The state supreme court by a four to three decision has declared unconstitutional the act passed by the last legislature providing for five additional judges in Philadelphia, or one for each of the five common pleas courts. The court ordered the judges, who took office only a month ago, to be "ousted forthwith." The new law was approved by Gov. Tener on March 29 and on June 4 he named the following as the new judges: Thomas D. Finletter, D. Webster Dougherty, Samuel H. Hynman, William M. Stewart, Jr., and Joseph P. McCullen, all of whom have resigned.

The indications for an average wheat crop in Pennsylvania are good, according to Secretary of Agriculture N. B. Critchfield, who has received reports from various parts of the State. The corn crop will be fair with the chances of a larger crop than usual, because of the great amount of stored up moisture in the ground and the advance of sunshine. Oats will be about average and the hay is below what it has been for several years. The late spring frosts damaged much of the fruit and the crop will be below the average this year, although the fruit itself will probably be large and well formed. Early potatoes and tomatoes were also damaged by the frosts, but the later crops will be good, it is expected.

The following officers of Honesdale Council, No. 980, Jr. O. U. A. M., were installed Friday evening, July 11, for the ensuing term: Jr. Past Counselor, Charles Gray; counselor, Curt A. A lunacy commission composed of M. J. Hanlan, L. B. Neilson and F. H. Crago, who were appointed by the Court to inquire into the sanity of Harvey Field of Clinton township, who has been confined in the county jail for the past ten days, made their report on Friday.

They found Field insane. Judge Searle made an order directing that Field be delivered over to the overseers of Clinton township and then be taken to the state hospital for the insane at Rittersville.

Saturday evening is naturally a time for people to collect on the streets and sometimes it is necessary to remain out late, but there is no excuse for a crowd of rowdy young men to collect on Main street after midnight and raise a disturbance that keeps every person within two blocks awake. We were glad to note that the particular party that we mentioned was not composed of Honesdale young men.

The disturbance has occurred repeatedly in the vicinity of the corner of Main and Eleventh streets. Where was the officer who is supposed to patrol this beat?

In the base ball game Sunday on the White Mills grounds pitcher Loll of the Honesdale team was in superb form and held the Carbondale team down to four hits. They couldn't touch him. This game was the fourth of a series of seven games to be played with Carbondale, and with Honesdale winning Sunday's game the series now stands 2 to 1.

A double-header with Carbondale will be played on the local grounds next Saturday afternoon. The final game of the series will be played at the Business Men's picnic which will be held at Lake Lodore on Wednesday, July 23.

The Board of Education of Stroudsburg has passed a resolution against the teachers' tenure bill that is awaiting the signature of Governor Tener. The board is of the opinion that the proposed law "will prove financially burdensome to the several districts, vexatious to the public and school boards hampering them in the making of such changes as may work for the welfare of the schools, productive of litigation in causing dismissals and finally, will work a hardship on the teachers themselves as school boards will be reluctant to employ them for the tenth year when such election will mean permanent employment.

WHAT THE HOUSEMOTHER CAN MAKE.

The thoughtful housemother is sure to plan for the comfort of her family in summer by providing appliances and materials for the ready making of fruit drinks. Iced tea and coffee, lemonade, and orangeade are general favorites and if the housemother gives a little forethought to the matter some one of these can be quickly made almost any hour of the day.

The lemon squeezer should be handy; so should a plain sugar syrup that can be used to better advantage than crystal sugar, especially if it comes thoroughly chilled, out of the icebox; a chocolate or cocoa syrup should also be kept on hand and where milk drinks are liked, there should be a shaker and strainer, in the house. It is a good idea to keep a bottle or jar of lemon juice in the ice box all the time.

A plain sugar syrup may be made by boiling together for ten minutes five pounds of granulated sugar and three quarts of water. This should be skimmed and strained, and kept in the refrigerator. Two tablespoonsfuls of it will be enough to sweeten a glass.

Many persons find iced tea one of the most refreshing of summer beverages. Make the tea fresh at breakfast time, using water that has just come to a boil. Leave the water on the leaves just long enough to draw the tea and pour it off at once into a porcelain pitcher. As soon as it has cooled, set the pitcher in the icebox, where the temperature will be lowered. When you are ready for it, you may either put a big lump of ice into the pitcher or smaller pieces into the glasses. If the latter, use the tall tumblers, which come especially for this sort of drink.

Iced coffee is no more trouble, and for this the coffee left over from breakfast may be utilized. If you use a percolator or French drip coffee pot, the fluid has not stood on the grounds long enough to injure the flavor and the coffee may be poured into a pitcher and set aside as you would do with the iced tea.

On the foundation of lemonade and of tea a number of delicious hot weather drinks may be compounded these being suitable for entertaining as well as for family enjoyment. One of the best is a fruit punch, which is a strong lemonade to which is added sliced pineapple, orange, banana, strawberries, cherries, raspberries—almost any sort of fruit. When the compound is poured over a big lump of ice in a punch bowl, it furnishes a beverage that cannot fail to be acceptable on a hot day.

To a good lemonade, made in proportion of four lemons, a small cupful of granulated sugar and a pint of water—may be added the juice and pulp of six oranges and a heaping tablespoonful of minced pineapple. Pour this on a block of ice and just before serving turn in a quart of Apollinaris or other good charged water. This is a variant on the fruit punch mentioned above.

Another excellent punch with lemons for a foundation is made by mixing the juice of six lemons with a cupful of granulated sugar and letting it stand in the cold an hour. Crushed ice—about two cupfuls—may then be put in the punch bowl and the lemon and sugar poured on it. Take long-stemmed sprigs of mint and crush the stems between the fingers, so as to bring out the flavor. Stick these into the fruit, ice and sugar and at the last moment empty upon them a couple of bottles of ginger ale, which should have been well chilled in advance.

The mint-crowned punch bowl is very attractive to look at, giving pleasure to the eye as well as to the palate.

U. S. TO ISSUE A MAGAZINE.

Journal of Research Will Replace Certain Agricultural Bulletins. Radical changes in the publications of the department of agriculture are to be made in connection with the establishment by the department and the agricultural colleges and experimental stations of the country of the Journal of Research. This magazine, which will be issued monthly or oftener, according to the volume of scientific matter on hand, will do away with the technical bulletins which have been issued in the past. It will be edited by three representatives from the department and two from colleges and stations.

Publication of farmers' bulletins will be continued by the department, but in many instances the pamphlets will deal with problems affecting a particular section of the country. Other publications of broad general interest will be spread over the whole country.

NEW LABOR LAWS.

Commissioner Jackson Summarizes the More Important Provisions. In a statement just issued John P. Jackson, the new commissioner of labor and industry of Pennsylvania, whose duties include those of the chief factory inspector, wiped out by the act creating the department of labor and industry, summarizes the more important general provisions relating to the employment of labor, and makes a plea for co-operation on the part of employers with his department.

A skeleton of the summary follows: Minors under 14 may not be employed in any establishment. Minors under 16 may not be employed in or about establishments for the manufacture or preparation of white lead, red lead, paints, phosphorus, phosphorus matches, poisonous acids, or for the manufacture or stripping of tobacco or cigars, except where special permission has been granted by the commissioner of labor and industry.

Minors under 18 may not be employed in hazardous occupations. Minors under 18 may not be employed unless they can read and write the English language intelligently, and are physically qualified for their work.

Boys under 16 may not be employed in any establishment more than 10 hours a day, except to make a shorter work day (not holiday) for one day in the week, and not more than 58 hours in any week.

Prior to November 1, 1913, girls under 18 may not be employed for more than 10 hours in any one day, except to make a shorter work day, and not more than 58 hours in any week. Females over 18 may not be employed more than 60 hours in any one week or 12 in any one day.

After November 1, 1913, no females may be employed more than six days or 54 hours in any one week. No females under 21 may be employed between 9 p. m. and 6 a. m., except telephone operators over 18 years of age.

No females may be employed in any manufacturing establishment between 10 p. m. and 6 a. m., except as managers, superintendents, clerks and stenographers.

No minor between 14 and 16 may be employed in any establishment unless the employer procures and keeps on file an employment certificate. Employers are required to return certificates to children who leave their employment.

In each work room notice must be posted of hours of work required for each day of the week for each class of workers employed, also a printed copy of the factory laws.

After November 1, 1913, every employer of females shall post conspicuously in at least one of the rooms where such female is employed, a schedule of the hours of labor of every female, containing her name, daily and weekly hours and time of commencing and stopping work and meal hours, also printed abstract of the woman's employment law.

After November 1, 1913, employers of women shall make reasonable effort to supply clean and pure drinking water to be kept properly covered, and no money shall be collected by employer from employees for ice water furnished.

Outside of cities of the first and second class all buildings in which persons are employed above the second story must be provided with more than one way of egress, and in addition thereto shall have one or more external fire escapes in the discretion of the commissioner of labor unless a certificate of exemption is given by him. Monthly fire drills, in which all employees must take part, are required in factories where women and girls are employed.
