TWO DEAD AS TRAIN HITS AUTO

S. O. Pell, Society Leader, Killed—Mr. and Mrs. Laimbeer Dying.

New York, Aug. 4.—S. Osgood Pell, realty broker and society leader, was killed, as was a chauffeur whose name has not been learned, and Mr. and Mrs. William Laimbeer of the Hempstead colony were mortally injured when the limousine automobile in which they were was hit by a Long Beach express.

The accident occurred at the first crossing west of Long Beach, between that resort and Lynbrook. The train was crowded with persons who had been spending the day at the resort.

Mr. and Mrs. Laimbeer and Mr. Pell and, it is said, another man were in the limousine, bound, it is believed, for Hempstead, where the Laimbeers have a country home.

The train had just crossed the trestle and left Wreck Lead with no stop ahead of it to Lynbrook, where it slows down to take a switch. It was one of the electric trains that make a speed of sixty miles an hour at times, running between the Pennsylvania station in this city and Long Beach.

The only eye witness to the crash found was William Watson of Long Beach. He says the express sounded no whistle, and no bell was rung at the unprotected crossing. The persons in the car never saw nor knew their danger.

The electric motor, the heaviest of the kind made, with the full force of the train behind it, struck the limousine squarely in the center. The chauffeur was hurled forty feet to one side of the road.

London, Aug. 4.—Five girls who returned recently to Ireland from New York to visit relatives were drowned at Strandhall, near Sligo, Ireland. They were Lizzie Ford, Margaret Fraine, Lizzie Murtagh, Mary Ann Murtagh and Lizzie McNulty.

The girls were bathing when Lizzie Ford, who was a good swimmer, dared the others to go further out into the stream. A strong current was running, and all were carried away and drowned despite efforts made by a policeman who jumped into the water to rescue them.

BRYAN AGAIN PUTS OFF TRIP

Secretary Says He May Resume Lecture Tour Today.

Washington, Aug. 4.—Secretary of State Bryan again postponed starting on his Chautauqua trip, which was interrupted ten days ago by the necessity of his presence in Washington.

He had intended to leave before the end of the week to resume his lectures, then he planned to go Saturday night, but announced that he would not leave before last night. Yesterday afternoon he said he might start today.

It is believed the postponements have been at the wish of the president.

GOMEZ HEADS ARMY

President of Venezuela to Combat Rebel Forces.

CASTRO ISSUES CALL TO ARMS

Deposed Dictator Asks All His Friends to Aid Him, Declaring War to Be Inevitable—Struggle Bound to Be Furious One.

Willemstad, Aug. 4.—Placing himself at the head of a big army recruited as the result of compelling every one capable of bearing arms to join, Juan Vicente Gomez, president of Venezuela, embarked with the troops for the state of Falcon, where General Cipriano Castro is awaiting him with his revolutionary followers.

Castro has a large following and has issued a proclamation calling Gomez crazy and ferocious, with the eternal mark of traitor on his forehead.

The government is in the dark as regards the situation in the state of Falcon, as telegraphic communication between Coro and Caracas has been interrupted since the rebellion.

However, the Venezuela capital has received alarming reports from Falcon concerning the activities of Castro, government officials who refused to accept his leadership having been either imprisoned or killed.

Look for Bitter Struggle.

That the struggle between the two armies is bound to be a furious one is regarded as certain by the representatives of other countries here. They realize the intense hatred Gomez and Castro bear each other and have known for some time that Castro had made careful preparations to wrest the government from Gomez. Castro has the following proclamation:

"War has become inevitable. I declare myself in the field against Juan Vicente Gomez, whose treason and usurpation of power since 1908 have become a real catastrophe calling me from private life.

"Crime extends its horrible wings over the whole republic of Venezuela.

Calls Gomez Traitor.

"The crazy and ferocious Gomez bears on his forehead the eternal mark of a traitor. His brutal look and his perfidious smile encourage his few followers to finish the ruin of the fatherland.

"Heroic Venezuela acclaims me again to vindicate her rights.

"I am a slave to honor and duty, and I accept the honor.

"My program in regard to domestic affairs is to save my country from threatening anarchy, and my foreign policy is to join hands with civilization and progress on the basis of equity and justice.

"Everybody in Venezuela should take arms and contribute to the salvation of the fatherland."

Gomez is aboard the warship Maresu Sucre, formerly the Isla de Cuba, which was purchased from the United States last year. Troops have been mobilized at Caracas to leave for the coast ports to be transported by warships to the state of Falcon.

ENVOY WILSON'S PURSE STOLEN

Pickpockets Jostle Him at Brooklyn Bridge and Get $100.

New York, Aug. 4.—Henry Lane Wilson, ambassador to Mexico, lost a pocketbook containing something more than $100 through the work of pickpockets at the Manhattan terminal of the Brooklyn bridge.

The ambassador had driven down as far as the bridge with some friends who were bound for Brooklyn and went into the bridge terminal with them. There he got into the usual afternoon bridge jam and after being jostled a little more vigorously than seemed necessary felt for his wallet, which had been in his hip pocket. The wallet was gone.

A report was printed that Ambassador Wilson had lost some valuable state documents along with the wallet. This he denied emphatically.

It is one thing to make soda crackers that are occasionally good.

It is quite another thing to make them so that they are always better than all other soda crackers, always of unvarying goodness.

The name "Uneda" stamped on every biscuit means that if a million packages of Uneda Biscuit were placed before you, you could choose any one of them, confident that every soda cracker in that package would be as good as the best Uneda Biscuit ever baked. Five cents.

SHOOTS GIRL DEAD

Then Ends His Life In Suicide Pact.

BODIES FOUND SIDE BY SIDE.

Notes Beside Them Ask That They Not Be Separated Even In Death. Wife Threatened Pair, and They Agree to Die.

New York, Aug. 4.—Fear of separation through the intervention of his wife, who threatened when she found them together to have them arrested, is attributed by the police as the motive underlying the suicide pact of Harry G. Elliott and Ellen Sibley, whose bullet riddled bodies were found side by side on an elevation in Macomb's Dam park known as the "Lovers' Leap." A letter was found nearby in which they had written, "We have sinned and wish to die and be buried together."

That Elliott shot and killed the young woman and then ended his own life is indicated by the position in which the bodies were found. She was stretched out on the ground with her corsets under her head as a pillow, her arms folded and her eyes closed. His body was close beside hers, with a revolver lying near his outstretched hand. He had apparently folded her arms and closed her eyes after killing her and then fired the shot that ended his own life. The bullet took an upward course and imbedded itself in the brain. The girl had been shot in the heart and the right temple.

Contained in the letter was an implication that they feared they would be parted and that it would be better to be together in death than separated in life. The letter, which bore yesterday's date and was signed by the two, reads as follows:

To Whom It May Concern—This is to certify that we two, both, have agreed to die together. We have sinned, but we both love each other, and sooner than part we die together. Our wish is that our bodies will not be parted in death.

ELLEN SIBLEY. HARRY G. ELLIOTT.

Threatened by Wife.

Investigation by the police disclosed that the couple had been in fear since Saturday afternoon, when a woman who said she was Mrs. Elliott found them living in a house in West One Hundred and Forty-sixth street and threatened to have them arrested. Mrs. O'Dea, with whom they had been living as Mr. and Mrs. Elliott, at 201, ordered them out. Elliott put a revolver in his pocket just before he left. The girl, who was in tears, wrote a note. The police believe it was to a relative and not the one found near the bodies.

A card bearing the name of Elliott and the address 218 West One Hundred and Forty-eighth street enabled the police to clear up the mystery surrounding the death pact. Albert Lewis, a resident at that address, said that he met Elliott for the first time four weeks ago. Elliott, he said, was an Englishman, cultured, well educated and had been twelve years in the English army. He met Elliott in a social way. Elliott, he said, introduced the girl as Mrs. Elliott. He said they had come on here from Chicago.

ENDS LIFE ON VACATION.

About to Take Train to Meet Wife and Children.

New York, Aug. 4.—On the eve of taking a midnight train to New England to join his wife and family on their summer vacation, William L. His body was found lying in bed with a gas tube clenched in his fist.

Mr. Kilborn was fifty years old. He and his wife and family had lived in the Flatbush home for many years and he was a prominent member in the Lenox Road Baptist church. Mrs. Kilborn went to Lakeport, N. H., two weeks ago with her two daughters and her son for a vacation. Mr. Kilborn was to have gone there. He had purchased railroad and sleeper tickets and had completed preparations for this trip.

Nothing happened to mar the pleasures of the day and all returned well and well pleased with the ride and the pleasures of the trip. Our community was shocked on Thursday morning on hearing of the sudden death of James, the fourteen-year-old son of E. F. Noble, mention of which was made in last Friday's Citizen. The boy had not been feeling very well for the past day or two and fell last Wednesday morning in what seemed a fainting spell while at work in the oat field. STERLING.

Sterling, Aug. 4.—It would hardly be news to say that we have had a very hot week, but we are now in hopes that the hot wave is past.

W. B. Leshner returned to Sterling on the 30th ult. and brought Mrs. Osear Noble down from Honesdale and she is now the guest of her brother, Albert Bortree.

The supervisor is now working the roads in town and we appreciate the work.

L. T. Adams drives out occasionally and we are pleased to see him around again.

Mrs. Twigg, from Deal's Island, Maryland, is now the guest of her daughter, Mrs. L. J. Gilpin.

Charles Williams has recently painted the church steeple and now it fairly glitters in the moonlight.

James D. Gilpin was born July 1, 1837, and died July 30th, aged 76 years and 29 days, and was buried in the Sterling cemetery August 2. Rev. J. A. Tutill officiating. He is survived by his widow, formerly Miss Susan M. Cross, to whom he was married in 1869, two sons, Eber M. and Lyman J. and two daughters, Laura A. and Nellie B., and also one sister, Mrs. Susan Poston, and one half-brother, Thomas Gilpin.

When a young man Mr. Gilpin attended school at Wyoming Seminary, was converted and joined the M. E. church and for many years was secretary of the board of trustees and faithful attendant of the church and Sunday school and was in his accustomed place and even stayed at class meeting on the last Sunday of his life. On Monday he had a stroke of apoplexy from which he never regained consciousness. Mr. Gilpin taught school for a number of terms, was frequently on the election board, town clerk and auditor for many years, but the most of his time was spent on the farm where he led a quiet and industrious life surrounded by the members of his own family. Such, in brief, is the record of one of Sterling's oldest and most esteemed citizens.

Austin Leshner has been quite poorly but is better again.

W. B. Leshner and a number of others went a-fishing to Promise Land pond and was very successful.
