

DEATH CLAIMS HON. C. C. JADWIN ON SUNDAY

WELL-KNOWN DRUGGIST DIES AFTER SHORT ILLNESS—WAS FORMER CONGRESSMAN OF THIS DISTRICT.

Sketch of His Life—Was a Mining and Civil Engineer of Considerable Note—Possessed Rare Mental Faculties—Was a Free and Accepted Mason for Fifty Years.

Hon. Cornelius C. Jadwin passed away at his home on Church street early Sunday morning at 1 o'clock of heart failure after a few months' illness. He did not take to his bed only a few days before his demise. In his death Honesdale loses one of its most prominent citizens and merchants.

Cornelius C. Jadwin, was undoubtedly the oldest business man in Honesdale, having passed his fifty-first year in business on Wednesday, May 8, 1913. C. C. Jadwin, in connection with his brother, O. H. Jadwin, purchased the pharmacy of Purdon & Seely on May 8, 1862. The year following Mr. Jadwin bought out his brother's interest and has since that time been the sole proprietor. The pharmacy was first organized in the year 1847 by Drs. N. F. Marsh and W. W. Sanger, the latter afterwards becoming greatly distinguished as a medical author. In 1850 Marsh & Sanger sold the business to Mr. Anderson. The following year N. F. Marsh bought out Anderson and in 1853 again sold out to W. N. Purdon and Dr. Consider King. In 1854 Purdon purchased King's interest and remained sole owner until 1858 when he relinquished a one-half interest to George D. Seely. The firm of Purdon and Seely continued until 1862 when it was purchased by C. C. Jadwin and O. H. Jadwin.

Mr. Jadwin enjoyed a most lucrative business in Honesdale and as a business man has been successful in that line, gradually building up his business to its present standard.

F. M. Spencer has been in the employ of Mr. Jadwin for over thirty-four years. The pharmacy has been a most successful school for his assistants and during his business career Mr. Jadwin has seen men advance high in the business world after having received their business training with him.

Cornelius C. Jadwin is a descendant of John Jadwin, a Quaker, who came to America in the year 1652 with his brothers, Robert and Jeremiah. The brothers settled in Virginia and John settled in Maryland. The line of descent from John to the subject of our sketch is as follows: First, John, the emigrant; second, Robert; third, Robert; fourth, Robert; fifth, John; sixth, Henry Broomie Jadwin; seventh, Cornelius Comegys Jadwin. The first four generations were Quakers and Planters. Henry B. was the first that chose a different occupation.

Mr. Jadwin is survived by two children, namely, Miss Grace A. Jadwin, at home, and Major Edgar Jadwin, of Washington, D. C.; also by one brother, Charles Jadwin, of Scranton.

The deceased was affiliated with the Honesdale Lodge No. 218, Free and Accepted Masons, for fifty years, having joined that fraternal organization June 30, 1863.

The funeral will be held this Tuesday afternoon in the Presbyterian church at 2:30 o'clock, Rev. Dr. W. H. Swift officiating.

ELECTRIC STORM PASSED OVER WAYNE COUNTY

CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE DONE BY LIGHTNING IN RURAL DISTRICTS.

Three Barns Struck and Consumed By Fire Along With Contents—Large Stock Farm at Ariel Burns.

A terrific rain and electric storm swept over this part of the state Sunday afternoon and the damage to property was considerable. In this part of Wayne county the storm passed over without doing any considerable damage but west and south of here the storm passed over with greater fury.

On the Conlie Higgins farm in Clinton township, which is located near Elk Lake the lightning did much damage. The house which is occupied by a Polish family was struck and all the buildings on the place burned, along with the stock and farm implements. The bolt struck about four o'clock Sunday afternoon. The damage has not been estimated.

During the electric storm of Sunday afternoon Oliver C. Skelton's barn located in Sterling township, was struck and burned to the ground together with its contents. There was 15 tons of hay, 250 bushels of oats, farming implements and wagons in the barn. Two horses were taken out of the burning building and the third horse escaped with its mane burned off. One horse was burned. Some insurance was carried in the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Wayne.

Barn Struck at Lake Ariel.

Lightning struck the barn of John Simpson, of the firm of Cleland & Simpson, of Scranton, on his stock farm near Lake Ariel during a severe storm at 5:30 Sunday afternoon. There were seventeen head of Ayrshire cattle in the barn at the time, but farmers living nearby succeeded in getting them out safely.

Farming machinery and about eighty-five tons of hay went up in the flames. The barn was a four-story structure, one of the largest in that entire section, and the loss is a heavy one.

CELEBRATE OPENING OF GLASS FACTORY.

The people of Prompton and the surrounding territory turned out Friday night to celebrate the opening of their new industry.

In 1882, by virtue of the traditional custom of his party, a renomination to Congress was due to Mr. Jadwin, but through the machinations and devices of ambitious members of the party, who lulled his suspicions by assurances of fidelity and the certainty of his denomination, he was defeated and Colonel Edward Overton, of Bradford county, was nominated. Mr. Jadwin's Wayne county friends bolted their nomination and reconvened their county convention, but put him in nomination as an independent candidate.

The result was that Mr. Jadwin received 9101 votes, Colonel Overton 5675, and George A. Post, of Susquehanna county, the Democratic candidate, 11,555 votes and was elected. Jadwin received more votes than Overton in Bradford county (his home county) and four times as many as he did in Wyoming county. Overton only had one hundred and twenty votes in Wayne county where Jadwin ran one thousand one hundred and two ahead of his ticket.

This was considered by all his friends a sufficient vindication of his record and a well deserved rebuke to the unfair methods by which he had been deprived of the nomination.

In 1867 Mr. Jadwin originated the scheme and raised the subscription for the publication of the Honesdale Citizen and was chosen as one of the five managers of the paper, and remained in charge until it was passed over to Wilson & Pennington.

Mr. Jadwin is survived by two children, namely, Miss Grace A. Jadwin, at home, and Major Edgar Jadwin, of Washington, D. C.; also by one brother, Charles Jadwin, of Scranton.

The deceased was affiliated with the Honesdale Lodge No. 218, Free and Accepted Masons, for fifty years, having joined that fraternal organization June 30, 1863.

The funeral will be held this Tuesday afternoon in the Presbyterian church at 2:30 o'clock, Rev. Dr. W. H. Swift officiating.

DEATH OF COL. JONES REVIVES FAMOUS ACT

SAVED WASHINGTON FROM OCCUPATION BY CONFEDERATES IN 1861.

Commanded Troops That Were Stoned by Ruffians in the City of Baltimore—Military Funeral Given Man Who Coined the Phrase, "Jones, He Pays the Freight."

Binghamton, N. Y., Aug. 18.—Mayor John Irving issued a proclamation last Wednesday evening honoring the memory of the picturesque figure of Civil war days, Gen. Edward F. Jones, who died there the following day. Flags on all public buildings were ordered to be placed at half staff.

A private funeral was held at 11 o'clock Saturday morning, followed by a Scottish Rite ritualistic burial service. The body was carried to the State Armory where it reposed in state until 4 o'clock, where there was a military funeral under the direction of Gen. Charles Hitchcock, commander of the First Regiment, National Guard. The coffin was carried on a caisson with a mounted escort of Battery C, first field artillery. The regimental band and an infantry escort of Company H, First Regiment, led the procession.

Spanish war and G. A. R. veterans also marched. The coffin was sent to Boston where another funeral was held. The body was cremated there and the ashes buried in Mount Auburn Cemetery.

The scales factory, founded by Gen. Jones, to advertise which he originated the famous phrase, "Jones, he pays the freight," has been closed since the General was stricken with cerebral hemorrhage a week ago.

Edward F. Jones was born in Utica July 3, 1828. At the age of 16 he went to Boston and secured a position in a wholesale dry goods store. Here was begun the foundation of a career which included a fortune seeking tour of Barbados and Trinidad, long service in the Civil war and the establishment of the Jones Scale Works at Binghamton, N. Y. Through his business relations he became known all over the world as "Jones of Binghamton—He Pays the Freight," being author of the phrase "He Pays the Freight," which has since become a current expression.

Gen. Jones first entered the service as a private and later an officer of the Prescott Guards, named after Col. Prescott, the hero of Bunker Hill. He was subsequently elected Major and afterward Colonel of the famous Sixth Massachusetts Regiment, which, under his command, was the first regiment in the country to respond to the call of President Lincoln for 75,000 men. These men passed through New York and Pennsylvania in advance of the New York and Pennsylvania troops, were attacked by a mob in Baltimore, arrived in Washington on the eve of April 19, 1861, where they were met at the station of President Lincoln, who, taking Col. Jones by the hand, said:

"If you had not arrived to-night we should have been in the hands of the rebels before morning."

Capital's Fate in Balance.

Col. Jones has been sometimes criticized for not avenging the death of his comrades and fighting it out with the mob on the streets of Baltimore. On this subject Gen. Jones in a recent interview said:

"The most important and momentous epoch in my life was when, after the attack by the mob in Baltimore, officers and men gathered around me and begged that they might avenge the death of their comrades. But the line between desire and duty was sharply drawn when a telegram arrived from Gen. Scott which said, 'Let nothing delay you.' By my side stood William Prescott Smith, superintendent of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, who appealed, 'For God's sake, Colonel, give orders to move or it will be too late; the track is even now being torn up.' The surging crowd of maniacs yelled defiance. Every impulse bade me accept the challenge but I remembered that obedience to orders was a soldier's first duty."

Although not realized at the moment, the fate of the nation hung in the balance. The capital was in imminent peril and the situation was fully realized by the President and his Cabinet as well as Gen. Scott. This is the only instance in the history of the United States where the President and a portion of his Cabinet left their official domiciles to extend a welcome. It is generally conceded that the non-arrival of the Sixth Regiment that night would have resulted in the occupancy of Washington by the Confederates.

Col. Jones afterward recruited the Twenty-sixth Massachusetts Regiment, which was attached to Gen. Butler's division, organized for the purpose of capturing New Orleans.

Came to Binghamton in 1865.

On May 7, 1863, he married Susan Anne Brown of Boston, his first wife having died.

He was a member of the House of Representatives of the State of Massachusetts for the session of 1865. In October, 1865, he moved to Binghamton, New York, where he established the Jones Scale Works. In 1885 he was elected Lieutenant-Governor on the Democratic ticket with David B. Hill and in 1888 was re-elected.

For the past six years his eyesight rapidly failed, but still he remained the guiding spirit in his vast business enterprises.

He was a member of the Order of Founders and Patriots of America.

CEMETERY TANGLE BEING STRAIGHTENED OUT TO-DAY

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT TO BE SETTLED FOR ALL TIME.

Judge Little of Montrose, Sitting at Special Term of Argument Court Here Monday.

Monday morning argument was held with Judge Searle presiding. Judge R. W. Little of Montrose came here on the morning train to preside at the argument of law concerning the Waymart Cemetery company. Judge Searle disposed of several matters before the cemetery case was taken up.

The case of Kahn Brothers vs. Charles McArdle was argued by Attorney Hanlan for the plaintiff and P. H. Hoff for the defendant. A rule on the motion of the plaintiff for judgment for want of a sufficient affidavit of defence was discharged. The defendant, however, to file a sufficient affidavit of defence on or before second Monday of September. The suit is one in assumpsit for the recovery of $112 for goods sold to the defendant.

Judge Little then took up the matter of the Waymart Cemetery Company. The plaintiffs are the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania relations, Messrs. Gray, Ames and Bennett, represented by Attorney Homer Greene and the defendants are H. T. Hudson, Chas. Keene and Lizzie M. Betz, who are represented by Attorneys Searle & Salmon.

The Waymart Cemetery company was chartered as a corporation in 1875 for the maintenance of a private cemetery. The capital stock was $500 divided into twenty shares at $25 each and section 7 of the charter provided that subscribers to these shares of stock were to be repaid as soon as possible from the receipts from the sale of lots in the cemetery and that after being paid they were to continue as stockholders in the company. Purchasers of lots were also to become stockholders in the company and enjoy the rights of such.

All but three of the original stockholders have been paid off and the point at issue is to determine whether or not the other three have been paid. It is claimed that the defendants were illegally elected as officers of the company, and also that there has been bad management.

The defense denies negligence of management and that lot holders may become stockholders or have the privilege of such in the affairs of the Cemetery company.

PLAN TO DRAW TRADE.

Business Men's Association Issue Private Paper.

The united merchants of Honesdale mailed throughout Wayne county and distributed by hand in Honesdale the past few days a paper of their own. It is known as "Honesdale Merchants News" and was printed by The Citizen Publishing company, of this place. Heavy weight book paper was used. The sheet consisted of ten pages.

The Merchants News was published with the view of trade extension. It was circulated previous to the Chautauqua week for the purpose of announcing to the people living in the immediate vicinity of Honesdale and rural districts special bargains which would prevail in the merchants' respective stores during the reproduction of high-class entertainment to be held here this week.

The pages were well filled with advertisements and represented Honesdale's leading business houses. The merchants are looking forward to a busy week in their stores and it is hoped that their efforts may be crowned with success.

MANY VISIT ICE CAVES.

The ice caves above Ellenville are visited by many summer boarders at this season of the year, notwithstanding the heat. There seems to be a fascination about it for women as well as men. It is a heavy climb up a very steep portion of the mountain for a considerable distance. The place is well worth seeing after one gets there and there is sufficient ice to furnish the whole village of Ellenville with a plenty. It is so cold in this immense refrigerator that it is extremely dangerous for people who have become heated climbing the mountain to go into it without putting on a wrap or overcoat, unless they sit down for half an hour or so to cool off. Large pieces of ice are carried down the mountain to prove that they have been there.

FALLS THROUGH HAY RIGGING.

While unloading hay at his farm a few days ago, John Spinner, of East Cherry Ridge, fell through the rigging on which he was pitching off hay, injuring himself internally. Mr. Spinner accidentally stepped in the center of the wagon, which was minus a board. As a result he fell through striking his chest on the reach underneath. Dr. F. W. Powell was called. He found no broken bones, but claims that Mr. Spinner received internal injuries, but that he will recover.

TWO NEW MOONS IN AUGUST.

August is unusual from an astronomical standpoint in having two new moons, the last of which partly hides the sun and causes an eclipse. This eclipse, the first of three which will occur at an interval of some weeks apart, will be visible only in a section of the Arctic zone of the earth.

August 31 this new moon will pass over the disc of the sun; later, the morning of September 14, when the moon has reached a point in the heavens opposite the sun, it will pass into the earth's shadow and be totally hidden, and again September 30 it

WASHINGTON PARTY INDORSES THE FOLLOWING CANDIDATES.

At a meeting of members of the Washington party held last Thursday evening in the court house the following recommendations were made as candidates for the coming primary election:

Inspector of election, William Haggerty; judge of election, R. J. Miller; committeeman, G. P. Ross; town council, G. W. Penwarden, Martin Caulfield, S. T. Ham and R. J. Murray; school board, A. M. Leine, J. A. Brown; auditors, William Commisky, Leon Ross; tax collector, Herman Schuerholz; jury commissioner, L. S. Partridge.

Since the above meeting, R. J. Murray, Democratic, has declined the nomination.

HEARING GIVEN MRS. GRAY IN PORT JERVIS.

At the hearing instituted Thursday to determine the competency of Mrs. Mary Gray, of Honesdale, to manage an estate valued at $50,000, it was alleged that the woman had been leading a pretty gay life in the Wayne county seat.

Among those who offered testimony were J. E. Richmond, who has been a resident of Honesdale for over fifty years; Miss Cora Sears and Mrs. Arthur Bishop. The proceedings to determine the competency of Mrs. Gray were instituted by her nephew, Robert Gray.—Tribune-Republican.

LOCALS DEFEATED BY SCRANTON CRESCENTS

SATURDAY'S GAME WAS ALMOST A REPETITION OF A WEEK AGO.

They Were in Better Form, However, But Are Still Lacking in Essentials—Walker Played Superb on Second.

Honesdale took just one balloon ascension in the second inning on Saturday against the "Crescents," which enabled the boys from Scranton to win.

The locals showed remarkably better form than they did last Saturday in all but this one inning, in fact they played brilliant ball at times, but not having quite gotten over the stage fright of last Saturday, threw the game away in one or two bad innings. Loll pitched excellent ball, when he got them over, but lost his own game through wild throws, hit batsmen and one fumble.

Faatz and Brader each batted .500 and increased their batting averages so that Faatz is now running Tarkett a close second, as Tarkett did not get any hits. The Crescents began the scoring in the second, making six runs. Seville singled, Howell attempted to sacrifice and Loll fumbled, both runners being safe. Faherty bunted and Loll threw to the bleachers, Howell scoring. Rush was safe on players' choice, Seville scored, Loll hit Jordan and Chessler was safe when Rush was caught at the plate. Jones singled and Jordan scored, reached second on Walker's error and came home when Farrell scored a hot one threw Brader. Sandy caught Farrell at second and ended the agony. In the third Howell was safe on Loll's wild throw, stole second and came all the way home when Loll fumbled Faherty's slow one, although Loll finally got his man at first.

In the sixth they scored two runs on a single by Rush, Weaver's bad misjudgment of a fly which went for two bases, and Brader's error. In the ninth they gathered their last when Loll hit Jordan. Mangan erred and Jones and Egan each sacrificed. Final score—10 to 5.

As we said before, the boys played a good game when compared with the last Hawley game and after next Saturday's double bill with Forest City will no doubt be back in their usual stride, and give Hawley a battle on the Saturday following.

We don't think the fans should be discouraged because we have lost two in a row by large scores, as that is one of the great truths of baseball; the best of teams will slump, and a little boosting instead of knocking won't hurt anyone and will do the team more good than anything else.
