is resting on:

Why and Why Not?

Why in thunder should we worry, fuss, and fume, and fret, and flurry, Getting hot as Indian curry?

Why "chautauqua" in this season? 'Gainst the sunshine 'tis a treason, How unreasonable is reason!

What's the use of this disputing? What's the use of elocuting? Better far be baseball "rooting."

What's the use of all this wrangling, Neighbors' troubles disentangling? On the ocean let's go angling.

Let us have a week of heyday, Every day shall be a playday, Come along, for it is payday! -La Touche Hancock, in N. Y. Sun.

generally start off this department with a little something or other that has more or less jingle to it as well as a local hint lying back to catch the reader where he will appreciate what we are try-ing to do, whether we succeed in doing it or not; but this time we bor-row something from the paper that "shines for all," and all you have to do is to change a few words.

("o-cean" to "Pau-pack," for instance), and the affair is localized enough to fill the bill just as well as if we had ground it out with our own machine.

In fact Hawley seems to be situ-ated just right to offer "hey-day" opportunities to all who want to enjoy an occasional play-day. Of course the "pay day" part has something to do with the said opportunities.

Every train on the Eric from New York way is much easier to draw after leaving Hawley on its way to Honesdale. From this town a large number reach the nearby lakes, while others make Hawley their head-quarters. Some come for health, some for fun, and, we suppose some come with the hope that out here in the wilds where we grow berries, fish and a yearly deer hunt they will get on trail of some new way of making something out of nothing, in other words, of causing two dollars to grow where two pennies were blighted in the hill ere their coming.

Among those who come for pleas ure must be counted a small army of curiosity seekers. Those are chaps, you know, who examine all the little stones they run across, hoping to discover something new in the arrow head line. They are ready to shoulder a crow-bar and lug it about, occasionally plunging it into a mound with the desire to uncover an Indian burying ground, of which there must be many in this part of the state. Such hunters af-ter the curious won't have to go far from Hawley to find satisfaction for their quest. Down at the Eddy they will be on the scene of the capture of white hunters by the Indians who marched their prisoners away words the setting sun by following up the waters of the Middle Creek. One of these prisoners was a relative of Hon. F. P. Kimble, of Honesdale.

Out at Tafton they will be shown two miles long that opens on the Lackawaxen river at the Narrows. Indians used that natural retreat when they wanted to evade the invasions or curiosity of the white settlers. Better be careful how and when you try to go through that passageway, for rattlesnakes now crawl where Indians used to creep, and the former are more to be fear-ed than were the latter. As to ared than were the latter. As to arrowheads, they are frequently found. The writer found one a few days ago on his flat lands at Hoadleys. It is of red sandstone. He also found a broken hoe, or ax, and two or three years ago he found a beautiful specimen of stone used as a killing tomahawk or battle-ax. The past Spring a son of Dan'l Kuhn, of Adelia, found a stone spear point in the vicinity of the Wangum falls. In fact this en-tire section is filled with the material from which historians and ro-mancers mfliake books; and what greater pleasure awaits anybody than to drop the everyday cares of life for a time, especially at this season of the year, and go sight-seeing among them?

The Telephone System Works Fine on the Erie.

The Erie railroad is quite well tied together with telephones. the various stations and towns along the Wyoming division telephones are located which may be used by trainmen and section men. The telephones are located in small closets attached to posts. They are kept locked. Keys are carried by all who may have occasion to use the phones, which connect directly with the office of the train dispatcher.

On the main line phones are carried by all passenger trains, and every third telegraph pole has a line ready to be connected instantly with a phone. One arm that carries wires on these poles is painted white so that even in the night they may easily and quickly located. They are not intended to supplant the tele graph, but are an auxiliary precau-tion against accident and mishap, as a train can stop at any point and be in almost instant connection with office of the chief train dispatcher

The Fresh Air Kids Out at Fairview Lake.

"Say, you can tell the folks that those fresh aid kids just had the those fresh aid kids just had the time of their lives out at Big Pond," remarked Dr. Rodman. Then he continued to tell how they swam, they yelled, they feasted, and quarreled, yes, and even did some scrapping stunts. The motor boat man made four round trips on the lake for their special benefit. The Doctor found that he was a second Judge Out at Tafton they will be shown and that he was a second Judge an underground passage-way nearly Lindsay for a day, at least, as he had to adjudicate their quarrels and pour balm on hurt and lacerated feelings. The party were all back in Hawley by 7:30 in the evening. The Doctor said the funniest experience week accompanied by Miss was where a little girl, (sorry we Davis, at Lakeville and Arlington. have to say "girl") stole 8 lollypops Henry Beilman, of Wilkes-Bar and 10 sticks of gum, and then is visiting his mother on Keystone in a healthy, vigorous condition for the peached on another little girl who street. only stole 2 lollypops and 3 sticks of gum, exclaiming, "Oh, you little pig!" The accused girl with the 2 lollypops, who understood the dif-ference in amount of their similar sins, indignantly retorted: "A little pig, am I? Then you must be a great big hog!"

A Quartette of State Constables On Duty Hereabouts.

Four members of the State Constabulary are on duty in this vicinity. Two of them are located at Hawley. Two others are at Peck's pond in Pike county, where they have been stationed to look after the State's fishing interest. Fishermen who do not care whether they exceed the legal limit for the day's catch now have these two officers to reckon with, and it's a mighty good thing they have been stationed there.

Meeting of Hawley Council Held on Monday Night.

Monday night was the time for the Council to hold its regular session. In order to have a quorum it was necessary to hunt up the fourth member. Only routine business was transacted. It was decided to borrow $700 from a Hawley bank tide over borough finances until the year's taxes begin to come in.

TIMELY HINTS FOR FARMERS

Sheep Barns Need Wide Doors.

In connection with the sheep barn or thed should be plenty of yard room. Locate the shed on a rather high, weil drained spot, with yards if possible running with a slight slope to the south, at least so placed that plenty of sun can reach them. Plenty of door room for the sheep to go in and out is essential. Sheep go with a rush through any narrow opening. When one starts they all follow in a bunch. If the door is too small many will be jammed severely against the sides, some of the weak will be trampled, and the result will be abortions. Plenty of room is cheaper.

No animal does so well in the open air as the sheep. In an ordinary year they will not have to be shut in the barn nights more than a dozen times, when storms are bad, and not then were it not that a few will insist on staying out in the stiffest weather. Plenty of trough and rack room is also important. If the sheep must crowd and push, each does not get its share. and results will not be satisfactory.

Feeding Idle Horses,

Allow one pound of grain and one and a third pounds of hay for each hundred pounds of body weight of horse as a day's ration, and in addition supply some roots, or the horses may be given a few pounds of silage daily. It also is customary to allow horses to run to a rack filled with bright out straw. If this is allowed the hay may be cut to one pound per hundred of live weight. Increase oats, add bran and decrease the hay as spring approaches and weather becomes warmer. This gets the horses into good shape for spring work. During idleness horses require but little grain and may eat freely of roughage provided the bowels are kept active by feeding roots or silage.-Rural New Yorker.

Prevention of Bots.

Take a piece of soft cloth or waste moistened with coal oil and rub over the legs and shoulders of horses infested with bot eggs or "nits;" otherwise. writes E. T. Baker, veterinarian, Idaho experiment station, the horse licks the eggs off his body, the saliva dissolves the shells of the eggs, and larvae are swallowed and develop in the stomach

Few persons realize how much dam age bots really cause a horse. Each bot is firmly attached to the stomach wall, and after it drops off the small

Kept In Good Condition.

It will not be long before spring will the cows will be coming fresh in milk and the real work of the farm will commence. The cows should be kept them.

None of the cows should be allowed to get thin or poor, as that will be a decided loss further on. After commencing to give mitk they should have hands with his many friends on mencing to give milk they should have the best hay and fodder corn, or, better still, ensilage, with such kinds and amounts of grain as have been found

Save the best heifer calves if they are not all wanted on the farm. There will be a good demand for them, as there is getting to be a scarcity in Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Wilds, of dairy stock. So far as possible keep good returns for it.

Keep the young animals growing. This is very important and should receive all needed attention at all times

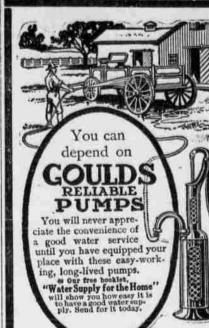

For instance, beifers are expected to begin giving milk at two years of age. up, with such feed as will give a good, vigorous, healthy growth, but not to Mrs. Emily Kingsbury, of Buck-ingham, to J. G. DuMond, of same, unduly fatten. They should have a comfortable stable and be kept dry and warm.-American Cultivator.

Sickness Among Fowls.

The causes for sickness among fowls can be traced to lice, filth, no grit, overfatness, sour food, leaky roofs, lack of exercise, crowded quarters, cracks in the wall, exposure to hot suns, cold houses in winter, hot houses in summer, irregularity in feeding, damp houses and runs, not enough bulky food, impure drinking water, poorly rentilated houses, exposure to bad weather and too much heating food in nummer.
