STATE CHAIRMAN SHALL BE CHOSEN THIS MONTH.

Pennsylvania Democrats in Wild Scramble for Office With Leadership Imperiled.

Washington, D. C., July 13.--The squabble for Federal patronage in Pennsylvania is to be settled immediately following the meeting of the State Central Committee in Harrisburg, on July 23. This is the word being passed to the various Democratic county leaders by National Committeemen. A Mitchell Palmer is the official dispenser of favors, so far as Pennsylvania is concerned. The pressure being brought to influence Palmer for this or that candidate who is seeking recognition has become so great that the boss of the reorganized Democracy was forced to make his henchmen a definite promise that matters would be settled finally following the Harrisburg gathering.

The fact is that the big jobs in Western Pennsylvania have been disposed of, but Palmer wanting to make certain of his control of the State Central Committee refuses to make public the names of those he has recommended. He wants to keep in line those who are inclined to jump the organization traces and get back with the Guffey element in the party. Premature announcement, Palmer and his friends fear, would encourage insurgency and possibly embarrass them at Harrisburg ten days hence.

The purpose of the Harrisburg gathering is the election of a new State chairman to succeed George W. Guthrie, of Pittsburg, now on his way to Japan as American Ambassador, while Palmer refuses to make known his choice, it is understood he would be pleased to see the chairmanship go to Roland S. Morris, of Philadelphia. His second choice is Joseph H. O'Brien, of Scranton. James I. Blaklee, of Mauch Chunk, Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, has not relinquished his place as Secretary of the State Committee, and continues to help direct the Democratic forces in the Keystone State, while drawing salary from the government. He has made no announcement that he intends to retire and devote all of his time to the postoffice department. Blaklee will be made an issue by Palmer's political opponents and it is said if he shows no disposition to retire they will insist that he give way to another.

Whether Palmer, with a fine line of patronage back of him, can dictate the selection of the next State chairman, remains to be seen. Signs of trouble are seen in many of the counties in the western end of the State. Clearfield is the most recent place to repudiate the present leadership. The adherents of Palmer and his ally, Vance C. McCormick, were put to rout last week when their candidate for the county chairmanship, J. F. Weaver, was defeated by W. A. Haggerty by a vote of 66 to 6. The distribution of postoffices in the county is said to have been displeasing to the followers of Haggerty, who proceeded to assert their political strength by defeating the organization's choice for the chairmanship.

A TRIP TO PORT HURON AND DETROIT.

On July 7th a party of 45 or 50 ladies, enthusiastic members of the Ladies of The Maccabees assembled in Buffalo, coming from all parts of Pennsylvania, for a trip over the Great Lakes and a visit to the magnificent headquarters of the Order located in Port Huron.

This delightful trip at this season will be a source of great pleasure to those enjoying this privilege. The members located in different parts of the state can form no adequate idea of the magnitude and beauty of our work until they have paid a visit to the Maccabee Temple situated in the beautiful city of Port Huron.

The artistic beauty of the Temple and its various departments appeal to every lover of art and the methodical work of the many employees is marvelous. At the head of this magnificent system and directing with great ability every item of the work is the admirable Supreme Commander, Miss Bina M. West, whose history in connection with the Order reads like a romance.

Her successful leadership is an inspiration and her beautiful personality endears her to every member of the Order. The loving respect and esteem of all employed in the Supreme Office is a direct and beautiful tribute to her worth as a leader. This trip to Port Huron will be a memorable one to those taking it and must result in renewed enthusiasm and confidence in our great Order for women unequalled and unparalleled in the history of women's associations, having as it does the protection and perpetuation of the home as its object.

ST. SWITHIN'S DAY, JULY 15.

HERE; WATCH SKY.

Jupe Pluvius sat up in Bed And waved a Pullman reservation "St. Swith is on the job," he said, "Here's where I go on my vacation. For forty days I shake the blame Whether it does or doesn't rain."

This is St. Swithin's Day. So if you are superstitious (and who isn't?) you will watch the skies anxiously. If it rains today, a legend says, it rains every day for forty days. If to-day sees a repetition of the cloudless sunshine which has got us all het up recently, then you can go out and bet your shirt that there will be forty days of drought. Because this is St. Swithin's Day.

RESUME OF WORKINGS OF THE LAST LEGISLATURE

THE FLINNITES PLAYED A LEGISLATIVE GAME OF BLUFF.

Factional Foolishness Prevalent--Just Who Defeated the Child Labor Bill--Social Legislation as Attempted by the Flinnites Tended to Make Humanitarianism and Public Decency Political Issues.

Harrisburg, July 14.--Now that the fog and confusion that marked the closing hours of the Legislature have cleared away it is apparent that the net result of the six month's work is an amount of advanced legislation far in excess of the general expectation when the body convened in January and it became apparent that a party of political guerrillas would have to be taken into consideration, and it more than bears out the assertion frequently made in these letters that the session would be the most progressive in the history of the State.

Attempted Fake Legislation.

From first to last an immense amount of so-called progressive legislation was dumped into the hopper. Some of it was meritorious, lots of it was the product of cranks, but by far the most sinister influence of the whole session was the mass of bills introduced and touted as progressive when in reality they had no other purpose than the promotion of the political fortunes of the Flinnites. Peanut politics was the besetting sin of the session. It was responsible for the disgraceful dragging out of the deliberations which cost the taxpayers thousands upon thousands of dollars and it was responsible for the failure of the child labor bill at the last moment.

Factional Foolishness.

From the beginning the Flinnite campaign was based upon a design to secure factional advantage. A great mass of election bills were introduced and the word went out that they were designed to rescue the people from the thralldom of party, but when the bills were examined it was found that the only thing they would accomplish would be the turning over of the control of the Republican organization to the Flinn outfit. The Democrats were alive to this situation and were willing to give aid to the Flinn followers until it became apparent that if they pursued that course there would be no election reform whatever. Then Lowry Humes, of Crawford county, the Democratic floor leader in the House and a member of the primary bill conference committee, proposed a compromise which was finally adopted and which insures that Pennsylvania will have a primary election law second to none in the country.

Truth About Child Labor Bill.

In this case the dog-in-the-manger tactics of the Flinn outfit was checked but some of the more important social, or, as they are more commonly called, humane bills, did not have such a fortunate fate. In a number of these the people who are seeking to undermine the Republican party played both ends against the middle with such consummate skill that nothing was accomplished. The most spectacular instance of this kind of interference was the orderly course of legislative deliberations was furnished in the fate of the child labor bill which in all likelihood will figure large in the politics of the immediate future throughout the entire state. This bill was bitterly fought by manufacturers interested, but it was a foregone conclusion that something that would mark a long step in advance would be passed. Sometime during the day on which the Legislature adjourned an agreement was reached between the House and Senate conferences which under the circumstances that existed was acceptable to the interests immediately concerned--the employers and the people who were working for the betterment of conditions under which children labor in this state. The salient point of this agreement was that the maximum number of hours children shall work shall be fifty-one and-a-half per week. Under the law now on the books the maximum is sixty. Informally an understanding was entered into that the bill should go through on this basis, but when the political steers who had charge of the Flinn interests heard about it a protest went forth and their creatures were ordered to hold out for fifty hours. The result was a deadlock which insured the defeat of the bill.

Flinnites Over Reach Themselves.

An immense amount of fuss and fury attended this incident which occurred during the very dying hours of the session and it was some time before it was clearly understood what had happened. Then there was something resembling a sensation. After things had simmered down it was the consensus of opinion that the Flinn party again had overreached itself. It does seem that it will be difficult to justify the killing of a measure that contained many important concessions that have long been sought simply because there was a difference of an hour and a half in the working time permitted each week.

Great Salt Tears Are Flowing.

Of course, the Flinn organs and the Flinn bureaus, although bitterly disappointed over the progressive character of the legislation that was passed, are making all they can out of the situation that exists and they are weeping great salt tears over the bills that were not passed. But they are not receiving much sympathy. The Philadelphia Record, the most important Democratic newspaper in the state, for instance, admits that the amount of humanitarian and advanced legislation introduced was much too great for any legislature, "however well inten-

JURY DECLARES JOHNS INNOCENT OF MURDER.

Coroner's Inquest Into Mystery of Death of Alice Crispell Gives Man Freedom But Declares That Girl Was Murdered.

After hearing considerable testimony in the Alice Crispell case at Harvey's Lake, the coroner's jury decided that Herbert Johns, the lover of the dead girl, now confined in the Luzerne county jail as a suspect, was innocent and recommended his release. The members of the jury did find, however, that Miss Crispell was murdered.

The testimony took in all phases of the case. Her conduct before and during the day of July 4, with a multitude of side-lights not calculated to create the impression that she led a blameless life, was canvassed pro and con by the different members of the jury and the coroner and his assistant.

There were about fifteen witnesses at the inquest, which was conducted in the ballroom of the Oneonta hotel at Harvey's Lake. Coroner James Marley presided and was assisted by Deputy Coroner Butler.

Johns was held for the action of the grand jury, following a clash between the District Attorney and the coroner. The former claimed that the case was handled by the coroner in an irregular manner and he petitioned the court to have the body taken up and exhumed a second time. The case is causing state attention and prominence.

GOOD ROADS.

Harrisburg, Pa., July 12.--Approval of the general appropriation bill with its items for construction and maintenance of State roads, which is expected from the Governor's hands the latter part of this week, will be followed by considerable activity on the part of the State Highway Department in various sections of the State. Estimates have been prepared by engineers of the Department on a dozen or more pieces of State highway and on as many other roads on which State-aid has been asked by the counties. The plan is to receive bids for this during the summer and let the contracts so that operations may begin early in the fall.

The Highway Department will also undertake considerable repair work with its own men and take steps to perfect its maintenance system throughout the State. Failure of the Legislature to pass the general appropriation bill until the closing night of the session has held up all funds since June 1st, and consequently no new work could be undertaken, although numerous requests have been received for the rebuilding of roads, especially those of the State-aid variety.

Under the terms of the general appropriation bill, funds are provided for reconstruction of main State highways, State-aid road building, maintenance and repair work on main and State-aid roads, all to be taken out of the general State revenues. The unsatisfactory nature of this method of financing the great road building program is well illustrated in the fact that the Legislature has appropriated $80,000,000 out of these revenues, whereas the revenues themselves will amount to only $62,000,000 for the two years covered by these appropriations. As a result, the Governor must cut $27,000,000 out of the appropriations, and the road appropriations may have to be reduced along with those for various other public works and charities.

If the people in November will ratify the $50,000,000 bond issue, ample funds will be provided for carrying on the reconstruction of the highways of Pennsylvania, independent of the regular revenue and therefore not subject to the conditions that now threaten the road appropriations for the next two years. The Pennsylvania Motor Federation, which is advocating the bond issue as the best means of providing money for road building, is planning to start an energetic campaign in behalf of the bond amendment. This campaign will open early in the fall, and will be pushed vigorously in all parts of the State, including public meetings and the circulation of educational literature.

tioned and diligent" to contend with and most of the other newspapers in the state that own themselves and can express honest opinions have printed editorial endorsements of the work that was accomplished. Some of them, however, take occasion to condemn the dilatoriness of the body and the disposition to sacrifice the best interests of the people for partisan advantage which they declare was one of the weaknesses of the session.

Flinnites Opposed Eugenic Marriage Bill.

There was such a whirlwind finish and there was so much attention paid to a few big bills that no really adequate list has yet been made of the progressive legislation that was passed. Some of the most important of it never entered into the calculations of the Flinn political managers and throughout the entire course of the session was not noticed by the battery of bureaus and boards of control that were maintained here and which if not directly financed by the Pittsburg near-boss at least always were at the beck and call of his lieutenants. Among this class of legislation are the bills changing the methods of taxing wood land. These bills have the endorsement of no less a Bull Moose than Gifford Pinchot. Another progressive bill that the Flinn people refrained from boosting effectively is the bill which provides that marriage licenses shall be granted only to those who are willing to make affidavit that they are physically fit. A New York newspaper has described this as being the first eugenic marriage bill to be enacted in this country.

REVOLVER BULL GOES THROUGH HAND INTO LIMB

WAS OUT HUNTING WOOD-CHUCKS AND REVOLVER ACCIDENTALLY DISCHARGED

Dyberry Young Man Taken to Office of Dr. L. B. Nielsen Where Shot Was Removed--Antitoxin Administered.

Alvin Compton, aged 15 years, employed by Seymour Barnes, who resides near Honesdale on the Bethany road in Dyberry township, accidentally shot himself through the left hand with a revolver and the bullet lodged into his right thigh, while out hunting last Thursday afternoon on the Seymour Barnes farm.

The young man went out to hunt for woodchucks, which are numerous on the Barnes farm and took along a revolver. He held the gun in his right hand and it was accidentally discharged while his left hand was before the muzzle. The bullet went through the hand and lodged in the thigh.

The unfortunate young man was brought at once to Honesdale to the office of Dr. L. B. Nielsen where the bullet was removed. Antitoxin was administered to prevent tetanus setting in. The young man is resting easily to-day. He is the son of A. Compton.

HONSDALE TAKES THIRD OF SERIES FROM CARBONDALE

The "Jinx" left the Honesdale team with the return of "Buck" Faatz and Honesdale easily defeated Carbondale on Sunday at White Mills--score, 4 to 1.

Pitcher Loll was never in better form. He allowed but four hits, two of which were of the scratch variety, and struck out ten men. He was well received by Jacobs, who caught his first game of the season; his throwing was a little off color, however, as it was a wild throw of his in the first inning to catch Walker at second, after he had walked (true to his name) and stole. Loll was never in danger at any other stage of the game.

Honesdale scored two in the first inning. Lily was given a base on balls, Tarkett was safe on an error by Walker, and both scored when Mangan singled, and catcher Fee let the throw in from the outfield get by him. We scored again in the third on Lily's single and Tarkett's two-bagger. In the fifth Loll hit for one base, and after Weaver sacrificed came home on Lily's single.

Carbondale and Honesdale played four and one-half innings on Saturday, the game being called on account of rain. The score was 7 to 3 in favor of Carbondale, "when the game stopped, but as 5 innings were not played it will not count in the series which now stands Honesdale two games to Carbondale one.

The lineup and score of Sunday's game follows:

Bases on balls, McAndrew 1, Loll 2. Two-base hits, Weaver, Tarkett, Walker. Struck out by McAndrew 4, Loll 10.

Next Saturday Carbondale plays a double header here. Honesdale plays the first of the series with Hawley at Hawley on Sunday following, and Hawley plays here one week from Saturday. Get busy boys, and practice up for Hawley. We want that series above all others and Hawley reciprocates that feeling, hence get busy as the "Jinx" has left, let's hope for good.

HONSDALE PARTY SPRUNG

AXLE IN PIKE COUNTY.

While motoring through Blooming Grove, Pike county, on Sunday, a Honesdale party composed of William Brady, chauffeur, Henry Tingley, George Lees and Walter O'Connell, met with an accident. The Honesdale car crowded to one side to allow another machine to pass and in doing so the left fore wheel went over a culvert which gave way under the weight of the car. This allowed the wheel to drop and in doing so it came in contact with a small boulder, which bent the axle. Unable to repair the car, the party telephoned to Honesdale for aid.

TO LOCATE NEW BRIDGE.

A corps of surveyors for the new Wayne County Street Railway company are working along the proposed line between Honesdale and Hawley. At East Honesdale, at the outlet of Carley Brook, a new bridge will be built which will be of concrete. The trolley road expects to cross the old canal basin at that point, where it will leave the turnpike to enter the towpath.
